Driving up to the door of a devout member of his church, the pastor shook hands with the wife and children and then inquired, "Where is brother Smith?" "Oh," replied his wife, "you will find him back there in his work shop where he stays all the time." When you go in search of God, where are you going to find Him? Like the pastor in seach of brother Smith, you will find Him in His work shop. God is working all the time. He is a working God. When God goes in search of you where will He find you? Will He find you sitting idly by the tremendous amount of work that needs to be done in His kingdom, or will He find you in His work shop, busy all the time, working with God fo rth esalvation of men? Blessed is that man of whom it can be said: "You will find him in God's work shop—that is where he stays."

A bee hunter seeking the source of wild honey will not catch just one bee and release it but he will catch many and release one at a time in different localities. Each bee when it is released will sail upward, find its course home and sail away on a straight line for the hive. It is a safe bet that the hive and wild honey can be found near the place the lines of bees will cross when they are given their liberty in different localities. A bee that is given its liberty will make "a bee line for home." In like manner if you want to find the character of men give them their liberty under different circumstances. When you place a man who has purposed in his heart, like Daniel not to defile himself, in the most trying circumstances, he will make a bee line for his ideal. We know some folks who would not make a "bee line" to purity if they should be given their liberty on "Coney Island." When men have their liberty in the presence of money, pleasure and the allurements of the flesh and yet hold a straight course to right ideals, you can bet your last dollar that you will find character there. How many of you who read these lines never fail to find the "bee line" to right it matters not what your liberties may be?

There are two ways of resting on a bed. One way is to tumble into the middle of it and let all of ourselves rest on it. Another way is to rest a portion of the body on the bed and then let the other portion be in a chair, or be propped against the wall of the room, or perhaps resting on the floor. There is not much rest when only a portion of the body is resting on the bed. We are taught in the Bible that we should "Rest in God." Some few folks tumble into the Christian life soul and body and rest in God with every part of their being. Others are guilty of resting in Him with just a portion of their being. They have just enought of themselves resting and trusting in God to make them miserable. Why not "tumble in" and rest in God all over?

And it came to pass that a man tumbled into a bramble bush and both eyes were scratched out. Realizing his misfortune he ran around on the other side of the bramble bush and tumbled in again and had both eyes scratched in again. Verily, verily I say unto you that is mighty poor "tumbling in."

1935 PEANUT DIVERSION PROGRAM ALMOST READY

Auburn, Ala. Oct. 9.—A peanut diversion program for the 1935 crop is virtually completed and offers are expected to be made soon to contracting producers and to oil millers providing payments for diverting peanuts into oil.

There are two parts to the proposed peanut plan, reports the AAA official. Under the first part of the plan the Secretary of Agriculture will offer to make specified payments to any oil miller or grower who purchases farmers' stock peanuts and crushes them into oil prior to November 16, 1935. The rates of the diversion payment specified in the program are $19 per ton for Virginia type peanuts; $9.50 per ton for Spanish peanuts; and $3 per ton for Runners, subject, however, to minor adjustment. These payments will tend to establish prices to growers during this period for No.1 farmers' stock peanuts at $52.50 per ton for Runner-type peanuts, $60 per ton for Virginias, and $62.50 per ton for Spanish.

Under the second part of the plan the Secretary of Agriculture will invite millers to offer to purchase peanuts after November 15 for not less than $55 per ton for Runners, $62.50 for Virginias, and $65 for Spanish. Each miller will specify in his offer the quantity of peanuts he undertakes to purchase during a given month and the diversion payment whch he will require in connection with these purchases.

MT. CARMEL REVIVAL IS DECLARED BIG SUCCESS

Mt. Carmel Baptist Church has just closed its first revival since it was re-organized in September. It is generally believed that it was the greatest revival that most of us have ever attended. Brother M. Lockhart did the preaching, which was not only sound and well received but inspiring and convincing.

With a charter membership of nineteen members, the church baptized twelve and received three by letter. We were also strongly supported by several good singers from neighboring churches. We feel that our community has been greatly blessed.

Chest Clinic Prove Success Over County

Dr. Kimmey Making Study To Combat Dreaded Disease Here

Interest shown last week in the chest clinic held at the offices of the local health unit to determine whether those examined were suffering from the dread disease of tuberculosis was encouraging, declared Dr. J. M. Kimmey, county health officer, under whose supervision the clinic was conducted

Fifty-four persons, who physicians have reason to fear may be suffers of this malady, visited the offices and were X-Rayed. The cooperation received in this program, Dr. Kimmey declared, is reassuring and with such cooperation by persons who have reason to suppose that they may have contracted tuberculosis will mean much in any effort to stamp it out in this section.

Since coming to this county as health officer several months ago, Dr. Kimmey has been intensely interested in getting underway a program for the control and cure of this disease. He has made several talks before clubs and other organizations in the interest of a program along this line.

Among the ideas that he has sponsored is the conversion of the old Confederate Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek into a sanitorium for the treatment and isolation of patients suffering with tuberculosis. The State Health Department is interested in this project, and with proper cooperation from county and state officials, there is probability that this hope may be realized.

Pictures made at the clinic last Friday have been forwarded to Montgomery, where they will be developed. Dr. R. A. Brown, of the state department staff, will be here in the near future and will conduct an examination of those persons that the X-Ray indicates are sufferers.

Phil Baker Likes Hat Signs 13-Year-Old Girl

"You're Hired: but if you take that hat off, you're fired."

With those words Phil Baker greeted little Emily Vaas when her mother brought her to the comedian's office one day this week to seek a part on the new "Great American Tourist" series starting over the Columbia network on Sunday, September 29, at 7:30 p. m., EST.

Phil had been looking for a feminine heckler to cooperate with Beetle, Bottle, and Agnes Moorehead on the new programs. He had pretty much made up his mind to use a grown-up for the part, when Emily happened along. She got the contract the day she turned thirteen.

"I had never seen or heard the young woman on the air," explains Baker "But the minute I got a look at her I knew she could fill the bill. And that hat she was wearing clinched it."

Though young in years, Emily Vaas is old in radio experience. For four seasons she has been appearing on various network dramatic programs and sketches. She is best known perhaps for her work as a member of the "Vaas Family" broadcasts over NBC. The Baker shows will give her the opportunity to make her debut as a radio comedienne.

This club is using Dixie Triumph, a wilt-resistant cotton, which produces a 15-16 inch staple or longer

People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it! . . . Mrs. Joe G. It takes mild ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette.

During the year ending June 30, 1900, the Government collected from cigarette taxes $3,969,191

Cigarettes give a lot of pleasure to a lot of people.

More cigarettes are smoked today because more people know about them—they are better advertised.

But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

Chesterfield is made of mild, ripe tobaccos. Everything that science knows about is used in making it a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

We believe you will enjoy them.

Need For Books At CCC Camp Here Discussed

Textbooks in various subjects are needed at the CCC camp. Especially needed are texts in English, spelling arithmetic, and citizenship. Texts in almost any subject can be used.

Since the school texts for the state have been changed, the books used last year by the children no longer have any commercal value. Since this is the case. the Camp authorities wish to ask the people of Clanton to give these books for the use of the CCC classes

Books may be brought to the schools by the children and turned over to the principals. and the Company truck will be sent to pick up the books. Or, if anyone with books to give will call 132, the Company truck will be sent drect to the house to get the books.

All who give books for this purpose may be assured of the very great appreciation of the CCC boys, practically none of whom are able to buy books for the courses that they wish to study

Former Co. Supt. Of Education No Better

Physicians treating the Rev. Buford Lawrence, former superintendent of education of Chilton County, for injuries suffered in a fall several weeks ago fear that his chances of thorougly recovering are limited. Although it is hoped that he will soon be able to leave his bed, there is grave doubt that his injures will not prove to be permanent.

A few days ago when he was taken from the cast whch has supported a fractured spine since the accident in June, X-Ray pictures showed that the break had failed to knit. Falling while trying to load an anvil on a wagon Mr. Lawrence suffered two fractures to his spine and has been confined to his bed since.

Appointed superintendent of education here in 1926. he served in this capacity until 1933 when he was succeeded by Luther E. Little.

Wetumpka Noses Out C. C. H. S. Tigers 7-0

The Chilton Tigers fought a hard battle with the Wetumpka Aggies on the local field Friday afternoon.

Much of the color was taken from the game due to both teams trying to get ahead. The local boys handed the Aggies a drubbing in seevral of the departments but could not get the necessary machine-like precision in their offense to chalk up the needed counters.

The local boys should be commended on their defensive stand in several stages of the game. The hard winning of Ermon Johnson and Durwood Williamson was commended on offense while Vernon Robinson and Captain Frank Hogan and the Reynolds boys were very active on defense for Clanton.

The first half of the game was played with zeal; neither team being able to score and not until the third quarter were the Aggies able to register the lone touchdown of the game. After Durwood Williamson's punt was blocked the Aggies took courage and fought and slashed their way to a touchdown. The crowd of Clanton supporters were off par in comparison to ther usual turn out to an occasion of this nature. C.C.H.S. goes to Tallassee next Friday. We are expecting them to bring back the "bacon."

CHRYSLER DEALERS' DELIVERIES PASS MARK FOR YEAR 1934

The week ending September 21 saw retail deliveries of Chrysler and Plymouth cars by Chrysler dealers for the year 1935 pass the mark for the entire calendar year 1934. The mark for 1933 and 1932 had been beaten some time previously.

In the 38 weeks of 1935 to September 21, Chrysler dealers had delivered at retail 116,770 Plymouths and 33,206 Chryslers, a grand total of 149,976 units. The Crysler deliveries reported exceeded the entire year of 1934 by 23.2 per cen, the entire year of 1933 by 25 per cent and the entire year of 1932 by 41 per cent.

Chrysler dealers' Plymouth deliveries for the first 38 weeks represented an increase over their Plymouth deliveries for all of 1934 of 2.1 per cent. They were 23.9 per cent ahead of the entire year 1933 and 171.6 per cent ahead of the entire year 1932. These Plymouth figures represent the Plymouth deliveries by Chrysler dealers only and are in addition to the tremendous Plymouth business done by the DeSotc and Dodge dealer organizations.

In the week ending September 21 Chrysler dealers delivered at retail 1.-695 Plymouths and 548 Chryslers, a remarkable showing for so late in the season.

VANDALISM!

Thief Causes Grief Among Pupils At School

The height of meanness, vandalism or something is shown in the person or persons who recently broke into the grammar school building here and made away with footballs used by the young boys there in their play periods.

Several other items were also stolen it is reported. These items included a quantity of food from the school lunch room, where several underprivileged children are given their lunches daily without cost and through donations.

The CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

OFFERS

$200.00 In Cash Prizes

IN ADDITION TO

LIBERAL COMMISSIONS ON SUBSCRIPTIONS

First Prize $150.00

Second Prize 50.00

FOR SOME

Church, Club or Organization

Here is the plan whereby some church or organization can win one of the two big cash prizes totalling $200.00 to be given by the Chilton County News.

The church or organization wishing to enter the contest, must officially enter by giving its name and the name of a solicitor to be selected by the church or orgaization. These names must be given to Mr. Victor Norris, manager of the campaign, immediately.

All members of the church or organization may solicit subscriptions to the News, but they must be turned over to the official solicitor who will make a report to the manager every Saturday and receive his or her commission on each subscription.

Votes. made out to the church or organization, will be issued to the solicitor each Saturday when a report is made. The church or organization having the largest number of votes at the close of the campaign will receive first prize of $150.00; second largest will receive second prize of $50.00.

20 per - cent commission to solicitors

One of the attractive parts of this campaign is the liberal commission offered to all solicitors taking part. Twenty per cent of what is turned in by the solicitors will be given to them as a commission for their work. This commission, which is really a salary, will be paid each Saturday when the solicitors make their reports to the manager of the campaign.

Make Some Extra Money

This is a splendid opportunity for the solicitors to make some real money in their spare time. Or, it will be worth their while to put full time on this job at such a liberal offer.

START NOW

The time to start is RIGHT NOW. Come in to the News office. Get an official registration blank, your receipt books and start to work for yourself, your church or organization.

The News is easy to sell and the special offer of $1.00 per year during this campaign will add much to the attractiveness of this contest. This applies to new or renewals but only to those persons residing within Chilton or adjoining counties. Outside of this territory the price per year is $2.00.

During this campaign the price of The News will be

$1.00 PER YEAR

-:- HERE ARE THE REGULATIONS -:-

This contest for the two grand prizes of $150.00 and $50.00 is open only to churches and organizations within Chilton County. No one church or organization may enter more than three official solicitors.

The official solicitors must register with the manager of the contest, stating the name of the church or organization they are representing, and receive subscription receipt books. Receipt books will not be given except to official solicitors.

Any or all members of any church or organization in the contest may solicit subscriptions to be turned in to their official solicitors who MUST make a report to the manager each Saturday afternoon not later than four o'clock.

Any individual may enter the contest and receive commissions only. The grand prizes will be awarded to churches or organizations only. The commissions are for the solicitors, either working for themselves or for a church or organization.

Subscriptions to any one person for over four years will NOT be accepted. Subscriptions to persons residing OUTSIDE Chilton or any adjoining county will be $2.00 per year. The special $1.00 offer applies ONLY to residents of Chilton or adjoining counties.

These rules and regulations are subject to change at any time by the publisher of the News. When any question arises, the decision of the manager of the contest and, or, the publisher of the News must be final.

At the close of the campaign, the count of the votes issued to the churches or organizations, to be made by selected judges, will be final.

Votes on the two Grand Prizes will be issued to the official solicitors each Saturday afternoon when reports are made. Commissions will be paid each Saturday also.

Former Republican Endorses AAA And Pres. Roosevelt

The following letter from J. A. Headley, is printed at his request and is taken from the Union-Banner of last week:

From a broken hearted Republican:

Well, it is sad news, but it must come. In looking over your editoral in the Union-Banner at what you have to say about the AAA farm program and your idea about it, I want to give you my idea about it, too. If you had stayed out on the farm and worked away all of your best days, raising all of the cotton that you possibly could, and then couldn't get by, much less make an honest living, then you would want some help somehow or somehow else; so we are getting help now. By our help through the rent and the parity payments, also the price of cotton, we are 100 per cent better off with all the luxuries of life, than we were under Hoover or the Hoover administration. You say, oh, I hear so much to the contrary. Yes, out of folks that have not been raising much cotton. Those folks are just mad now because they had not raised much cotton heretofore. We don't any attention to them, or you when it comes to the cotton program. Oh, I understand your knocking. You just want to keep us Republicans lined up. Well you are doing a great work, so just go after it, you can't beat in the south Well, I just want to tell you one thing I am still a Republican, too, but you and the Hoover bunch will have to put up something better than this administration to get my vote in 1936.

You only want us to go back under the old constitution laws and hold to them without any changes being made Times have changed and I believe in changing the constitution to suit the times, or in other words, amending the constitution so that all can have a decent living and be taken care of You only ask to let's do away with all of this stuff and not receive any of the money, or anything that the government is trying to hand to you. It is all bunk. You will be taxed to death some of these days to pay this money back. Now you know better than that and you know that we know better Until the Republicans quit knocking and try to think of some plan, a better plan than what is just handed down to us, they will stand defeated.

I always have pulled off naked and went hungry to vote for a Republican But my gray hair taught me better than that. If, and when you put up something better, then I will still vote with you.

One word for our great, great president, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Also for our two great Senators who helped to put the cotton program over. Three cheers, also two votes for each in 1936 God help us to remember them.—J. A Headley, Clanton, Ala., Route 4.

Throughout this week Childhood and Youth Week is being observed in our church. It is an annual period when parents and all other adults in the church consider anew their responsibility to growing life in the home, in the church, and in the community. The Children's Division had a program Monday night. The Young People's Division will have a program. The committees assure all that it will be an enjoyable evening. Each family is requested by the refreshment committee to bring a dozen sandwiches. All members of the church who are over 24 years of age and all above that who are not members but consider this church your church home are invited.

Sunday night at 7:00 a dramatic sketch will be given by the Clanton Methodist Church Dramatic Club with Miss Alice Polk, director. The public is invited to this service and all other services of the day. The pastor will speak at the 11:00 service. Immediately after service he will leave for Andalusia where he will teach in a Standard Training School beginning Sunday afternoon and continuing through Friday night. Dr. D. W. Haskew, a former pastor of the Clanton Methodist church is pastor at Andalusia.

The Church School attendance is growing. If you are not in a class join one Sunday. Each Sunday at 9:45 the Church School is in session with D.W. Waite, General Superintendent. Parents with very small children can bring them now and have them cared for. Recently a Nursery Department was organized in which children under four years of age are enrolled. Mrs D. W. Waite is Superintendent, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Newell.

The newly reorganized Epworth League is getting off to a fine start. The young people meet at 6:00 for fifteen minutes social period at which time refreshments are served. Then at 6:15 they have their regular program. All young people from 15 to 23 are invited to join. Mrs. L. E. Dief is the Counselor.

CANE SYRUP PRODUCERS GET NEW ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has developed an adjustment program for commercial sugar cane syrup producers.

A farmer who produced in 1934 200 gallons of sugar cane syrup or more for the market and has sold or has on hand for sale this amount may be able to participate in this program provided he will harvest for syrup in 1935 no more acreage of sugar cane than he harvested for syrup in 1934 If he has more acreage planted in 1935 than in 1934 he may feed the excess cane to livestock and still participate in the program.

Proof Of Sale

It will be necessary for each farmer who signs a contract to furnish a receipt of sales signed by the buyer as proof that he sold the syrup.

The payments will be as follows:

1934 Payments—Ten cents for each gallon in excess of 100 gallons of syrup sold from the sugarcane crop grown in 1934 on the land covered by a contract, provided the sales exceed 20(gallons of sugarcane syrup.

1935 Payments—An amount which when added to the average sales price of sugar cane syrup, as ascertained by the Secretary for each gallon of syrup sold from the sugarcane crop grown in 1935 on the land covered by the contract, which number of gallons shall be determined as follows:

(a) If the number of gallons sold in 1935 equal 88 per cent and does not exceed 100 per cent of the number sold in 1934, he shall be paid on said 88 per cent.

(b) If the number of gallons sold is less than 88 per cent, he shall be paid on the number sold.

This payment will be made as soon as practicable after proof satisfactory to the Secretary of compliance with the terms and conditons of the contract has been submitted to the Secretary of his authorized agent.

Farmers who are interested in this program and can qualify under the above regulations should see the County Agent as soon as possible.

CARD OF THANKS

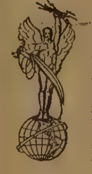
Who Owns The Telephone Company



MORE than eight hundred thousand people own the securities of the Bell Telephone System and most of these folks are small investors. No person owns as much as one-fifth of one per cent of the outstanding stock. The largest single stockholder, an insurance company, has less than one per cent and the average holding is only twenty-eight shares per stockholder.

Nearly half of the stock of the Bell System is owned by women, about two hundred and ten thousand of whom are housewives. There are about ninety thousand clerks and salespeople who have invested their savings in this business and thirty thousand manual laborers.

There are other thousands of farmers, merchants, professional men and others in every State of the Union who have placed their money and faith in the telephone industry. Trust funds for educational institutions, churches, orphanages, and homes for the aged, whose funds must be carefully guarded, have invested large amounts in this business.

No other company is owned by so many different people as is the Bell System.

It is this vast army of small investors who own the telephone business and it is these folks who have, by their sacrifice and saving, supplied the capital to build for you the world's finest and best telephone system. They own the telephone company.

Anything affecting the financial stability of this business directly affects them and the army of telephone workers who are devoting their lives to furnishing you the very best service possible during good times and bad, at a cost to you as low as possible, consistent with financial safety.

Today the Southern Bell company is able to earn only three and seven-tenths per cent on the money invested in the State to furnish you telephone service.

SHOOTING AFFRAY

defense, when he threatened his life and made a motion toward his pocket. Later he stated that John was slapping his hand against his chest, defying him to shoot. One shot from a single-shot 22-calibre rifle ended the quarrel that is alleged to have existed for several months.

Columbus Rosenberry, a neighbor of both men, is also in the county jail, charged with attempt to murder. Claude Moates told officers that Rosenberry fired at him with a shot gun after he had killed his brother. Coroner Martin said that a load from a shot gun had been fired into the wall of the porch, near where Moates claims he was standing. Roseberry is nursing a wounded left arm, where a bullet from Moates' rifle struck him.

Several month ago, officers were told. Thelma and Geneva Moates, daughters of Claude Moates, left their father's home and went to live with their unmarried uncle. Moates said that he had repeatedly tried to persuade them to return home, because, he said, his brother drank consistently and the general behavior around the place was undesirable.

About noon Sunday, John drove up in front of Claude's home. Mrs. Laura Moates, 70-year-old mother of both men rushed out to the car, asking her son to take her for a ride.

Claude declared that he asked him to leave and shot him when he refused, threatening to "get you if you don't get me first."

COUNTY BUDGET

tem, any commissioner who exceeds his budget more than $300 during the six months will have his salary and the salaries of all of his overseers held up until such time as this overcharge has been cleared up, it was explained this week by Probate Judge J. Lee Smith in discussing the provisions of the new regulations.

"The commissioners feel that this will be a protection, not only to the tax payers but to each commissioner against the expenditure of more funds than his budget calls for," Judge Smith explained. Under the system which was set up a few months ago, it has been hard for the commissioners to hold their expenses within the budget, it was explained. In many cases the overseers exceeded the amounts they should have spent during a given time The new regulation will put a stop to this, for the overseers will face the possibility of having their pay withheld if they persist in running over their monthly allowance.

It is understood that each commissioner favored the adoption of this regulation and when a vote was asked for, it was unanimous.

CONTEST

while the field is ripe for new and renewal subscriptions to the News.

The special subscription offer of one dollar per year is adding greatly to the attractiveness of this campaign in which all persons soliciting subscriptions are given twenty per cent of all monies collected by them.

There has been a little misunderstanding in regard to the commissions allowed all solicitors. This means that all persons who have entered their name as a solicitor with the manager of the contest, will be paid twenty per cent of what they sell on each Saturday afternoon when reports are made at the News office.

The two grand prizes, totalling $200.00 are for the churches or organizations who officially enter solicitors to represent them. In other words, the twenty per cent commission is paid to all solicitors whether they be representing some church or organization or are working for themselves. However no solicitor working individually will receive votes on the two grand prizes.

The commission is an added attraction for those who get out and sell subscriptions, new ones or renewals. If your church or organization is not entered in this contest, get them interested NOW. Some church or organization is going to receive $150.00 in cash from the Chilton County News. Turn to the full page announcement in the News this week and read more about this.

Gore is said to have told officers that his companions atttempted to take his truck to go over in the western section of the county, and when he refused to let them have it, they struck him over the head with a pistol. Houston McGuire, he told officers, struck him first. He declared that he did not know whether or not the other boys hit him.

Several hours elapsed before he was taken to a doctor and he is said to have lost considerable blood. Physicians declined to say whether his injuries are thought to be dangerous.

Suit Filed In Death Of Joe Reynolds Here Last October

-o-

A damage suit was filed in the office of Circuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo Tuesday by the law firm of Reynolds & Reynolds against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company for $10,000 for alleged damages in the death of Joe Reynolds, who was found in an unconscious condition on the railroad tracks, near the overhead pass in Clanton, on the morning of October 7, 1934

The youth never regained consciousness, dying several days later in the Central Alabama Hospital here. A broken place in the skull about the size of the face of an ordinary hammer was found when he was examined.

Two companions, who were seen with Reynolds the night that he was fatally injured, were arrested and held for investigation. but the grand jury failed to return any indictments.

Reynolds. an employe. of the local textile mill, was found in an unconscious condition by Raymond (Blondie) Taylor, service station employe, as he came to his work on the morning of October 7.

Officers investigating the case at the time found that the ground near where Reynolds was found bore traces of a teriffic struggle, but it was never known whether Reynolds made the marks in the earth after being struck or whether they were made by someone who attacked him.

FARMERS WANT AAA SET-UP CHANGED

Post Office Dedication Is Set For Friday

SHRINERS WILL GATHER HERE FOR PROGRAM

Big Jubilee Is Planned For Friday; Clanton Is Playing Host

The Shriner's jubilee to be staged in Clanton next Friday is expected to be one of the most gala events seen in this city in many years, according to J. Mell Martin and other local Shriners in charge of the arrangements for the day's program.

Coming to Clanton from all sections of the State, at least 150 of the mystic knights wil attend the festival and join in the program for the dedication of Clanton's new $55.000 Post Office building, which has been recently completed and will be occupied within a few days.

With Col. W. P. Screws, potentate his Divan, the uniformed bodies, and scores of other members of the order led by the Alcazar Temple Band, a parade on the city streets here will be one of the most imposing features of the program. Assembling in front of the new post office, the procession will go along the paved highway to the Upchurch corner and will parade through the business section, reassembling at the post office for the dedication program.

As guests of the local Shrine Club, a special program of entertainment is being planned to follow the completion of the post office dedication program climaxed with a barbecue supper and informal gathering at J. Mell Martin's camp on beautiful Lake Mitchell Friday evening.

"Members of the Clanton Shrine Club appreciate the interest being shown by fellow Shriners throughout the state in coming here and helping us to make this dedication program a success, and we extend to them a most hearty welcome, feeling that when we do so we are expressing the sincere sentiment of the Clanton citizenhip," Mr. Martin declared.

C.C.H.S. Loses To Tallassee; Score 18 To 6

The boys of Chilton County High School lost a hard fought game in the first night game they have been privileged to participate in.

Although outweighted in almost every department and playing under adverse conditions, the local boys were a determined group that fought a good fight.

In the first quarter the heavier tigers from Tallassee were able to push over two touchdowns. Our boys came back in the second quarter and made a good showing by not letting the Tallassee team score in this quarter. C. C. H. S boys tried their aerial attacks with some success, and were able to gain consistently through Tallassee's line.

In the third quarter Tallassee received another break to pave the way for their other touchdown.

The local boys on a beautiful off-tackle play were able to chalk up their first and only touchdown due to the good blocking and swift feet of Ermon Johnson.

The outstanding players for Clanton on offense were: Ermon Johnson "Lefty" Robinson, and Durwood Williamson. The defense play was for the first time under par in the line. The line-up on both sides was as follows:

LOCAL COUNTY OFFICES ARE CHANGED MON

Housing Problem Is Eased When Offices Are Moved Around

Second Meeting Gets Frank Expressions From Audience

Opinions Take "About Face" When Open Meeting Held In Afternoon; Open Discussion Was "Refused" In First Meeting

Resolutions Call For "Repeal Or Drastic Changes"

DISSATISFACTION IS HEARD ON MEETING

Apparently some farmers of Chilton County, if one is to judge from the vote of the most one-sided politically-planned demonstration ever staged in this county, are ready again for the "Hoover Prosperity" and five-cent cotton.

In a meeting at the courthouse Wednesday morning, called and stacked for the purpose of protesting against the AAA Cotton Control Program without discussion, a group of approximately 750 Chilton County farmers voted for "repeal or drastic changes" in the Bankhead Act, declaring that they are "dissatisfied with the present control methods."

Presiding at the meeting was W. L Sanders, employe of the local cotton mill and former defeated candidate on the Republican ticket for member of the State Legislature. who refused to permit discussion of the Act on the floor. After a motion had been made for discussion on the subject, Chairman Sanders put before the house another motion, made after the first, and never allowed a vote on the first motion, calling for "open-minded discussion."

Abruptly the chairman called for a motion for adjournment, after former Sheriff W. H. Gillespie had whispered in his ear. He denied, however, that the former sheriff informed him that a delegation from Auburn had arrived and were entering the courthouse. He also denied that he was afraid to let the matter be discussed.

Although the resolutions, read by Mr. Sanders, proposed to call for either "amendment or repeal," the wording was such that it is feared that the audience failed to recognize that the vote was in reality "for repeal." Although it is generally believed that the resolutions read in the meeting were

Courthouse Filled At Meeting In The Afternoon

DR. L. N. DUNCAN IS HEARD BY CROWD

The majority of 600 farmers, gathered at the courthouse Wednesday afternoon in the second meeting of the day for the purpose of expressing their opinion regarding the AAA Cotton Control Program, voted almost unanimously for the retention of the Act provided certain alleged irregularities and injustices are corrected to give every cotton grower a more nearly equal showing.

With the majority of the audience Wednesday afternoon, composed of those people who Wednesday morning condemned the program in its present form in an approximate 10 to 1 vote the poll in the second meeting was overwhelmingly in favor of the retention of AAA program with amendments. The chief source of discontent seems to eminate from the allotment, many believing that they were not given an equal showing with their neighbors.

Even those who in the forenoon bitterly opposed the continuance of the Act, about faced in the second session and declared that they recognized the absolute necessity of some control method to prevent the supply from running away with demand.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the Alabama Extension Service, addressed the group, explaining in detail the aims back of the program, admitting that it is far from perfect and made a plea with the people to study it carefully before assigning the entire accomplishments made in the past three years to oblivion by rejecting the program.

Every man connected with the program, even Senator Bankhead himself recognizes that some improvements are essential to the continued success of the program, he said. "But we must not sink the only ship in sight in this economic storm that is upon us," he declared. Citing the law of supply and demand, Dr. Duncan told his listeners that it is absolutely necessary to have some system of curtailment. If the supply runs away with the demand there is going to be trouble for every one. "You can not change this law of supply and demand, we must adjust ourselves to it."

Leaders of the morning declared at the afternoon session that they did not wish to destroy the program, but wanted it amended so that everyone would have an equal break. No one can blame them for this attitude, but Dr. Duncan cautioned his listeners not to allow petty politicians to make a political football of this program, endangering the only visualized for which they can hope in this hour of peril.

"There is no denying that much progress has been made in the country as a whole, but there are certain cases no doubt, where the program has worked a hardship upon some. It is our aim—our hope—to remedy these conditions and have all cooperate for the promotion of a greater program in the future, guaranteeing the farmers of the South an equal footing with industrial workers in the fight for a living."

The Unlighted Wagon

Farmers and others who drive unlighted wagons on the highways at night take chances of causing disastrous wrecks by being run down by motor vehicles that are entirely unnecessary. While traffic laws usually require that wagons carry lights at night, disregard of this requirement is very widespread.

It is some trouble to keep a lantern or other light ready for use at nightfall, but many occupants of both wagons and automobiles have met death or serious injury because of a failure to take this simple precaution.

Those who drive horse-drawn vehicles should realize that the carrying of lights is for their own protection, as well as for the protection of motorists. In fact, the danger to the wagon driver is the greater. There is no excuse for driving an unlighted wagon after dark.

An Expensive Lesson Well Learned

The best of all teachers is experience. It is often expensive—but, if the lesson is thoroughly learned, it is usually worth the price.

Experience has taught the average American much about how not to invest his savings—and, of equal importance, how to invest them.

He has learned that the average individual has little chance of investing safely for himself. The promise of great profits is appealing—but not when subsequent events prove that they are to be earned at the risk of his principal. And he has seen the value of securities he once believed to be gilt-edged, tumble to almost nothing under the impact of depression.

Today many millions of these average citizens are pursuing different and wiser investment courses than they ever thought of a few years back. They are turning their money over to agencies which can be trusted to handle it properly—to invest it safely—and to increase its worth gradually and soundly.

We are beginning to understand that security must come first—a lesson unfortunately learned at the price of untold dollars.

Liberty

"All intelligent laws restrain men from injuring one another yet leave them free to regulate their own pursuits. But ruthless men resent that interpretation of liberty. Liberty, in their view, is unhampered license, and when their actions are questioned they have a habit of pointing triumphantly to the Constitution. Most of the bitterness against President Roosevelt comes from this camp. His efforts to afford the average man and his wife a decent chance at their guarantee of life, liberty and happiness infuriate the modern tories as the Declaration of Independence infuriated the tories of old."—Chicago Times (Ind.)

"In Search Of A Soul"

"President Roosevelt has shown courage, initiative, imagination; no one can find these qaulities in the confused murmurs of dissent of which alone the Republicans show themselves capable. They are a party in search of a soul, unable to find issues of difference with the President which would enable them to discover a recepitive audience among the electorate."—Harpers Magazine.

The Governor And Safety On Alabama's Highways

While our Governor Bibb Graves is interested in many things relative to the welfare of his people, one of the most outstanding moves he is making is the creation of a safety movement throughout the state's highways in regard to traffic.

The time is here, nay, has been here, when something should be done to curb the tremendous amount of carelessness displayed by a large number of drivers of motor vehicles on the highways and roads of Alabama.

The appointment recently, of Lawrence Tipton of Selma, as Director of Safety for Alabama was timely and while Mr. Tipton is a compartively young man, the energy and brains are there. We know that Mr. Tipton will use his every effort to make of his new position, one of the most outstanding of its kind. Too, we warm up to the Governor a bit more for his selection of a young man to hold this responsible position. This is not the first time the Governor has selected a young man to fill various appointments. Others appointed by him are succeeding, so will Mr. Tipton.

Teaching Farm Cooperation

According to a law passed by the Wisconsin legislature, cooperative marketing must now be taught in all Wisconsin state schools. Wisconsin is the first state to take such a step. The superintendent of public instruction and the dean of the college of agriculture are to prepare outlines and other text materials for guidance of teachers of cooperative marketing courses.

This action, by one of our foremost agricultural states, well illustrates the importance of agricultural cooperation in the life of the modern farmer. So vital has cooperative marketing become, that the farmer who does not join in the movement is almost always in an impossible economic position. Lacking the knowledge and the machinery that will enable him to produce in accordance with demand, and to achieve the best price for what he sells, he must fight a losing battle with the middleman. When a cooperative sells for the farmer, and brings into play bargaining powers as great as those of the distributor, a fair price must result.

When The Dark Angel Rides

The motor vehicle is no respector of persons.

Hardly a week passes without newspaper headlines telling of the sudden death of some statesman, industrial leader or other celebrity.

A few recent names on the roster of those who died because of carelessly or recklessly driven motor vehicles, comes readily to mind. Not long ago, Colonel T. E. Shaw, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," was killed when he fell from his motorcycle, which he was driving at 80 miles an hour. Only a week or two ago the wife of the Secretary of Interior perished when the car in which she was riding at high speed skidded in loose gravel and overturned. Just before, the beautiful Queen Astrid of Belgium met her death when her husband, driving the roadster in which she was riding, looked away from the highway at a road map, and ran headlong into a tree.

These tragedies become known in a million households, because of the prominence of the victims. But they are no worse, or more tragic, than the thousands of similar deaths which occur annually and make, instead of headlines, a mere item on an inside page of the newspapers. Recklessess, carelessness, incompetence—these are the scarlet trinity, which cause so much needless grief, so much unnecessary suffering, so great an economic waste. When one of them takes the wheel, death rides, too. The Dark Angel does not always strike—but there is a limit to how long he can be withheld.

Care, caution, competence—these constitute the trinity which can pevent automobile accidents, major and minor ones alike. The issue must be put squarely up to each driver—it is purely an individual problem, and will always remain so. Traffic laws and enforcement can do nothing if the public will not cooperate. Will you?

Looking over into the front of my neighbor's home in the early morning hours saw an old dog walking around the house howling at the top of his voice. Perhaps the dog had lost his bone, or he may have had a difference with a pup in the back yard, or peradventure he had a sudden attack of appendicitis. I observed that he would walk a few steps and then stop and sing his doleful song. He made his journey all around the house howling as he traveled. The howling hound reminded me very much of some folks. They travel around in their homes howling, they go out into the yard and howl; they go down town and they howl. It is always something wrong with the weather, something wrong with the government, something wrong with society, or something wrong with the church. You howling humans howl away until you wear your howler out. The sooner the better.

I had to make a journey on Sunday through the country. In the travel of the day I passed road crews at work. Their excuse for breaking the Sabbath was that much rain had fallen the week before and they could not afford to lose a beautiful day on the job. Not long since I had to journey on the Sabbath again, and everywhere the fields were white with open cotton. The week before had been wet and but little cotton had been picked. Be it forever to the credit of the farmers that not a hand was seen in the fields picking cotton. Our farmers are the most law abiding set of citizenship in our American nation. It is no more harm in the sight of God to plow on Sunday or to pick cotton on the Sabbath, than it is to scrape roads, build bridges, or sell goods on the Sabbath. The command of God is "Remember the Sabbath day—(Rain or shine, contract or no contract) to keep it holy."

You may think that a baby has no sense when it is born but you are mistaken. That baby is a philosopher long before it can speak words of wisdom. While chewing on its finger if it did not regard the pain and suffering caused by the bite, it would soon chew its fingers off. To be sure the chewing of the finger helps the feelings of the gums and helps to bring the teeth through the skin, but the baby knows that too much hard chewng is not good for the finger. It would be a joy if the grown up babies of the human race would exercise such philosophy in their living. They know that too much drink, too much wild living is not good for them, but they are so foolish that they rush right on in wickedness until they "Chew off" their fingers. When will we learn the philosophy of the baby and refrain from injuring ourselves even though we desire a degree of pleasure in what we are doing?

A young lady in a community where I preached met with an accident in coming down a stairway and sprained her ankle. She adobted a crutch and used it for weeks. She observed that people —"Babies" her and waited on her in a most unusual devotion while she was on crutches and she conceived the idea of adopting the crutches permanently. The attention that she received because of her crutches pleased her vanity and she thought to make them her constant companions. That leads me to say that the most of us have deformities in our lives that we could soon dispose of if we would force ourselves into personal cultivation. We are prone to hobble around, displaying our troubles, our ailments, and then cling to them because the attention that we derive from them, appeals to our vanity. A crutch is a good thing when needed, but it is a curse when it is not needed.

After receiving help from the mother hen a little chick feels cramped in its shell. However, that little chick does not cease to grow. When it grows to be too big for its shell, then the shell bursts and the little fowl comes out into a larger place. Remember, that the chick never comes out until it becomes too large for the shell. On every hand we hear people complaining about not being able to climb, not being promoted to larger fields of service. The best method of alvancement is to outgrow your present position. When we grow to be too large for our present position then the shell is most surely to break and we go out to something better. Try to outgrow your shell.

FARMERS PROFIT BY GETTING FOREST PRODUCTS APPRAISED

Auburn, Ala.,—Farmers will profit by getting a careful estimate of the forest products to be sold, by obtaining prices or bids from several parties, and by securing a written agreement. signed by both parties, advises D. J. Weddell, assistant professor of forestry.

"Many examples could be given where the seller of a block of timber has received double the original offer after the tract to be sold has been estimated and the amount to be sold definitely known," he says.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night Miss Kathryn Foss gave a voice recital at Thorsby Institute. The program given was the same as the one that she gave at Piedmont in her graduating recital. She sang in German, Swedish, French Italian and English. She had memorized the songs and put a great deal of expression into her singing. She sang some very difficult songs with apparent ease and accuracy of tone Miss Foss was accompanied by her Piedmont college class-mate, Mrs. Milton White of Phoenix City, Alabama.

Monday morning at chapel Dr. Henry J. Bennett, a brother of Mrs. F. B Ensminger and a returned missionary from Western Japan, gave a most interesting talk on Japan. Thorsby Institute is fortunate from time to time in having a variety of speakers at the daily chapel programs.

A week ago Monday, Mrs. Janie Sutlive, mother of Mr. J. H. Sutlive, who is a teacher at Thorsby Institute, gave a talk at chapel about New London Connecticut, where she had been with her son and family for a year. She saw many interesting things which she told about.

George Popwell Badly Injured In Accident

George Popwell, 21, seriously injured last Thursday aftrnoon when the truck which he was driving collided with a tractor and road machine on the Clanton-Selma Highway near Plantersville is believed by physicians treating him to be slowly improving.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, staff physician and surgeon at the Central Alabama Hospital where he is being treated, declared Monday that he believed that the young man's condition is slightly improved, but said that he is not yet out of danger.

Suffering internal injuries, a broken pelvis, and a fractured left hip. young Popwell has been in a critical condition and at one time his chances for recovery were limited, it was feared by hospital aides. However, Sunday he began to show signs of improvement and began to take food.

En route to Clanton from Selma with a load of brick, the truck struck the road machinery when rounding a curve going down the Welch Hill. near Plantersville, it was not possible to see the tractor until it was too near to stop before striking it.

Young Popwell was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital by a Martin & Sons ambulance, where it was found that he had suffered severe internal injuries, a broken pelvis, and a slight fracture to his left hip. X-Ray pictures showed the bone fracture, but did not reveal the internal injuries and it was not known at the first examination that his condition was critical as it was later found to be.

The injured man is the son of Walter Popwell, prominent farmer and Clanton business man, and is a son-in-law of Dr. V. J. Gragg.

"Peter Grimm" At The Wadesonian Tonight

A treat is in store for the theatregoers of Clanton tonight for it is then that the popular Wadesonian Theatre shows "The Return of Peter Grimm" the most talked of picture on the screen this year, presents Lionel Barrymore in the story of a man who returned from the spirit world to redeem the mess he had made of life.

Heart-sick at the tragedy and unhappiness he had brought upon those he loved by his tyrrany while on earth. Peter Grimm returns to his mortal abode in an effort to restore peace and joy. For a time he is unable to make his presence known, but the highly tuned instincts of his old collie dog and the eyes of a dying child whom he loved, finally pierce the celestial veil and he is enabled through them to rectify his mistakes and restor harmony and well being to his family.

Never in his long career of stage and screen success has Barrymore had a more delightful and impressive role than that of Peter Grimm.

Other favorites in the capable cast include Helen Mack, Edward Ellis, Allen Vincent. James Bush, George Breakston, Greta Meyer, Ethel Griffies and Donald Meek.

Chevrolet Wins 1st Choice of Show Space

For the ninth consecutive time, the Chevrolet Motor Company has won the right to first choice of display at the New York Automobile Show. The distinction came to Chevrolet for the first time in 1928, and Chevrolet has successfully held onto it ever since.

The priority is based on the dollar volume of sales of members of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association the successor to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the Show for so many years. The association member with highest dollar volume gets first choice of space.

Last year's show, held under the auspices of the New York dealers' organization, followed the same method of allocating first choice of space.

LIVING COSTS UP, SURVEY REVEALS

WASHINGTON—(P)—An advance in the living costs of wage earners and low salaried workers is reported Monday by the Labor Department.

After a survey of 32 cities covering the four-month period ending July 15, the department said the items purchased by this consumer group had increased 2.7 per cent above their June, 1934, cost and 8 per cent above June, 1933.

As compared with the period ending March 15, the department said food, rent and household furnishing goods were up a fraction while clothing and miscellaneous items dropped slightly. It reported the most marked change as a 4.9 per cent decline in fuel and light costs.

25% REDUCTION IN RESIDENTIAL ELECTRICITY COST IN TWO YEARS

The United States Department of Labor continues to put out figures showing the steadily mounting costs of living. The only items showing apreciable declines are fuel and light.

It is interesting to know that in Alabama the average rate paid by the residential customer of the Alabama Power Company has declined 25 per cent. Here is at least one bright ray in the encircling gloom. This drop in rate costs is also being reflected in increased demands for other electrical services.

F.F.A. Holds First Regular Meeting

The Clanton Chapter of the Future Farmers of America held its first regular meeting in the Chilton County High School building on Monday, October 21, at 7 p.m.

The meeting was called to order by President Thomas Gandy. All members were present except Horace Kendrick.

The assembly discussed and outlined a program of work for the school year. Among the items listed were the beautification of the new vocational agriculture building, the improvement of the campus by setting out shrubbery improvement of the shower system in the gymnasium, laying off of a tennis and volley ball court, and if possible the establishment of a nursery. By attaining these ends the chapter seeks to prove that it is an organization of which Clanton and Chilton County High School should feel justly proud.

Although the chapter was organized with the attainment of the above-mentioned goals in mind, it intends to take part in various social activities, including parties, picnics, banquets, etc.

After the business, financial and social discussions were closed, the president appointed several members to serve on the program and social committes.

During the remaining minutes until adjournment the assembly was entertained by the witty and humorous remarks of Joseph Maddox and the Popwell twins.

THE NEW FORD V·8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is new about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but, after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—Steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates $5\frac{1}{2}$ gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermo-syphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvres permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around at no extra cost. Hundreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, if you like, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Now on display by Ford dealers.

AAA MEETING

drawn by the editor of the Union-Banner and Percy M. Pitts, Republican attorney, shortly after the closing of the meeting Mr. Ptts declared that he was not informed well enough on the subject to discuss it intelligently.

It is estimated that at least 500 persons were unable to get into the courthouse auditorium, but solicitations of their signatures on a resolution asking for "repeal or drastic changes in the present AAA program" was made.

In spite of the fact that the income of Chilton County farmers has increased since 1932 from $439,500 to $1,103,134.87, there was an almost 10 to 1 vote against the program. Circulars giving these facts were distributed through the audience.

Following is a copy of the resolution adopted unanimously:

RESOLUTIONS

We, the undersigned citizens of Chilton County, Ala., agree that the Agricultural Adjustment Act, in its present form, is unjust, that it is lowering the standard of living among small farmers and cite the following:

1. That the allotment plan based on the 5-year average is unjust, because:

(a) False reports were given and accepted as to the base average in order to secure a larger allotment.

(b) Farmers who have already cut to a reasonable acreage were asked to reduce the same percentage as those with large crops.

(c) A farmer's ability to use large amounts of fertilizer during the 5-year base period entitled him to a higher yield per acre, which is out of proportion with smaller farmers, which condition amounts to a penalty on poverty and a bounty for financial ability.

2. That the passage of any law discriminating between adjoining farms is unjust.

3. That the collection of taxes to the amount of 50% of the farmer's income from cotton above a small allotment is unjust, compared with the small income taxes paid by industrial wage earners and capitalists.

4. That under the present reduction program 60% of the farmers of Alabama are allowed to sell less than three bales of cotton tax free, and that this amount is insufficient to secure a decent living.

5. That the Adjustment Act has reduced the farmer's purchasing power by limiting his marketable commodities and by the rise in the cost of living caused from such reductions and limitations.

3. That the collecton of taxes to support an agency to increase production and at the same time such agency use its authority and influence to prohibit the sale of such production is inconsistent.

7. That all taxes assessed and collected from a farmer's income is a direct income tax. Under the AAA this tax is 50%. which is out of proportion with other income taxes.

8. That the reduction program has greatly hampered our foreign trade and caused an increase in the importation of foreign goods to take the place of those taken out of production in this country.

The above reasons are our honest convictions, and we feel that the program, in its present form, does not deserve our continued support. Therefore we, this 23rd day of October, 1935, in mass meeting assembled, do pledge our support for the repeal of this act. or for drastic changes which will bring about a more fair and proportionate division among producers. We solicit the support of every liberty loving citizen, irrespective of political affiliations to join with us in this, our honest effort to effect such repeal or change, in the interest of the majority of cotton producers. We offer the following suggestions for proposed changes:

SUGGESTIONS

1. That each farm allotment be based on the number of dépendants upon that farm, and that the 5-year base allotment plan be discontinued.

2. That the amount of taxes collected on excess cotton be in proportion to State and National income taxes.

3. That a national embargo be placed on all imports of raw cotton, manufactured cotton goods, or any and all byproducts of cotton, until such time as domestic cotton production is exhausted.

We respectfully petition our Senator Hon. John H. Bankhead, author of the cotton control act, to use his influence in having the present cotton control plan repealed, or the above changes or like changes, enacted.

OFFICES MOVED

door to the new post office; the office of Miss Icie Belle Cobert, attendance officer, too, is in this building.

This solves a housing problem that has long been a paramount issue in these departments. For many years they have not had adequate quarters to do the best possible work. With the erection recently of a temporary addition to the Potts building and the acquiring of new quarters for the superintendent of education, adequate space has been given all, it is believed.

Dr. C. O. Lawrence, prominent Clanton physician, recently moved his offices from the Upchurch Building into the new brick structure next door to the new post office. This is one of the nicest little office buildings in the city and both Supt. Luther E. Little and Dr. Lawrence have ideal suites, occupying the entire building.

New Ford V-8 Drawing Large Crowds Here

Last Saturday brought a scene at the Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers very much like a circus. But it was no circus. It was merely the crowd viewing the new 1936 model of the Ford V-8 which was on display in their showrooms.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public by Clanton Motors to view and inspect the new models in the 1936 Ford V-8.

The program for the day calls for a parade and music by the Alcazar Temple Shrne Band at 10:30 o'clock starting from in front of the new building and parading through the business section, reassembling at the post office for the dedication.

Words of welcome and appreciation will be given "On Behalf of the City" by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, "Behalf of the County," Probate Judge J. Lee Smith; "Behalf of the Clanton Kiwanis Club," W. M. Invocation by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptst Church, and the bendiction will be given by Dr. A. E Middlebrooks, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church.

An inspection of the building will complete the program. Mr. Dohrman will conduct this inspection, explaining in detail the construction of the structure.

VERBENA WON OVER ISABELLA LAST FRIDAY

Verbena won their fourth game of the season last Friday by defeating Isabella's big eleven by one touchdown. Isabella had one of the best lines that Verbena has played. Verbena made very little through the line. Both teams played hard, making about the same number of first downs.

Verbena scored in the first quarter when Marshall Williams started on an end run and cut back off tackle for forty yards and went across the goal line standing up. There was some good blocking on this play. The extra point was made good by Robert Williams on a straight buck to the right

The outstanding players for Verbena were Marshall Williams, Reeder Cathey and Martin Waller.

Verbena has an open date for a game October 25 and would like to fill it if some team near has an open date.

POST OFFICE NOW IN NEW BUILDING

PARADE OPENS FINE PROGRAM

Crowd Of 2,000 Hear Interesting Program Last Friday

Approximately 2,000 people gathered in Clanton Friday for the dedication of the new $55,000 Clanton Postoffice, which was recently completed and will be occupied within a few days. W. B. Wooten, inspector in charge of postoffices, and Congressman Hobbs spoke.

Mr. Wooten traced the progress of this community, measured by the statistical records in the Postoffice Department, beginning with the establishment of the first postoffice under the name of Goose Pond, January 31, 1871. Alfred Baker was the first postmaster and this territory was known then as Baker County.

One Mail A Week

It became Clanton May 4. 1871. At this time, Mr. Wooten told his audience there was only one mail each week, supplied by a star route from Wetumpka. The mail left Wetumpka every Friday at 8 a. m. and arrived at 12 noon the next day: this star route was 46 miles each way.

Mr. Wooten represented the Postoffice Department in the absence of Postmaster Gen. Farley, who was scheduled to speak.

Judge Hobbs addressed the group that filled the street and a vacant lot in front of the new postoffce, paying high tribute to Congressman W. B. Oliver for his efforts for Clanton and Chilton

A. Lipscomb of the Department of Alabama, will explain the recently enacted pension laws affecting Spanish War Veterans and their dependents; also the purposes and aims of the Department of Alabama, and the benefits this Organization has for every Spanish War Veteran and their dependents.

The Department is calling on each veteran of '98 to volunteer again so that we may mutually assist each other through our organization. The Department also feels that it is the patriotic duty of every Spanish War Veteran to keep alive the patriotism of '98, and perpetuate the memory of that War in American history.

Every Spanish American War Veteran, his dependents, or widow, are invited to attend this meeting and urged to invite others to come.

For The Next Many Years We Go

It will be amusing to see how many persons will start, or even go down to the old post office building to get mail, send mail or buy stamps since the office has moved to its modern government building.

But, as soon as you become accustomed to the new route to the post office there is little possibility of you having to change again. For the next many years we go to the new post office building for it was built not only to serve at present but for years to come. Yes, Clanton can now grow "up to its post office." So, don't forget, the P.O. has moved.

Corn-Hog Program Is Given Approval Vote

Program To Bring About Big Increase In Hog Prices Next Year; Farmers Give Large Vote To Hold Program

AAA officials, expressing delight at the overwhelming endorsement of a 1936 corn-hog control program in a nation-wide farm referendum, made plans Monday to increase pork production next year.

They indicate the increase would be 25 to 30 per cent over this year. Present high prices of pork have been much under dscussion recently, with critics of the New Deal stressing them, and AAA officials saying that the shortage of hogs was caused by the drought, not by the AAA policy of controlled production.

Farmers in 48 states voted in the referendum Saturday. Incomplete returns showed that 363, 705 favored an adjustment program in 1936 to 63.438 opposed. These totals included both farmers who signed contracts to control their production in return for government benefit payments, and others who did not.

Commending the producers for their favorable vote, Wallace said:

"They realize their triple duty: To consumer; to the cause of soil conservation, and to the maintenance of a fair income for themselves."

Chilton County farmers voted for the continuance of the Corn-Hog Program of the AAA at a special election held last Thursday at the office of County Agent J. W. Fant, when the final count showed that the vote was a 53-1 majority favoring the continuance of the program.

These elections throughout the country met with a similar endorsement The vote in the nation was approximately 7-1 in favor of the prgoram, it is understood.

Hunting Licenses Sales Higher Than Average

Squirrels and other game in this section had better be hunting the "tall timber," for indications are that there will be a lot of shooting in the residential and business sections of animal land this year.

Hunting license sales are far higher than for a corresponding period for several years, according to records at the probate office. These records show that 822 county hunting licenses and 90 state licenses have been issued.

Early this week the number of business license issued this year was 359; 750 automobile tags and 1140 drivers licenses have been issued. Judge J. Lee Smith declared that is almost double the number for the corresponding period in 1934, which he considers indicative that business conditions are rapidly improving.

COUNTY AGENT SAYS TIME TO PLANT VETCH

Drought Holds Up The Planting Of Winter Cover Crops

Best results from Austrian Winter peas and Hairy Vetch are obtained when planting is done between September 15 and October 15, but due to the drought Chilton County farmers have not been able to plant during this period.

When it is impossible to do a thing at the best time then it is necessary to take a second best. We have had rains in most of the county this week and I believe it will be advisable to go ahead with the planting of peas and vetch.

Let's not forget that peas or vetch will increase the yield of corn 20 bushels per acre and will double the yield of cotton on average land in Chilton County.

You will need 30 pounds of Austrian Winter Peas or 20 pounds of Hairy Vetch seed per acre. and remember that it is essential to inoculate the seed.

There are several good methods used in planting. Anyway you plant provided you cover the seed two or three inches deep will usually give good results. It is better on sandy land, especially, to cover your seed in such a way that you will have plenty of drainage, example Sow your seed broadcast and plow the dirt to the cotton row, leave the middle lower than the row.

Oats make a good winter cover crop Oats planted in the fall on an average make considerable more feed than oats planted in the spring. In addition to feed fall sown oats protect our land during the winter.

Austrian Wnter Peas, Vetch and Oats may be purchased in Clanton and probably other places in Chilton County.

—J. W. Fant, County Agent

Goodgame Installs New Sprinkler Idea

The first and only sprinkler system to be installed in Clanton is now ready at the large cotton warehouse of Burns Goodgame, near West End.

The sprinkler covers the entire warehouse where cotton bales are stored In case of fire, the system is so arranged that the slight turning of a valve, conveniently located, sets the entire system into operation, throwing a steady and heavy shower of water in all directions. The system was installed by Macie Jones of Clanton.

Mr. Goodgame is to be congratulated on this step to cut down on the hazards of fire and protecting his property as well as that of others.

Gas War Of The Future

It is evident that chemistry will play an important part in future wars. Any program which does not provide adequate means for meeting gas attacks and other forms of chemical warfare is sadly deficient in a branch of military activity which may prove of vital importance.

And, inasmuch as the best defense is a vigorous offensive, our forces should be prepared to carry the fight into the enemy's camp.

While the use of poisonous gases is banned by the nations which were parties to the arms reduction conference held in 1922, similar agreements were in effect before the World War, yet that did not prevent the employment of these destructive agencies when the urge of necessity came. As a matter of fact, all the leading nations today are busy with the development of chemical war equipment, regardless of their pledges not to use it.

Dr. James F. Norris, former president of the American Chemical Society, sounded a note of warning on this subject when he said: "When the final pressure comes a nation will use any means available to save its life." He urged that our Army continue to study and develop the means of chemical warfare, with adequate appropriations for the purpose, as other armies are doing.

Of course we do not want war. We did not want the last one. But another war may come—is almost certain to come sooner or later. We should make reasonable preparations to meet any emergency by developing every branch of modern warfare. To fail in this would be to invite disaster, should war unhappily be forced upon us.

Admiral Hobson's Candidacy

Our friend, Hubert Baughn of the Birmingham Post, always interests us. He digs up so many things that we never heard of before he throws the light of publicity upon them that he fascinates us.

We are copying herewith one of Hubert's latest discoveries—so far as that portion of the article pertaining to Admiral Richard Pearson Hobson is concerned.

It is all news to us that Admiral Hobson has reinstated himself as a registered voter for this county and if he has reestablished his citizenship here we have found no one who knows anything about it.

Several weeks ago the Admiral was in Greensboro for a day or two, and spent an hour or so in The Watchman office conversing with the editor and other friends, and he made no mention of having changed his citizenship, or of running for Congress, or any other office, in the Sixth District, and it would seem natural that he would have said something on the subject to his Hale county friends if he had any such intention instead of going to Birmingham and anouncing his intentions to a rank outsider, so far as the Sixth District is concerned.

But Hubert's story — while mighty "fishy"—is very readable.. — Greensboro Watchman.

Publish The Horrors

A few weeks ago readers of an important New York daily received a gruesome surprise. In an account of a serious automobile accident, the paper no longer confined itself to a bare and colorless statement of facts. Instead, it presented all the gruesome details, chronicling the mashed, oozing skulls, and compound bone fractures, the bleeding wounds, of the victims. And it announced that it would continue this policy, in the belief that it would help bring public realization of the horror of automobile accidents, and assist in creating real public cooperation in making our streets and highways safer.

This is partly the result of the famed Reader's Digest article," And Sudden Death," by J. C. Furnas, which has received national attention. Mr. Furnas pointed out that an effective picture of motor accidents "would have to include motion picture and sound effects, too—the flopping, pointless efforts of the injured to stand up; the queer, grunting noises; the steady, panting groaning of a human being with pain creeping upon him as the shock wears off. It would portray the slack expression on the face of a man, drugged with shock, staring at the Z-twist in his broken leg, the insane crumpled effect of a child's body after its bones are crushed inward, a realistic portrait of an hysterical woman with her screaming mouth opening a hole in the bloody drip that fills her eyes and runs off raw ends of bones protruding through flesh in compound fractures, and the dark red, oozing surface where clothes and skin are flayed off at once."

HORRIBLE — nauseous — disgusting? Yes—but these details are not an iota too much so. They are part and parcel of thousands of accidents each year. Somewhere, at this moment, the gruesome scene is being enacted again. The New York newspaper, which is to do its best to give a true picture of major automobile crashes, has set an example that should be emulated throughout the country.

Tax Receipts Show Upward Trend

According to information from Chilton County's Tax Collector, T. L. McKee, receipts in his office are showing a very favorable trend this year. During the last few days a check on the amount of taxes collected has been made, and comparison shows that tax receipts to date are considerably ahead of the same date a year ago.

It will be remembered that just a few years ago the payment of taxes was a very serious problem confronting the people. Especially was this true with farmers who in all too many cases were unable to pay taxes on their homesteads. The fact that taxes are being paid more promptly than heretofore seems to be a most reliable index to show that economic conditions are improving.

New Army Chief

From the lowest ranking second lieutenant to the highest rank in the United States Army is a long jump, but General Marlin Craig, newly appointed chief of staff, has made it since he was graduated from West Point at the foot of his class in 1898.

General Craig succeeds General Douglas MacArthur, who becomes military adviser to the new Philippine government. The appointment of General Craig is no surprise, despite his poor academic showing as a cadet at West Point, for he has had a brilliant record during his 37 years as an officer.

Receiving his first commission a few days after the declaration of war with Spain, he served in the Santiago campaign in Cuba, in the China relief expedition, in the Phillipine insurrection and in France during the World War.

During his peace time service he has had many important assignments, including those of chief of Cavalry, director of the General Staff College, assistant chief of staff, and commander of various departments and corps areas.

General Craig was born in St. Joseph, Mo., August 5, 1875, and married Miss Genevieve Woodruff of Berkeley, Calif., in 1901. They have one son, Marlin, Jr.

The new chief of staff will have the confidence of the Army and of the country at large, and under his command our military establishment will doubtless be maintained at the highest state of efficiency.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The lady of the house found a recipe for a cake in her cook book and she went into the kitchen to try it out. She followed directions as best she could and the cake turned out beautifully. She was filled wtih pride and called in her neighbors to witness the second cooking of a cake that was unusual. She followed directions again, but this time the cake was a flop. What did she do? Did she throw up her hand and quit? That was not the way of my lady. She knew that the recipe was alil right for she had made a splendid success of it and in place of giving up she tried again and again until she made a more perfect cake than the first one baked. The fault was not in the recipe and she knew it. The fault was in her and she did her best to correct it. From this we should learn that if we apply the principles of truth and love and fail occasionally, there is nothing wrong with the rule—the fault may be with us. "If you don't first succeed, try again."

The man who shaves has met with many a trying experience with his razor. The old-fashioned razor blades as well as the modern safety blades have a habit of becoming dull from use. To sharpen those dull blades is a matter of art. The most of us have sought information from all directions, even going so far as to take training from barbers as to the best methods of sharpening blades. We have stropped those blades fast and slow, long and short, hard and light. In the most of our efforts we have sharpened so vigorously until we have broken off the edge rather than sharpen it. The best method of sharpening a razor blade is to give it light and short strokes and hold the edge on the blade. Often have we seen good intentioned men and women who wanted to do the right thing and yet they would knock off the edge. Make your strokes for righteousness smooth and easy if you wish to reach an end.

The hound runs by scent. The fox is chased and the deer is run by the scent that is left behind. If the fox hound detects the wrong scent and goes dashing away, he may run ever so hard and ever so far but still he will not find his fox. Do not blame the dog for this mistake. As humans we are making a worse mistake than any hound when he gets on the wrong scent. Half the world is on the wrong scent in our pursuit of happiness. We are so foolish as to think that happiness consists of getting and having and of being served by others. We think that the scent of money and pleasure will lead us to happiness. If you want to find the right scent for happiness follow up the scent of giving and the scent of serving others. This is the way to happiness.

While in the belfry of the church looking over the chimes that had been placed there a short time before. I accidentally struck one of the bells with my shoe. I was surprised to hear the sweet mellow tone tingling out an undertone of love. The very sound seemed to speak of being in harmony with other tones that might be produced. When a man is right and lives right, you may touch him when you may and the tones of his life ring out in harmony with a divine life. Character is like bells that ring out sweet music. You may touch a man who has character accidentally and yet you will hear the sound of something that tells you of harmony and music. Character is what puts tone to your life.

At the shipyard a beautiful vessel was made. It carried the last word in structure and skill in ship building. After completion the ship was pulled out into deep water and anchored. There it remained for weeks and years. It was a thing of beauty, but it never went out to sea. The waves never beat against its hull and its strength was never tested. If you are anchored in idleness, you may be a thing of beauty, but you are worthless to the world. It is better to go down on the great seas which human hearts were made to sail, than to rest and rot on the waves in ignoble anchorage. It is better to sail on the sea than to remain at the wharfs and decay in idleness.

J. H. JACKSON OBJECTS TO NEWS ATTITUDE

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please spare me a little space in your paper to criticise your paper or rather your judgement?

You remind me of the bull that made fight against the train that was approaching him. The bull curled his tail and began to paw and the engineer blew his whistle. So the bull made a firm stand against the engine. So the engineer knocked him off and the engineer said: "I admire your courage, but damn your judgement."

Now brother editor, you seem to want to make politics out of the mass meeting held last Wednesday. It appears to me that if you were wise in politics you should have endorsed the resolutions adopted at this meeting. If you succeed in making this Triple A a political issue you are only furnishing ammunition to blow the political head off of the Democratic party. It is true that the Democrats are responsible for the Triple A, but I see some of our leading Republicans in favor of it.

The vote was practically for the same thing in the afternoon that it was in the morning. So they were no changing the minds of the people. Did Mr. Duncan ever mention the inequality of the Cotton Control Act. Not until Mr. Moats pulled him out on it. Altho he said he had been trying to get to that point.

It appears to me that he could have got to it in one hour's time. We all know that the cotton is bringing more money for the farmers of Alabama than it did three years ago. But did you hear what Mr. Mullins said about it. He said that 20 per cent of the cotton growers were producing 80 per cent of the cotton and that 80 per cent of the growers are producing 20 per cent. I think that is a fair estimate. Suppose you were making 4 bales of cotton three years ago for one hundred dollars and now making 2 bales for one hundred with everything else doubled. Haven't you lost one-half of your purchasing power? That is just where the little farmers are today. He can only buy one-half with his allotment that he could three years ago.

I don't see why you should mention W. L. Sanders as a defeated Republcan candidate. What does that have to do with it. We all who signed the resolutions are responsible as he.

It appears to me that we people are handicapped for true leaders in both old parties. We have no desire to go back under the Hoover rule, neither do we care to be treated with an injustice by either party.

We all should know that this Triple A in its present form is unfair, unequal, unjust, ungodly and unconstitutional.

What we need at the head of both parties is God-fearing men. Fear God and keep His Commandments, is the beginning of true wisdom.

When we destroy God's blessings for the love of money I think we are getting on dangerous ground. He has already visited this nation with judgement for the way the Triple A has destroyed stuff and I'm afraid that He is not done yet. Now. brother, be not deceived for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall also reap.

Respectfully,
J. H. JACKSON

AAA Brings To The Aid Of The Individual Rights Perpetuated In The Constitution

(President Roosevelt at Fremont, Nebraska, Sept. 28, 1935)

"Programs now in effect under the Agricultural Adjustment Act are planned and operated by the farmers themselves, through nearly 5,000 county production control associations which are manned by more than 100,000 committeemen and which number among their members more than 3,000,000 adjustment contract signers.

"The Government's part in this program is merely to supply the unifying element that the farmers themselves, in their past efforts, found so essential to success. That. it seems to me. is the true function of government under our Constitution—to promote the general welfare, not by interfering unduly with individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the Constitution is intended to guarantee. It is democracy in the good old American sense of the word.

"I like to think that never again will this nation let its agriculture fall back nto decay, that instead the farmers of America will always be able to guard the principles of liberty and democracy for which their farmer ancestors fought. I like to think agricultural adjustment is an expression, in concete form, of the human rights those farmer patriots fought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the Constitution."

Most Forest Fires Can Be Prevented

Auburn, Ala.—Lighted matches, cigarette stubs, and camp fires start hundreds of destructive forest fires in Alabama every year, reports Lyle Brown, extension forester, who emphasizes that the leaving of any fire, regardless of how small it may be, unquenched is dangerous.

Another bad practice is that of building fires to smoke 'possums or rabbits out of hollow logs or trees and leaving the fires to burn. Brown states.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

On Sunday, October 27, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lee gave a birthday dinner at their home in honor of her grandfather, H. T. Brown, on his 80th birthday.

This pleasant event was greatly enjoyed by Mr. Brown's four children grandchildren and other friends and relatives and many frends.

He was born in Georgia in 1855, having moved to Chambers County in Alabama at the age of 11 years. He married at the age of 20 to a Chambers County girl and they were blessed with nine children—only four now living, his wife passed away fourteen years ago. He has 42 grandchildren living and 18 great-grandchildren.

After the bountiful dinner, which was spread out under the trees, music and speaking was enjoyed, fololwed by the presentation of many useful gifts. Mr Brown is a greatly beloved citizen of our county and to whom we wish many more years of happiness with us.

NEWSPAPER MAN GIVES TIP-OFF ON '36 CAR STYLES

Betty Goodwin (National Broadcasting Company fashion reporter): "I suppose, Mr. Noé, you have all the advance news on the 1936 motor cars. What seems to be the new style trend? I've been hearing a lot of things about the new Dodge."

Floyd A. Noé (Automobile Manager, New York News): "There is no doubt in my mind that the 1936 Dodge is the finest looking and most stunningly styled car that Dodge has ever produced. I have been associated with the automobile business for ten years and have been intimately familiar during that time with each new Dodge. I suppose you realize yourself that to Dodge owners the very name of the car is synonymous with ruggedness and dependability, but I repeat that never have I seen such a beautiful Dodge as this new 1936 model."

MANER IS MENTIONED AS GUBERNATORIAL TIMBER

ALABAMA SHOULD SEEK YOUTH IN NEXT CAMPAIGN

Private Secretary To The Governor Is Given Praise

The following comment on Hon. Pitt Tyson Maner, private secretary to Governor Bibb Graves, was taken from The Mobile Post of a recent issue:

We have youthful college presidents these days and young Senators and Congressmen, and occasionally a young man is elected as the Chief Executive of a commonwealth. The reason is that times are changing and a statesman does not have to be past the prime of life these days to win national or Statewide fame.

For instance, we will take the case of the Hon. Pitt Tyson Maner, private secretary to Governor Bibb Graves at Montgomery. Mr. Maner, while young in years is rich in political lore and experience. For some years he has had his finger on the political pulse of Alabama and he is entirely familiar with the wants of his people.

In the next three or four years a new Alabama should blossom when the depression runs its course. With its vast resources in minerals, coal and agricultural posibilities there is no telling how many new people will come within the borders of the State. Neither can we forecast the vast number of industries, factories and farms that by rights should honeycomb the State.

PITT TYSON MANER

Knowing all this we felt confident that it is time to look around for gubernatorial timber to succeed Governor Bibb Graves, and in his personal secretary, Pitt Tyson Maner. we are sure we have found the man.

At the Jeffersonian Club banquet in Mobile recently, Mr. Maner made a speech that struck a keynote of the times. It was a good talk and even at the non-factional meeting many of the people attended voiced the opinion that Mr. Maner knew his onions and could be developed into a governor with little effort.

Under the circumstances the Post believes that the secretary of the Governor should be drafted to succeed Bibb Graves and that the friends of Pitt Tyson Maner get busy and build up the fences for the next Governor of Alabama.

NEGRO SHOT AS PROWLER LAST WEEK, RELEASED FROM JAIL

An error was made in reportng the shooting of a Negro man near the home of Mrs. T. J. Nelson several days ago, according to her son, W. M. Nelson. Current reports, Mr. Nelson said, was that the Negro was shot at a potato storage hill.

This was not true, he declared. The Negro was shot by Clarence Oakes, a neighbor, he came to his rescue when the man attacked him. Mr. Nelson declared that the Negro had been seen in the community (four miles north of Clanton) several times during the afternoon, and when he warned him to leave, he said the Negro grabbed a stick and attacked.

A call brought Oakes who fired on him as he ran through a woodland. The Negro was arrested by Sheriff J. R. Hardy, but was released when no charges were preferred, it is understood.

5,000 Miles And Observer For Republican Paper Says Roosevelt Still "Man of the Hour"

Article States People Still Behind President

"When in the course of a 5,000-mile automobile trip west to the Rockies and back, the gas station attendant, the farmer in the barnyard and the man on the next stool in the restaurant—whether in Bradford, Pa., Kimball. Neb., Boulder, Colo., El Reno, Okla., or Jackson, Tenn.—says that he will again vote for Roosevelt, it is only reasonable to assume that his counterparts in all the intervening towns would say very nearly the same thing."

Such is the conclusion of John M Clark, writing of his just completed tour in the Washington Post (Rep.) of October 6. Starting out along the Lincoln Highway, he said he found many who answered his inquiry—"at first" by saying "I'll look 'em over."

"But on further probing," he continues "it became clear that there, too, where one ballot had been marked for Roosevelt in 1932, another would be next year. A farmer in Indiana asked 'Where are all these billions the New Deal's spending coming from? Why here in Indiana the State debt figures out at $34 an acre.' But he was a Republican. In a town nearby he was described as a man never to be pleased. The county is strongly Democratic. A native explained that surrounding counties that had been Republican in 1932 would come over to the Democratic side.

"The difficulty of finling hired help was reported in Illinois and Iowa. But in spite of this, the same answer: 'Why yes. I'll give my vote to Roosevelt again. He's made some mistakes. but none of us is perfect, I guess.' A clerk in a town near Council Bluffs was typical of rural Iowa. He said he would 'do a lot of thinking.' Would he, then, vote against Roosevelt? 'Well, no," he replied. 'I'll most likely vote for him.'

"A young Irish cop in Omaha advised that 'Everyone in this town except the rich people are for Roosevelt because he's for the poor man.' So it was, on through the valley of the North Platte and Colorado.

"A traveling salesman in Las Vegas New Mexico. 'heard mainly favorable talk of the Roosevelt Administration in his trips out of Alberquerque. In New Mexico. 'as the tire man said in Amarillo. Texas, they were for Roosevelt, explaining that mistakes had been made in the last two years 'but no one ever got anywhere without making mistakes.'

"It was asked of the manager of a cotton gin in Arkansas: Did he think Roosevelt would be elected again if the people of that county had the full say. 'I think so,' was the answer. 'No, sir, I know so. Why just look at those fields out there full of cotton and men and women picking it. If it hadn't been for Roosevelt, these people would have starved to death.' Fire had razed the tobacco warehouse at Cathage, Tenn. but the Saturday morning populace seemed happy. 'Those farmers have got money to spend,' said the garage man. Tobacco's worth something now. Last year I saw them bring in their crops to sell and they'd go out owing the commission house money. Every last one of them will vote for Roosevelt and pray for his re-election.'

"And so it went, fully 90 per cent of curbstone Americans are still strong for President Rooseevlt. They knew little of and appeared to care less about the new tax program, 'threats of the Constitution,' Jeffersonian Democrats inflation or silver. They appeared to consider relief as a necessary evil. They feel that the depression's back has been broken at last. Other things being even, they will vote to reelect Mr. Roosevelt in 1936."

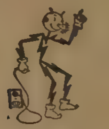
"DISPENSERS OF TRUE SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY"



Now You Can BUY ALL 3 AT ONCE

NOW even modest homes can enjoy the comfort and convenience of electrified kitchens. The Economy Purchase Plan makes it possible to buy an Electric Refrigerator, an Electric Range and an Electric Water Heater all at the same time, with monthly payments so low that almost anybody can afford them. You might want to include an electric water pump too.

Of course, you needn't buy them all at the same time if you would prefer to buy them one at a time. You may already have an Electric Refrigerator and Electric Pump and may want to add the Electric Range and Water Heater and other equipment a step at a time. You can also do that under the Economy Purchase Plan.

AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR —makes it possible for you to keep milk, cream, eggs, meat and other foods fresh and appetizing for days—leftovers need not be fed to the chickens. You can make appetizing, inexpensive frozen desserts frequently—every day if you like—it costs so little to operate an Electric Refrigerator.

Consider These Advantages

AN ELECTRIC RANGE —helps keep your kitchen clean—is great for roasting meats without waste—bakes biscuits and cornbread to a queen's taste—is fine for preserving and canning—makes all food taste better—gives you more time OUT of the kitchen — costs surprisingly little to operate.

AN ELECTRIC WATER HEATER —operates automatically and gives you all the hot water you want—when you want it—where you want it. Makes it convenient to take a nice refreshing bath every day if you like—makes dishwashing and churning easier and helps you keep the house clean with less work.

AN ELECTRIC PUMPING SYSTEM —will bring running water to the house, the barn, the milking shed, the poultry house, the yard—any place you want running water. It does away with pail totin'—saves time—gives you time to rest or do other things.

Investigate These Devices!

Hayes Taking Orders For 1936 Chevrolets

Orders received for new 1936 Chevrolets prior to November 2, the announcement date, will be given preferred classification for quick delivery after the announcement, "Dick" Hayes of the Hayes Chevrolet Co., stated today. This prompt fulfilment of orders, he said, is due to the substantial production headway which Chevrolet has made in getting out cars in advance of its announcement date. The entire quota for the local dealershp will be on hand before November 2, according to word from the factory, and additional shipments will be available as required to meet local demand.

"We are better prepared than ever before to take care of our purchasers' requirements," said Mr. Hayes. "Chevrolet got off to an early start in its production of the new line, and also in the training of the service personnel. Our shop employes have been thoroughly schooled in every detail of service on the new Chevrolets, and the stage is all set for the most successful introduction we have ever made."

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'doless.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

South Clanton

County, declaring that without Mr Oliver's work the people of this section would not have had the privilege of dedicating one of the finest postoffice buildings in any small city in this state.

The program was begun at 10:30 with a parade of Shriners, led by the business section of the city, reassembling in front of the postoffice. With C. E. Stapp, former county agent here, presiding, this was one of the most splendid programs ever staged in Clanton.

Mayor Talks

Mayor Jones was the first on the program, speaking in behalf of Clanton He traced briefly the progress made in this municipality in the past quarter of a century. "We have looked forward for the past 20 years for this moment," he said. "Today we are indeed proud to be gathered here for the purpose of dedicating this structure to the services of our people."

Probate Judge Smith spoke in behalf of Chilton County, declaring the national administration has taken greater notice of the people in the rural sections than has ever been known before. He cited briefly some of the improvements made in this county through the government.

Other speakers were Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent and district governor of the Pilot International; W.M. Wyatt, representing the Clanton Kiwanis Club and Percy M. Pitts, commander of the local post of the American Legion.

After the completion of the dedication program, the visiting Shriners motored to J. Mell Martin's camp on Lake Mitchell for luncheon.

At least 150 Shriners and others were guests of Mr. Martin at a barbecue luncheon at his camp Friday afternoon and evening following the completion of the dedication program.

A bountiful supply of barbecued chicken. pork, and gallons of camp stew properly mixed with that good fellowship for which Shrners are noted, together with one of the most ideal locations on Lake Mitchell, made this an event a rare privilege to those who attended.

With Mr. and Mrs. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Latham Ellis, their daughter, and husband, as hosts and hostess, this could not have failed to be an enjoyable occasion.

The trend of pedestrian traffic in Clanton changed overnight Tuesday. Instead of the steady stream back and forth across the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway along Main Street, the trend had swerved Wednesday morning and marched along the street in front of the News office.

The reason—the post office had been moved into the new building on First, Avenue, and Clanton marched down for its mail. Quite a different scene in this vicinity which for some time has been considered the quietest section of downtown Clanton.

Postmaster H. F. Downs, his clerks and other helpers were busy far into the night getting established in their new home, which was completed several days ago and dedicated last Friday to the service of the people of this section. At the dedication the keys to the structure were presented to Dr Downs, but a delayed shipment of furniture prevented removal into the new building until Tuesday.

Composing the staff at the postoffice are: Postmaster Downs, Russell Sutley who had been advanced from auxiliary clerk to regular clerk, Luther Bean regular clerk' and A. D. Scott, auxiliary clerk.

PITTS OBJECTS TO NEWS OPINION OF MEETING

Editor, Chilton County News:

Under the caption of the AAA meeting in your issue of the 24th in discussing the recent meeting of the cotton growers and farmers which was held last week, since you saw fit to mention my name personally as follows: "Although it is generally believed that the resolutions rendered in the meeting were drawn by the editor of the Union-Banner and Percy M. Pitts Republican attorney, shortly after the closing of this meeting Mr. Pitts declared that he was not informed well enough to discuss it intelligently."

This is to advise you that prior to this meeting held at the courthouse last week that I had never discussed directly or indirectly with either the editor, of the Union-Banner or Mr. W.L. Sanders, the chairman of the meeting or anyone else directly or indirectly regarding a resolution or resolutions introduced. I believe that the readers of your paper will greatly appreciate your publishing facts, instead of dealing so much in generalities and beliefs. Further I do not appreciate the insinuation that I would attempt to advise with or draft resolutions affecting the welfare of our county and particularly our farmers welfare, unless I was thoroughly familiar and infomed of the issues involved, and thought it was for the best interest of our producers in Chilton County. It is true, that I did not attend the meeting and never entered the courtroom and it is further a fact that I stated on the street near Alred Drug Co., while the meeting was in progress, to your representative, Mr Norris, while the meeting was being discussed ,that I was not well enough up on the subject to discuss it intelligently as I had not had time to study the proposition.

Should it be an unpardonable sin to be a Republican attorney, I am guilty as charged, and so far I have been unable to be convinced that I am wrong I feel that the farmers and cotton producers of Chilton County who apparently attended this meeting in full force and who have had actual experience in handling their cotton under the AAA plans are parties qualified to pass upon this subject more than any attorney college president, or the head of any Extension Service Group, and for this reason I have had nothing to do with the proposition, directly or indirectly as a Republican attorney, or otherwise

Kindly show me the courtesy of publishing this letter and correcting the inference, insinuation or mistatement of facts pertaining to me.

dav also to Union-Banner.

I am mailing a copy of this letter to-

Several hundred teachers and leaders in Parent-Teacher work will grapple with the question of "Some Acute School Problems in Alabama" during the district meeting for representatives of eight counties at Phillips High School Saturday.

The problems will be discussed in an open forum at the afternoon session. Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, will direct a program, modeled on a grand jury investigation, of P.-T. A. work in the Birmingham district.

J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, will address the morning session, assembling delegates from Jefferson, Blount, Chilton, Clay, Shelby, St. Clair, Talladega and Walker Counties The meeting is one of a series in various districts sponsored by the Alabama Education Assn., P.-T. A. Congress and State Department of Education.

WHAT STAPLE LENGTH IS YOUR COTTON

Staple length is a very important factor in establishing the value of cotton. Over the period 1926-30, in the central markets, 13-16 cotton was penalized an average of 93 points or $4.65 per bale, whereas, an average of 45 points of $2.25 per bale premium was paid for 15-16 and 96 points or $4.80 per bale premium for one inch cotton basis middling 7-8.

According to report of September 27 1935 of Cotton Quotation and Market News Service of Bureau of Agricultural Economic, an average of 31 points or $1.55 per bale premium was being paid for 15-16 and 67 points or $3.35 per bale premium for inch over 7-8.

Grow varieties of cotton averaging 7-8 inch and longer. preferably those averaging an inch in staple length Varieties which barely pull 7-8 inch with normal rains will fall well under 7-8 inch in case of drought. Then heavy penalties are inflicted on farmers because of short cotton. The very short varieties with severe drought conditions cost Alabama farmers millions of dollars in penalties in 1929 and 1930.

Varieties pulling an inch and better will not likely run shorter than 7-8 inch in case of drought. In variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station several varieties of cotton give good yields and average around one inch in staple length. These are as follows:

North Alabama and Central Alabama: DPL 10, DPL 11, and Stoneville. In the wilt infested area a wilt-resistant variety must be grown: Cook 27-34, Cook 1022, Cleve wilt, and Cook 307, have run 7-8 inch and better.

Now is the time to swap or buy some from neighbors who have better staple varieties if your cotton is running shorter than 7-8 inch.

Let's grow only the best cotton in Chilton County

TIPTON NAMED DIRECTOR STATE HI'WAY SAFETY

To Be Alabama's First Safety Director, Seeking To Curtail Auto Deaths

In an effort to secure cooperation of municipalities, civic clubs and the people of Alabama generally to cut down the alarming death rate from automobile accidents, Governor Graves has selected Lawrence Tipton, of Selma for the post of State Safety Director.

Mr. Tipton is secretary of the Alabama League of Young Democrats and for the last several months has been serving as an examiner of public accounts in the Comptroller's department. It is understood that Mr. Tipton's salary will be $3,000 and that it will be paid from the new drivers' license funds. There has been an alarming increase in automobile fatalities in Alabama this year. Sixty deaths from automobile accidents alone occurred in July of this year. It is the belief of Gov. Graves that Mr. Tipton can be of great help in cutting down this enormous death and accident toll by securing the cooperation of the civic clubs of the State the municapilities, the county officers and the people generally.

Mr. Tipton will have no direct connection with the new Highway Patrol of which Walter K. McAdory, is is reported, will be the head. But it is expected that his work over the State will be of great assistance to the highway patrolmen in getting cooperation from automobilists in the campaign to save human lives.

SHERIFF WARNS DISTURBERS OF PUBLIC WORSHIP

Plans To Have Large Number Of Men Over The County

Those people in Chilton County who do not go to church for the purpose of listening to, or taking part in the services had best stay at home or go elsewhere, is the opinion of Sheriff J R. Hardy. And it is his intention to see that they do just that, he declared.

"I'm getting plenty tired of these continuous disturbances at our churches over the county. It seems to be getting to the point where it is practically impossible for people to go to church and conduct services without a bunch of roughnecks causing some disturbance

"Nearly every Sunday night we are kept busy running from one place to another in an effort to keep order at our churches. This is a nuisance to everybody concerned, and I mean to put a stop to it," the sheriff declared

It is next to impossible to find who the guilty ones are when you arrive at the scene. No one is willing to sign a warrant and the disturbance has quieted before the officers arrive so consequently they are able to accomplish little.

But Sheriff Hardy has a plan which will put a stop to this practice of trying to turn church services into a circus. Chilton County's chief law enforcement officer announced this week that he is going to put a stop to "this horse play" if he has to place a deputy-sheriff in every church in Chilton County.

His plan calls for the deputizing of 50 or 75 good, reliable men throughout the county to cooperate with the sheriff's office in keeping peace at churches and other public gatherings "There are dozens of requests every week for me or my deputies to be present at churches on Saturday and Sunday nights. This is impossible. We can't get around to all of these churches and, too, we have other work during the week end. But these good people deserve protection and it is my aim to give it to them."

Recently, the Sheriff stated, a young man carried a live snake into a church and of course, caused a terrible uproar. He was arrested and is now serving a term in the penitentiary, but there are others who have just as little respect for church and for the people who go to church to worship.

Sheriff Hardy hopes to get his army of "church deputies" ready for action by this week end. Their names will not be made public, and until some disturbance makes it necessary their identity will not be known even in their own communities, it is understood.

DISTRICT MEET OF PILOT CLUBS HELD SATURDAY

International President Is Guest Of Honor In Clanton

"Life and Health" was the subject last Saturday night of an address before delegates at the District Conven- Miss Mable Claire Speth, of Savannah tion of Pilot International here by Ga., international president of the organization. Approximately 100 delegates and visitors were guests of the Clanton club on this occasion.

Miss Speth urged the cooperation of the memberhip of the clubs in this district in a fight to lessen the accidental deaths in this country. During last year automobile accidents alone took a tol of 37,000 lives, she declared, and more than 5,000,000 were injured.

The majority of these accidents were the results of careless or reckless driving on the part of someone. True, it is often the innocent pedestrian or the most careful driver that is the victim There is much, Miss Speth pointed out that Pilots can do to help remedy this deplorable condition in our country.

Life and Health will be the theme of the year's program throughout the country, and thousands of Pilots wil lend support to this effort to make life a bit more secure by continuous

2,333 Checks Are Ready For Farmers; 2nd Rental Pay

Two thousand Chilton County cotton farmers will soon receive checks from the federal government for rent or lands they took out of cotton production in cooperation with the government's program to increase the price of the staple by reducing the crop.

County Agent J. W. Fant received 2033 second rental checks, totaling $31,342.23, Wednesday morning. These will be distributed to the farmers immediately. Anyone due one of these checks can get it by coming to the county agent's office, but a schedule of delivery throughout the county will be worked out and made within a few days, Mr. Fant stated.

These checks coming in at this time of year will mean much to these farmers, who have cooperated with the government in this gigantic cotton-control program. In addition to this amount approximately $45,000 will be received by Chilton County farmers in the form of parity checks, but Mr. Fant was unable to say just when these checks will arrive.

Clanton's Population Now 3,363

Mayor Jones Is Given Credit For Securing Census

Work of taking the special census of Clanton, made necessary by the recent extension of the city's limits. was completed Monday and the official population of Clanton is now 3,363, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who is responsible not only for the new census but largely responsible for the movement to extend the city limits to include territory that should have been incorporated for many years.

Under the supervision of H. R Green, a member of the staff of the Washington Census Bureau, the census was taken by Dr. J. P. Crumpton, Miss Carrie Foshee, W. H. Sartor, and Hugh M. Simpson at a total cost of $201.90.

Statistics gathered in this survey are official in every way and may be used in any advertising program which the city may desire to promote, or in any other way. However, it is understood that they will not be printed in the government census statistical records.

With the population of Clanton raised from 1,847 (according to 1930 census) to 3,363, Clanton has definitely departed from the small town class and is to be recognized now as one of Alabama's leading smaller cities. Mayor Jones declared that he considers this movement very important in the fututre development of Clanton and Chilton county.

Records show there are 1,332 white males, 1.368 white females, 300 Negro males, and 363 Negro females. This gives a population 2.700 whites and onyl 663 Negroes.

The new limits take in no territory

COMMISSIONERS ARE ASKED TO PUSH AIRPORT

Government Ready To Send Large Sum To Be Used On Project

Again the members of the County Commissioners Court were reminded Monday afternoon that unless Chilton County secures additional lands for increasing the area of Gragg Field there is probability that approximately $35,000 now available from the federal government may be lost.

A delegation of members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, which has been interested in the promotion of activities at Gragg Field, presented the proposition to the court. Dr. V. J. Gragg for whom the field was recently named. read a letter received by him recently from Major Sumpter Smith telling of appropriations now available to this field to the total amount of $35,000.

The committee asked the court to cooperate by purchasing necessary lands to bring the field to a standard size. A motion was carried unanimously to appropriate $1500, provided the City of Clanton would appropriate a like amount, when the Federal Government deposited not less than $25,000 in one of the local banks for the purpose of completing this project.

However, some of those interested in the project declared themselves a bit skeptical about the government being that anxious to make Chilton County an appropriation. But it is understood that government aviation agencies are very interested in the development of a field at Clanton, as it will be located on the main air route through this section.

It was pointed out that many other counties in the state are receiving more federal monies than Chilton has for the past several months. Shelby County is one of the leading rural counties. It was said that this county has three airports and all have had more money spent on them than Chilton's one.

Extensive Drive Planned By Local Committee Over The County

The challenge to lend aid to those who are suffering, to those for whom the long winter months hold terror, is again ringing throughout the land.

The annual Red Cross Drive is on!

Chilton County, true to the record set by it for many years. is lining up behind this movement and is promising to do its part and more, for this worthy cause. For Chilton County remembers well, a few years ago when the National Red Cross came nobly to the rescue here.

Desolation and suffering marked the pathway of furious winds that had swept through the northern section of the county. An S.O.S. went out—and the Red Cross came!

Chilton County has not forgotten! This fact will be demonstrated in the manner which its citizenship responds to the call for aid for others in this annual membership drive staged by a benefactor.

J. Mell Martin, roll call chairman is confident that Chilton County will sweep well past the quota that has been set for it. Three hundred dollars is not too much to ask of the people of this county in such a worthy movement, Mr. Martin opined. And Chilton Countians will respond with the generosity that characterizes those who appreciate.

Next Sunday is Red Cross Sunday It inaugurates the campaign which will begin Monday and continue through Thanksgiving. Sunday school leaders preachers, and other church people have been requested to announce the opening of the drive and to remind people of the part that they are expected to play in this program. Mr Martin has made a plea to these church leaders in Chilton County to lend their cooperation in the movement.

No more fitting day could have been selected than next Monday for the opening of this drive. It is Armistice Day! Any veteran of the late World War can tell you of the part that the Red Cross played in ministering to the suffering on foreign battle fields and in hospitals.

Ask any veteran about the worthiness of this organization—he'll tell you.

The fight is on—and Chilton County will do her part!

Football And Fall Traffic

Do you know what is the most dangerous driving period of the year? The statistical truth is that we are in that part of the year which is most fraught with peril to the motorist and the pedestrian.

October is usually the worst of the twelve months, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters reminds us, and November comes next. The last three months of the year are the most dangerous quarter season.

The reasons for this intensification of danger are to be found in the combination of a false sense of security and the increased hazards of natural conditions.

The days grow shorter. Nightfall, notorious for its accident possibilities, gradually poduces yearly peaks between 5 and 9 P.M. The weather is often crisp, bracing, ideal for driving, and the roads are crowded —always an important element in accident frequency. A number of subtle, unobtrusive causes contribute: The skidding menace of wet leaves, roads slippery with frost in the early morning, car windows shut in chilly weather with a consequent failure to use hand signals, longer working hours causing greater fatigue when driving after dark, week-end concentration of traffic in particular areas augmented by the great crowds driving to football games.

This last calls for special attention. Every Saturday there converge in stadiums throughout the country multitudes of spectators, sometimes 100,000 in one place. Most of them drive, approaching their destination on the same roads at the same time. Such conditions breed accidents, and if the accident peril is imminent before the game it is doubly so afterward. Then the thousands of automobiles choke every radiating highway, all in a hurry to get away and get home. The reaction setting in after the excitement of the game reduces diving alertness. Add to all this the liklihood that many drivers are under the influence of alcohol and the situation is distinctly menacing.

These are occasions for great care in driving. Usually the roads leading from the stadiums are lined with police, stationed to get you there and away as quickly and safely as possible. Cooperate with them, lest what starts as fun ends in tragedy.

10,000 Families

A detailed questionnaire survey of a representative group of 10,000 insured families, conducted by the Nothwestern National Life Insurance Company, shows a rise in their average annual earning rate from $1,743 in 1933, to $2,055 in 1934.

Fifty-one per cent of the reporting families have had increases in income since the spring of '33, while only 22.8 per cent have suffered declines. Twenty-six per cent report no change in income. Average age of the heads of reporting families was 39 years.

Eighty-two per cent of the families own automobiles; 49 per cent own their homes, and half of these have their homes free of encumbrances.

These insured families provide representative examples of the great moderate earning class—and it augurs well for the country that they are finding the going easier. They are buying more cars, more life insurance, more of everything that is needed and enjoyed. Their increased buying power is reflected in the statistics of all the great industries, and is largely responsible for the measure of recovery we have so far achieved.

We Can't Be Neutral In This War

There is one war in which our country cannot remain neutral—war against fire.

That war has been going on for many years. It will never end completely—but good soldiery can win many valuable victories. During its course, the enemy has caused destruction running into the billions of dollars—and many thousands of lives.

The war exists because of individaul matter. It is up to each property-owner, each manager of a business, each farmer. The best building and inspection laws are impotent in the face of public indifference —the finest fire department can do relatively little, if the public refuses to cooperate.

It is not only a duty but a privilege to enlist in the war against fire. And the duties are simple. Learn what causes fire, and how fire may be prevented. Then apply that knowledge—today, tomorrow, every day in the year. Fix that faulty wiring— and have it done by an experienced electrician. Check that old furnace, now that the cold season is upon you. Throw away those old rags and newspapers and magazines that you have stacked in the attic and basement—and that you will never use. Store that gasoline or benzine in approved safe containers. And remember that the place for matches and cigarettes is the ash tray—not the rug, the bed, or the garage floor.

We can fight fire successfully. During the last few years substantial progress has been made, and the loss is now well under the $500,000,000 a year level established not so long ago. That progress should serve to remind us how much more remains to be done and how easy it is to achieve definite results once we really go after them.

Real Accidents Few

What are generally classed as accidents are in most cases not accidents at all, but merely the results of pure carelessness or recklessness, according to a noted surgeon, who declares that really unpreventable accidents are very few.

The greater number of accidents are caused by failure to keep in mind the consequences of a slight mistake in judgement, or in "taking a chance" even when the danger is realized.

Of 35,000 deaths in the United States through automobile accidents each year, it is safe to say that 90 per cent of them are due to someone's disregard of ordinary safety precautions. The worst feature of this is that a reckless driver not only endangers himself but also trifles with the lives of others.

In accidents due to fire the same principle holds good. Everyone knows how easily the careless throwing of a lighted match may start a disastrous fire, yet millions of lighted matches, cigar and cigarette stubs are cast aside with little or no caution. Practically every fire that occurrs is caused by stupid carelessness.

Accidents do happen, of course, under circumstances wherein no one appears to be at fault, but these are in the minority. Generally accidents are caused by ignorance, carelessness or wanton disregard of consequences.

Out Of The Experiment Stage

The farm cooperatives have passed out of the experimental stage. They have become as essential to modern agriculture as the plow.

They have demonstrated that only through cooperation can supply be adjusted to demand—that only through cooperation can the farmer obtain a fairer share of the final selling price of what he produces— that only through cooperation can scientific farming be extended to millions of farms, making smaller acreage produce better, more profitable crops.

The establishment of the first cooperative marked one of the greatest days since the dawn of farm history—though few realized it at the time. The coopeartive ideal is the most dominant caracteristic of farm activity today.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

When a young lady, when a young man, decides to live like the butterfly they may expect to die like the butterfly. After leaving its shell this moth of the air flies here and there in search of sweets and flowers. It looks beautiful and feasts everywhere, but soon its wings refuse to work and soon the little body falls to its last resting place. A short life is the characteristic of the butterfly. It is never wise to adopt the way of the butterfly as a standard of life. Many a social butterfly has chosen to fly from one flower to another, from one sweet to another, only to find that the sweets of life are also the poisons of life. When human beings choose to live like the butterfly, they may also expect to die like the butterfly. Better ask your insurance company if your habits of life are good for long living.

The choir director does not require all in the choir to sing alike. One sings bass, one sings tenor, one sings soprano, one sing alto. Each one singing is required to find his or her own voice and tone, and then sing as the voice registers. Suppose that the bass voice should decide to sing soprano, and the alto voice should decide to sing tenor, there would be a clash of sounds and a destruction of melody. The choir director selects and divides the voices and then demands "sing from where thou art." It is very important that we find out where we can best sing the song of life. Find the tone of your life, find where you can best serve where you can produce harmony and then sing with all your might. When we follow the lead of our capacity, then it is that we produce harmony in the song of life.

A missionary in China approached one of their aged philosophers and asked of him what he thought about the Christian religion. The old sage thought for a few moments and then replied in slow speech: "Well, my friend, it is a very talky religion." The Chinaman told the truth. We have a talking religion. Often it is true that we talk more than we practice. We talk and talk from the pulpit, in the Sunday school and in our Missionary gatherings. We talk and talk on the printed page. As for me, I had rather deal with a practicing Christian than a talking Christian. To say the least it is best to first practice religion before much talk for religion is given out.

A sweet spirited woman moved with her husband into a new parsonage. They went into their new home in the hour of darkness and this woman lost the direction and the next morning north was south and east was west. She was completely turned around. All day she was confused, but as darkness came on she went out and viewed the sky and fixed the points of the compass correctly in her mind and the retired thinking of them as being correct. The next morning she awoke to find that north was north and all the points of the compass were correct. She was right with the whole world and how happy it made her. So many people go to bed at night with the wrong view of things. They retire thinking that right is wrong and wrong is right, and the next day there is still confusion. How beautiful it is for people to fix right in the mind at night and get up the next morning right with the world. There are fundamental compass points in right living. and it pays to keep these points forever fixed in our minds.

The train dispatcher never allows dust and filth to collect on his telegraph instrument. The broadcasting station never allows any one to hang filthy garments on the wires. What kind of a message could the dispatcher send if his instrument was covered over with mud and clay? What kind of a message could the radio broadcast if the wires were grounded with filthy clothes? It takes a clean instrument to send out a message that carries. Listen to me—when you want to get a message through to God you had better make clean the instrument that is sending it. When you clutter up the heart with things of this world. you have made it impossible to talk through to the throne of God. It takes a clean instrument to send out a long distance message.

FROM AN OLD LETTER

During the Civil War a good lady of Georgia wrote a letter to the Columbus Enquirer, expressing her horror at the customs being introduced by the "modern" women of that day. Extracts from the letter will give its general trend:

"I am a country woman. Have been in your city. I was shocked. I saw— you'll scarcely believe it. I saw—ca sharly tell it. I saw women in the streets with their dresses held so high that you could see their underskirts all around. My countrywomen surely will refrain when they are informed that that it is a Yankee fashion. Yankees ladies care no more about showing their knees than they do their faces, and if you indulge in this fashion, in ten years more you will be walk the streets with your faces painted as theirs are now. Oh! be warned in time."

Had the writer of that letter lived until the present lay she would have had much to inspire her pen. And possibly would have wound up by bobbing her hair and donning short skirts herself.

ABOUT THE QUALIFIED VOTERS LIST

Jemison, Ala., Nov. 4, 1935.

J. Lee Smith,
Judge of Probate, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir:

For many years the so-called "Official List of Qualified Electors" of Chilton County, with hundreds of names of persons long dead or otherwise disqualified enrolled thereon, has from time to time been published as official document and circulated throughout the county as a standard or guide for "suffrage rights."

There is no excuse for adding names of persons to this list who had been dead for 12 or 15 years, some having been purged for more than five years prior thereto.

Yet, notwithstanding their bodies had been long mouldering in their graves, the names of a great many were added to said list and certified as duly qualified electors, entitled to vote.

Not since the time (B.C. 587) as recorded when the Prophet Ezekiel prophesied upon the many dry bones in the open valley, there was a noise and of shaking and the bones came together the sinews and flesh came upon them and the skin covered them above, has there been such a stupendous undertaking in the resurrection of bones.

Te Registrars, it seems, purged 612 names in 1925—505, dead and failed to purge a large number. Names were added who had never paid a poll tax and then due for several years also names unknown.

The arbitrary shifting of voters names to other beats is not justified.

The 1934 list is yet encumbered with many names of persons long dead, unknown or otherwise disqualified, some of whom have been dead more than 20 years.

The duty of the Registrar and Probate Judge relative to Electors is dearly defined by the statute and while apparently lax the hope is that these requrements will be fully exercised that said list may be purged of all illegal and improper names that a true and lawful enrollment will be recorded and preclude the large unwarranted profit paid the Probate Judge and Union-Banner for each publication in past years of 7½ cents per name and lost to the tax-payers.

Yours truly,
W. T. HAND

Citizens Ask Cooperation To Secure 4-H Club Leader Here

Commissioners And Co Board Would Share Costs

A delegation of approximately 150 men and women appeared before the members of the County Commissioners Court in regular session Monday morning and petitioned that body to devise means of employing a county 4-H Club leader to work in connection with the county farm and home demonstration agents.

After discussion by representatives from Auburn and several farm men and women, a motion was made by J. L Smith, Clanton route 2, and seconded by J. Dudley Collins urging members of the court to meet with the Chilton County Board of Education and work out plans whereby the two boards might share the local cost of carrying on this work.

The cost to the county of employing a 4-H Club leader, securing necessary clerical help for the county agent's office, and increasing the salary of the home demonstration agent to an offer from another county will amount to $1690 per year. Mr. Smith's motion provided for the sharing of this expense between the two boards.

County Agent J. W. Fant presided at the meeting, which was held in the courthouse auditorium and members of the court attended in a body. Emmett Sizemore, of the Alabama Extension Service, explained the idea to the court making a plea for the boys and girls of the country. He outlined much of the work that has been done by 4-H Clubs over the state, declaring that these accomplishments can be continued to an even greater extent by the employment of a leader who can devote his entire time to working with the boys and girls of the county.

Several members of the audience spoke, endorsing the movement. Most of these talks were pleas for the cooperation of the court in the building of character in Chilton County. Among these speakers were: Mrs. Charles W Hoard, Thorsby, Marvin Durbin, Glenn Sessions, Mrs Mattie Lou Crew, J Dudley Collins, and several others.

Frank Palmer Seeing Wise Investors Here

"There are some wise investors in Chilton County," says Frank Palmer representative of The Investors Syndicate and a former Chilton County man Mr. Palmer has been spending several days in the county in the interest of his firm and is delighted over the amount of contracts he has secured.

Mr. Palmer is the winner of the cup recently awarded by The Investors Syndicate to the representative leading the field in the state. He stated that he owed this honor to the people of Chilon County for the splendid business given him lately.

Now, Mr. Palmer states, he is going after the national lead and expects to do this with Chilton County business If he should become the leader in the Investors Syndicate over the nation and Canada, then Chilton County would be given considerable publicity over the air, he stated.

The Investors Syndicate is operating in thirty-six states, Mr. Palmer stated and is forty-two years old. He stated he intends to spend quite a bit of time here seeing his old friends and pushing his business.

1936 Chevrolet Now On Display Has Many New Outstanding Features

New Master de luxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936, embodying marked advances in styling. engineering, and performance, were introduced November 2 at the New York automobile show and simultaneously throughout the country at dealer salesrooms, which have already been liberally stocked with new models for display and delivery.

Completeness in equipment, in appointments. and in convenience is stressed in the company's 1936 announcement.

The Master de luxe, offered with either knee action or conventional springing, has been restyled in its more important appearance elements notably by the adoption of a higher and narrower grille of distinctively original design, in combination with a new treatment of the hood louvres, new style headlamps mounted on the sides of the radiator shell, and new interior trim.

The lower priced Standard models have been completely redesigned in chassis and bodies. Last year the Standards differed materially both in appearance and in construction from the Masters: this year, the two lines are identical in all major features of styling engineering, and performance, the chief difference being only a matter of wheelbase.

Outstanding among the new features of both Master and Standard models for 1936 are perfected hydraulic brakes; mproved engines having higher compression ration (6 to 1), balanced carburetor. full-length water jacketing, and other changes resulting in better cooling and improved gasoline and oil economy; and cromodine rust-prevention of fenders and running boards.

Front doors of all models of both lines are now hinged at the front.

The sold steel turret top, exclusive last year with the Master models, has been adopted this year for the Standard line also. Spoke-type pressed steel wheels, instead of wire wheels, are used on all Standard models.

Body interiors of Master models show marked advances in comfort and style. An important innovation is found in the design of the front seating arrangement of the Master coach and town-sedan. Instead of the usual divided and hinged front seat of two-door models, a single seat cushion extends the full width of the car, permitting three passengers to ride comfortably The seat-back is divided, the right side section being hinged to fold forward over the seat cushion to open a passageway to the rear compartment.

Standard Models Completely New

Chevrolet's Standard models for 1936 besides incorporating features that appear for the first time on the Masters take their place in the line as entirely new models, wit new box girder chassis frame, more powerful engine, longer wheel-base and larger bodies. Th line of body types has been increased to seven by the addition of three models—the four-door sport sedan with built-in trunk, the two-door town sedan with built-in trunk, and the cabriolet.

The Standard model wheelbase formerly 107 inches, is now 109, while its overall length, last year 170½ inches is 12 to 13 inches greater. Bodies are longer and wider, with more leg room, wider seats and addtional head room. Car weight is increased 135 pounds Springing has been improved by the use of longer front and shorter rear springs, which possesses more nearly equal frequencies and so minimizes pitching.

Side rails and cross members of the new Standard frame are all of rigid box section, a type of construction that has appeared on costly European cars but never before in the low price field in this country. Although greatly increased in strength and in stiffness, the box girder members add so greatly to the rigidity of the structure that only three cross members are required. The extreme simplicity of the frame greatly facilitates access to chassis units for lubrication and service operations.

Horsepower of the Sandard, formerly 74, has been increased to 79 at 3200 r.p.m. by changes in combustion with an increase in compression ratic from 5.6 to 1 to 6 to 1.

Clutch improvements include the use of new "shot-blast" process of treating cushion springs of the disc, and a more accurate alignment of the release levers. A rail-type shifting mechanism on the transmisson with positive interlock, has been substituted for the plate type formerly used. Fuel tank capacity, formerly 11 gallons, is now 14. A ventilated generator has been adopted.

Perfected Hydraulic Brakes On All Models

In changing to perfected hydraulic brakes on both chassis models, Chevrolet has adopted the hydraulic principle of brake actuation to its own design of brake mechanism within the brake drums. Instead of the cable operated floating cam formerly used at each wheel, a master hydraulic cylinder with double opposed pistons is used to actuate each pair of one-piece articulated brake shoes.

The master cylinder, whose piston is moved by the brake pedal to transmit pressure by a column of fluid to each of the wheel cylinders, is mounted on the frame. The master piston is one inch in diameter, while wheel pistons are larger to effect an increase of braking effect at the wheels. Front wheel pistons are larger than those of the rear wheels, to balance the breaking effect when. in stopping, extra weight thrown on the front wheels gives them greater traction. This arrangement prevents locking the rear wheels by themselves by heavy brake application.

The hand brakel lever actuates both service brake shoes in both rear wheels. The connection is by flexible cable operating a lever and toggle mechanism within the rear brake drums.

On the Masters, brake drums are of composite construction, comprising a cast iron rim and a pressed steel web. The braking surface is accurately machined, after assembly to the wheel hub, assuring true concentricity. Long life, freedom from scoring, and more effective braking are advantages claimed for cast iron. The outer surface of the drum is machined in deep grooves that form five ribs, to promote cooling

On the Standard, equally effective braking is obtained by using pressed steel drums, which are one inch larger is diameter than last year's. increasing the brake lining area to 158¼ inches. 17 sq. ins. more than formerly. An improved grade of closely grained steel is used for the drums, and their braking surfaces are machined to accurate form and smooth finish. Dirt shields have been added.

Engines Have Been Refined

Engines of the Master and Standard models are identical in design and in horsepower and torque. Maximum horsepower is 79 at 3200 r.p,m. (an increase of 5 h.p. for the Standard.) At 1000 r.p.m. hosepower is 30; at 2000 it is 60. Maximum torque is obtained over an unusually wide range of engine speeds, 156 foot pounds being maintained all the way between 900 and 2000 r.p.m. The increase in compression ratio to 6 to 1 is credited with effecting a 6 per cent improvement in fuel economy. Combustion chambers are reshaped to attain smoothness with higher compression. The new chamber follows. the "blue flame" combustion principles pioneered by Chevrolet several years ago, the form having been worked out by newly devised mechanical laboratory methods to attain maximum effectiveness.

Chevrolet's balanced carburetor is another innovation to promote fuel economy and easy starting. Air pressure in the float chamber is balanced with that inside the carburetor intake to effect a constant ratio of air to gasoline in the fuel mixture and to offset the choking effect that gradually increases as the air cleaner becomes clogged with dust.

Cooling Ssystem Improvements

Major improvements have been made in the Chevrolet cooling system to maintain lower engine temperatures and of cylinder block and valve push rod expansion. The chief change is the adoption of full-length water jackets Formerly, only the upper part of the cylinders was water jacketed. In the new engines, the water jacketing extends far below the lowermost point reached by the head of the piston nearly to the lower edge of the piston skirt at the bottom of the stroke. The rings thus come in contact only with cylinder wall surface that is constantly cooled. Since the full depth of the cylinders is surrounded by water, the cylinders warm up evenly.

The most valuable effect of full length jacketing, however. is its automatic control of engine oil temperature. In the previous design. the engine oil would attain a temperature 125 degrees hotter than the water, by coming in contact with the uncooled lower part of the cylinders. With the new full length jackets, oil temperature runs 50 degrees cooler than formerly. Still further cooling of the oil supply the valve rocker shaft is effected running the supply line through the cylinder block where it is surrounded by water, and the oil is further duced in temperature by 10 degree

The new system not only maint a lower constant oil temperature, it acts to warm up the oil supply to the valve mechanism more quickly after a cold start. Since the water in the cylinder block, held there by a ther stat, quickly heats when the engine is started, it begins to warm the cop tube carrying oil to the rocker a almost immediately after the engin started. The effect is to cause a m e nearly even expansion of the cyl block and the valve mechanism.

Water capacity of the entire syst formerly 11 quarts, is now 15.

Changes in Springing

Chevrolet's all-enclosed knee action units, now entering their third year, main unchanged from their original design except for an improvement the methods of attaching the wheel spindle to the support arm. The spindle is now pressed into the arm under 10,000 pounds pressure, and its end then peened over. Suspension of Master model wth conventional springs has been improved. Riding qual of the Standard have been improved by an entirely new design of spri and suspension. The front springs now 36 inches long, 3 inches longer formerly, and their deflection rat reduced from 315 pounds per inc 209. Rear springs are 49 inches or 5 inches shorter, their deflec rate being increased from 105 po per inch to 112. The front springs now shackled at their rear ends.

QUARANTINE AGAINST 3 GEORGIA COUNTIES

Auburn, Ala.—Cattle cannot shipped into Alabama from Worth Tift, or Colquitt Counties of Georgia until requirements of the Alabama Livestock Sanitary Board are fu ed. The Livestock Board plac quarantine against the Georgia c ties because cattle fever ticks found in that area.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY MAPLESVILLE CHURCH

Whereas, our Heavenly Father has called from the walks of this life one of our most beloved, devoted, and useful members, and

Whereas, we feel a deep sense of regret in the going of Brother John W Foshee of the Maplesville Baptist church.

He was the man who always placed his work for the Master first, and gave so liberally of his means and time.

Truly, this must have been his motto: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these. ye have done it unto me."

However long Maplesville may exist unselfish Christian life which was exemplified by him will continue its enabling work in the hearts of all who came under his influence and caught his lofty vision.

Among young and old, church members and non-church members, there is a profound feeling of respect for Bro. Foshee, and a deep regret at this irreparable loss.

Every organization in the church, as well as civic affair, looked to him for advice and approval.

Resolved, that we humbly bow to the unerring spirrit of Him who doeth all things well; that under such trying times. we can only rely on God's promise; "All things work together for good to those who love the Lord."

Resolved, that we realize his place can not be filled now, but that we members of Maplesville Baptist church covenant with each other that we will put forth greater efforts to live better Christian lives than ever before—by so doing. we can emulate the example he lived in our midst.

Resolved, that the entire membership in our church, Sunday School, W M. U., and B. Y. P. U. extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family. We pray that the choicest blessings of our Heavenly Father rest upon them during the remainder of their lives, especially now, while under the shadow of sad bereavement.

Resolved. that a copy of these resolutions be placed on the minutes of the church, a copy sent to the Alabama Baptist, also the Chilton County News, and a copy to the bereaved family.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN MAPLES,
J. R. BEARDEN,
Miss HELEN NIX,
Mrs. W. E. COBERN, Com.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the regular session 1935 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held on the First Tuesday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the present session of the Legislature, and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after three months from and after the final adjournment of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 17 1935, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama, once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 17th day of December, 1935,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Bibb Graves, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 17th day of December 1935, an election shall be held at the several polling places in the several counties within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"Section 229. The Legislature shall pass no special Act conferring corporate powers but it shall pass general laws under which corporations may be organized and corporate powers obtained, subject, nevertheless, to repeal at the will of the Legislature; and shall pass general laws, under which charters may be altered or amended. The Legislature shall, by general laws, provide for the payment to the State of Alabama of a Franchise Tax by corporations organized under the laws of this State which shall be in proportion to the amount of capital stock; but strictly benevolent, educational or religious corporations or Federal building and loan associations organized pursuant to an Act of Congress known as the Home Owner's Loan Act of 1933, as amended, and as the same may hereafter be amended, or building and loan associations organized under or authorized to do business by the laws of Alabama shall not be required to pay such a tax on their withdrawable or repurchasable shares. The charter of any corporation shall be subject to amendment, alteration, or repeal under general laws. Exemption of the shares of building and loan associations from franchise taxes heretofore provided by statute is ratified."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 11th day of October, 1935.

A Fair Example Of Cottn Control

—o—

Editor, Chilton County News,
Dear Editor:

Please allow space in your elegant columns for a short discussion of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act. The object of this legislation is too important to be made a political horse and no one should discuss it for party effect.

I think my case is one that if properly considered, would give the friends of the measure a concrete example from which they could extract nearly all the information needed to regulate the entire measure.

In 1933 I planted a 25-acre cotton crop. My merchants could not supply my needs. They turned me over to the Government. It reduced my acreage 33 1-3 per cent, allowing to plant 17 acres.

The first of May I lost my best mule and the Government would not supply me one, which meant a complete crop failure.

That year the plow-up program proved a help to me under the circumstances I had no possible chance to make a crop anyway. They paid me $10.00 per acre for the 8 acres destroyed and a parity of $56.00 which paid my accounts and left a little for our home needs

The next year of '34, they cut me to 12 acres and 955 pounds cotton to gin free of tax. This gin limit was not issued until July. I had much rather they had limited me to 4 acres at the beginning of the year so that my labor and fertilizer would not have been so widely distributed to no purpose.

But this is not the worst of it. They paid my adjoining neighbors $7.50 per acre and me only $4.00 or only 60 per cent of what they paid my adjoining neighbor and with only two in family allows them 2100 pounds lint cotton ginned tax free, and me with six in family is allotted 1600 pounds tax free

My neighbors get 40 per cent more rent and raise 50 per cent less crops and are paid for what they fail to raise. I raise most crop and must pay for over-raising. Now I know that any one of common sense can see the inequalties and injustice in this and any legislartor could right these wrongs. I have sought redress of these mistakes. beginning with our local committee and on to the top, but have received none as yet.

If a Government cannot right a wrong that deprives a man the right to make a living, it isn't much Government. If these inequalities are eliminated then the law is o.k. If on the other hand the Government is going to take away one man's opportunity and give to another, it is doing nothing but making paupers by the thousands.

Humbly Submitted.
C.H. ADAMS.

PROTESTING THE MISUSE OF "REVEREND"

—o—

Editor The Chilton County News:

The Bible speaks of several abominations. It fails to speak of one of the worst abominations known to the clergy. I refer to addressing a minister as "Rev. Blank" or putting his name in the newspaper as "Rev. Blank, officiated."

It grates on the nerves of ministers and others who know better to hear those who should know better constantly misusing the word "Reverend." The word is not a title. It is a term of respect and as an adjective should always be preceded by the article "the." Moreover, it should be followed by either the full name or initials of the title "Mister" or "Doctor." It is wrong to say or write "Rev. Smith" or "Rev Jones." It is equally wrong to say or write "the Rev. Jones." It is rightly used when written "the Rev. Paul B. Jones." The term "reverend" is a descriptive adjective. You would not say "the long Jones" or "the short Jones." You should no more write or say "Rev. Jones" than you would write or say "Long Jones, officiated." It should be simply "Mr. Jones." or, if he has a doctorate degree, "Dr. Jones."

Some newspapers have strict rules for the proper use of "Reverend." It is inexcusable for a newspaper to continue to misuse the the term. Some papers that have printed a minister's full name or initials in contributed articles for a number of years will say in writing up a funeral or a wedding. 'Rev. Blank, officiated." It is not very difficult to learn a man's initials. If they are not known they can be looked up.

The Reverend Henry H. Hurst expresses the way many ministers feel in regard to being addressed as "Rev." He says:

"There is a certain title
That makes me want to burst;
Some people always greet me
With 'Howdy, Reverend Hurst'
"As just a common 'Mister,'
I'd acknowledge him who durst;
But I would like to punch the man
Who calls me 'Reverend Hurst.'
"If two things make bad syntax
Well, this one is the first.
When someone introduces me
With 'This is Reverend Hurst.'
"I don't object to 'Doctor'
(Though I am not so versed),
But twist the 'snoot' of that galoot
Who calls me 'Reverend Hurst.'
"I like the term of 'Brother,'
But save me from the worst.
When either saint or sinner
Says 'Hello, Reverend Hurst.' "

The Bible is the foundation of all its courses, but instruction is furnished in suc subjects as Sunday School Administration, Gospel Music, Public Speaking, Home Economics. Hygiene and Manual Training. In special courses are offered Theology, Homiletics, Church History, Hebrew. Greek Yiddish, and medical subjects for foreign mission work.

There are three terms a year—Fall. Winter, and Summer—but students may enter at any time. More than 2,000 students enrolled in its Day and Evening Schools last year. An illustrated catalogue will be mailed free on request. Address, 153 Institute Place Chicago Avenue Station, Chicago, Ill.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy
The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. O. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

Entire Country Behind Plan To Honor Humorist

Chilton County has joined in that movement which is sweeping the country now to pay tribute to the memory of Will Rogers with the creation of the Will Rogers Memorial Fund.

Mrs. C. B. Cox, wife of Chilton County's representative, has been named chairman of the movement in this county and is busy already getting her organization perfected that Chilton's contribution to the appreciation of America's greatest humorist may compare favorably with other sections of the state.

Funds contributed by admirers of the late humorist and philosopher will be deposited in the local banks until the close of the campaign, and will then be used for the creation and maintenance of charitable and educational institutions—the things that Will Rogers would love to do.

Mrs. Cox was appointed chairman for Chilton County by Vera Quin, women's chairman for Alabama of the Will Rogers Memorial Fund.

Will Rogers, the people's spokesman is dead. He had millions of friends Thousands already have actively signified a desire to perpetuate the memory of this friend. An opportunity is now given the millions to express their sentiment—not in a shaft of cold marble for this warm, friendly man—but a living, continung memorial to everlastingly carry on his kindliness to mankind. Beginning with his birthday on November 4th, subscriptions will be received by banks, newspapers and other agencies. The sentiment may be best expressed in the number of friendships rather than a few large subscriptions from a few friends.

The international president urged her listeners to cooperate in the furtherance of federal provision for the patrolling of highways and the enforcement of sane traffice rules. Like all other progressive movements, this must be of an educational nature; and that is where such organizations as the Pilots can be of great influence, she continued

The convention consisted of a banquet, a business session, and an old-fashion party, and was held in the basement of the Clanton Methodist Church Presiding was Miss Ruth Pardue, district governor. Mrs. Mamie C. Smith president of the Clanton club, gave the Welcome Address, and Miss Mae Gaston, of Mobile, the Response.

Composing this ditrict are: Clanton Selma, Montgomery, Dothan, and Mobile club. It was decided that the next convention will be held in March in Mobile.

Membership Drive Of Red Cross Underway

SOLICITORS ARE MAKING DRIVE

Chilton's Quota Is Small This Year; Should Be Reached

Armistice Day, November 11, which was last Monday, inaugurated the Annual Red Cross Membership Drive, staged each year to give those who know and appreciate the great work being done by this organzation in lessening the suffering of humanity over the world an opportunity to contribute to its continuance.

In Chilton County the work was begun with that spirit of enthusiasm expected with J. Mell Martin, as roll call chairman, directing and leading activities. The quota for this county has been set at $300 this year, and Mr. Martin declared that he has no apprehension that our people will be slackers in this, one of the greatest humanitarian movements known to civilization today.

"When you join the Red Cross, you are helping those who need help," Mr. Martin pointed out. During the past year the Red Cross gave relief in 128 disasters, affecting 38 states and the territory of Alaska. The people of Chilton County need no statistics as a guarantee of the type of work done by this organization. Four years, next spring, when a storm swept the northern section of Chilton County, the people up there remember who came to their rescue. The Red Cross spent more than $40,000 to alleviate the suffering of those whose homes were wrecked by the winds.

Statistics show that one out of every 20 people will be injured or killed in motor vehicle accidents within the next five years, and only one-third of the number of accident fatalities result from automobile accidents.

The Red Cross is perpetually at war against avoidable accidents, educating the people of the country to exercise more care and thus prevent many accidents. But where tragedy stalks there you will find the Red Cross—administering help.

THOMAS MAHAN EXONORATED ON ATTACK CHARGE

Preliminary Shows Young Man Had Nothing To Do With Assault

At preliminary trial recently, Thomas Mahan, Clanton youth, was exonerated of participation in the alleged beating sometime ago of Joe Gore, of near Clanton, and Radford (Mickey) MacGuire, who was arrested with Mahan, was bound over to the grand jury on a $200 bond.

The preliminary was held before Justice of the Peace J. L. Wilson, who declared that no evidence was given that Mahan had anything to do with the assault other than being present. He said that Gore testified that it was Houston MacGuire, brother of Radford, who slugged him with the butt of a pistol when he refused to let him have his truck.

Houston MacGuire has not been apprehended. It is believed that he learned that a warrant for his arrest had been issued and left the county shortly after the affray, which occurred in Clanton near the home of J. D. Rockett.

Gore was in a serious condition for several days, but his injuries are said to be healed.

NEGRO KILLED IN FIGHT OF GIRL FRIEND NEAR BILL

Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies are seeking a Negro, believed to be Walter Parker, 19, for the alleged slaying of Bernies Tillis, 21, another Negro, in a fit of jealousy at a box-supper near Billingsley last Saturday night.

According to the reports received by the sheriff, Parker is said to have bought a box belonging to Tillis's girl. A fight ensued and Parker is said to have run to a nearby house and got a shot gun, firing a load into Tillis' stomach. He died Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Warrene Farrior, who has been working with the WPA in Montgomery for several week, spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs W. D. Spigener. Mrs. Farrior left Monday for Shelby County where she will assist with the WPA work in that county for several weeks.

CONTRACTS LET FOR TWO NEW SCHOOL BLDGS.

Isabella And Collins Chapel Get New School Buildings

Contracts were awarded Tuesday for the erection of two new school buildings in Chilton County, according to announcement by Supt. Luther E. Little. Both buildings are to replace structures destroyed by fire during last school term.

At the Isabella High School, a one-story frame building, consisting of 12 class-rooms, auditorium, office, and storage rooms will be erected. Contract for this job was awarded to the Empire Construction Company, the bid being $34,999.69 for building and equipping. This building is to be steam heated.

Ed Paul, of Birmingham, was low bidder on a five-room frame structure at Collins Chapel. His bid for erection and equipping was $19,263. Besides the five class rooms, the building will have an auditorium, library room, and office.

Superintendent Little declared that work will be started on these projects just, as soon as final approval of the builders' bonds is received from government authorities, and he hopes to have the buildings completed by early spring.

Both buildings will replace buildings which were destroyed by fire during last school term. It has been necessary to make use of churches, private homes and other substitutes to carry on school in these communities.

Clanton Seen As City In Nation's Capitol

Clanton is recognized as a city now, even so far away as Washington, D. C. Mayor C. Fenn Jones had a letter Monday from W. L. Austin, director of the Washington Bureau of Census, in which he gave official recognition of the city's new census.

Completed last week, the new census places the population of Clanton at 3363, instead of 1847 as is given in the 1930 census statistics. Extension of the city limits made a new census desirable.

Jemison Boy Wins Essay Prize Contest

Auburn as recently announced that C. W. Wells, Jr., of the Jemison High School was first winner in a recent state wide essay contest for vocational students. The title of the essay was "My Impression of the Experiment Station." The prize goes to the Jemison F. F. A. Chapter of which C. W. is a member, and consists of a choice of 4,000 black locust seedlings, or 4,000 slash pine seedlings. The boys have decided to take the black locusts and grow them for fence posts. The Department of Horticulture and Forestry at Auburn donated the prizes.

Prizes were offered this summer by Auburn when over a thousand boys gathered at the state F. F. A. Convention. While there they were conducted over the Experiment Station.

This is the second time within the last twelve months that C. W. Wells Jr., has been first prize winner in state essay contests for vocational students. His vocational work is under the supervision of Mr. J. P. Montgomery.

NEW COTTON VARIETIES ARE DISCUSSED

County Agent Advises On Selecting Cotton Of New Variety

TO FARMERS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

Dear Sirs:

Are you planning to get a new variety of cotton next year?

If you try a new variety what will it be?

Great care should be used in changing varieties. It is very easy to change to a variety which may not be at all suited to this county. Seed of a new variety should not be bought until all the facts about the variety are obained.

Who knows the facts about cotton varieties The safest guide for farmers of Chilton County is the cotton variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. All best known varieties are tested year after year on the principal soils of the State by well trained experienced man. The results of these impartial tests are the best guide we have for selecting a variety of cotton for this county. For example, in these tests a farmer selecting the poorest variety in place of the best one in the test on one soil type would have lost $13.70 per acre or $137.00 on ten acres of cotton.

These Experiment Staton cotton variety tests remove the "guess" in selecting a suitable variety for this county.

If you plan to change varieties this season let me urge you to see or write me about these Experiment Station tests. I have these results in my office and shall be delighted to discuss them with you.

Yours very truly,
J. W. FANT, County Agent.

Evans Variety Store Announces Opening

On Main Street, next door to the Yellow Front Store, is the location selected for Clanton's newest place of business. Evans Variety Store, under the management of Julian Evans. However, this new store also has a good selection of toys, air guns, toy pistols, Christmas decorations, etc. A full assortment of tobaccos, cigarettes, cold drinks, and magazines are also carried.

Although Julian is widely known throughout Chilton County, having been with the Chilton County Exchange for sometime, this is his first venture into business, and his many friends are unanimous is predicting success for Evans Variety Store.

Demonstration Clubs Running Close On Second Place

Isabella P.-T. A. is still leading in the Chilton County News $200.00 cash prize subscription contest, but several other entrants are crawling toward the top this week, and if we are allowed the privilege of prediction—we venture to say that some of these organizations who heretofore have been slow on the take-off will take the inside curve on the last laps.

Contestants will be given double votes for all subscriptions turned in this week between Thursday November 14, 8 a. m., and Saturday, November 16, 6 p. m. Ths will give an excellent opportunity for some of those who got into the contest late to gain some of the ground lost. On the other hand, those who are well ahead had better take advantage of this chance to keep ahead.

This will apply not only to persons who are soliciting for some organization, but to those who come into the office to subscribe or renew their subscription to the News, an opportunity will be extended them to vote for their favorite organization—and remember subscriptions will count double during these three days.

Interest in grasping this opportunity to win one of these awards is just now reaching the boiling point. From now until mid-December when the contest is scheduled to close, is going to be warm traveling. Contestants are beginning to realize that all it is going to take to be winner is just a little hard work.

The interesting feature of the whole scheme is that solicitors are paid in addition to the opportunity to win the prize money for their favorite organization. Twenty per cent commission—not bad! Any person who will go out with the determination to get subscriptions to the News can't fail to make money. With the rate cut from he regular $1.50 per year price to $1.00 during this campaign, the paper sells itself.

Poultry Meeting Held In Clanton Tues. Morn

A poultry leadership meeting was held Tuesday morning in the office of Miss Ruth Pardue, county home demonstration agent. A representative of the Alabama Extension Service and a poultry specialist addressed the group of leaders that attended.

Proper housing and feeding at low costs were discussed at the meeting Figures were cited to show that a modern poultry house can be erected for about $4.00 and a good, substantial feed hopper can be made from a nail keg and a cheese box at practically no cost.

Selection of feeds, management of the flock, and methods of obtaining the best egg production were also among the subjects discussed.

C.B. COX IS NOW WITH CONCERN IN BIRMINGHAM

Repesentative Leaves Job With State Highway Department

Rep. C. B. Cox of Chilton County is now connected with a Birmingham cast iron manufacturing concern. For sometime Mr. Cox has been engaged with the State Highway Department but recently accepted a position with this Birmingham manufacturing company to travel in Mississippi and Alabama.

This work will in no way interfere with his representation of the people of Chilton County in the State Legislature.

Commenting on Mr. Cox's new position, a Montgomery newspaper had the following to say:

EXODUS—The lure of better-paid jobs has drawn another state expert to private business. Rep. Charles Cox of Chilton county, rated as one of the best practical road builders in the state, resigned October 1 from the state highway department to become affiliated with a cast iron pipe company, for which he will travel over the states of Alabama and Mississippi It is said his new job will pay him nearly a third more than his position with the state.

Cox worked for the commission during the latter two years of the first Graves administration, supervising road construction in various sections of the state.

His departure was preceded by J. H Aldredge, who resigned as transportation expert of the public service commission to become transportation economist of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Kenneth James, accountant for the regulatory body, who followed Aldredge to TVA for the reason —higher pay.

AL KEY VISITS LOCAL AIRPORT

Citizens Hopeful After Officials Make Inspection Here

Visions of a modern airport, with both private and passenger planes landing several times each day, is again the hope of those who have faithfully worked for the past two or three years in behalf of the development of Gragg Field.

Last Thusday night, Al Key, holder of the endurance flight record and at present district adviser of aeronautics with the Department of Commerce, Major Edward M. Haight, regional supervisor of airport marking and mapping, and Capt. John Donaldson, state director of aeronautics, were guest speakers at the meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, when they assured those present that appropriations totalling $35,000 are available for the completion of Gragg Field, provided 32 acres additional lands are secured to increase the size of the landing area.

Major Haight and Al Key landed at the local field Wednesday afternoon in a large Department of Commerce ship and made a detailed inspection of the project before appearing before Kiwanis Thursday evening. Unless this additional land is secured, they declared that it will be impossible for them to approve a $6,000 or a $29,000 appropriation, which they stated is available, for the completion of this project.

Failure on the county government's part to cooperate in this program which the Department of Commerce is supporting with wholehearted enthusiasm will no doubt mean the end of government participation here—at least for many months. Again it was explained that the location of Clanton makes it desirable to have an airport here which will figure in future development of aviation in this section of the nation.

To any one finding a black purse with about thirteen dollars and a comb in it will they please return to Mrs. Tommie Maddox, Thorsby, Ala., as that was all the money I had and no way of buying groceries for three children and myself. Indian Summer

November is usually marked by a brief period of warmer weather after the first cold snaps of winter have passed, this period being popularly known as Indian summer. How the names arose is obscure, except that it is of American origin.

In England and France this warmer season is known as St. Martin's summer and supposed to begin on St. Martin's Day, November 11, around which many traditions have grown. If the day be bright and sunny there will be a cold winter, and the same will happen if the trees still retain their foliage; but if frost occurs before that day the winter will be mild—so runs the ancient saying.

St. Martin is the patron saint of France, of beggars and of reformed drunkards. He was a real personage, who flourished in the fourth century and became Bishop of Tours, rising from pagan parents. Many miracles, including raising the dead, are attributed to him. One legend tells that after he divided his cloak with a beggar on a wintry November day, summer came back again because of his kind deed—hence the term St. Martin's summer, which has persisted for more than 1,500 years.

St. Martin's or Indian summer is briefly described as "that mellow time in November. which follows the first, or even the second cold snap or period; the return of summer for a season, characterized by a hazy atmosphere and a mellow air and coloring."

The True Basis Of Cotton Prices

Recently those who have attacked the government's efforts in behalf of the cotton farmer have claimed that the government guarantee of a certain price for cotton has been responsible for holding the price of cotton down as well as up. The error of this reasoning has been very definitely demonstrated during the last few days. When the cotton report for the estimated 1935 crop was released a few days ago, indicating a smaller crop for this year, prices took an immediate jump.

The trouble has been too much cotton raised every year. Year after year surpluses have increased, and this unused surplus has held the price down. Farmers have raised cotton in the hopes that they could obtain cash to buy a lot of the things which should have been grown on their own farms: Feedstuffs, meats, canned fruits and vegetables, milk, butter, eggs, and other similar products.

Agricultural extension workers have aimed at a more balanced program of less cotton and more feedstuffs for years with desultory success compared to the need. Government rental of cotton lands, with privilege of growing feedstuffs on same has accomplished this goal to a greater degress than has ever been done before.

Regardless of what may be the future of AAA, less cotton and more feedstuffs will mean more money and less overhead for the farmer. It's a strange thing, but a fact proven by the past, that farmers always get more money the less cotton they raise, and less money the more cotton they produce.

It looks like a case where the directions are clear, the way is open, and effectiveness of the remedy proved.

A good many statesmen no doubt wish Mussolini's parents had practiced birth control.

The term "delusion of grandeur" was doubtless invented to describe that truck driver complex.

Senator Norris wants to abolish the electoral college. Might as well, as it has no football team.

It seems that the upkeep of a pretty face is about as expensive as that of a homely one.

Birth Of The Red Cross

This month the annual roll call of the Red Cross will take place, and the public will be again reminded of the untiring zeal and effectiveness of this indispensable organization in the service of stricken humanity.

In contemplating the devotion of this now world-wide agency of mercy ,it is not amiss to give a thought to that kindly soul who was its founder, Henri Dunant, a Franco-Swiss business man, born in Geneva in 1828.

Witnessing the sufferings of the wounded after the battle of Solferino, Italy, in 1859, he organized a volunteer nursing service for their relief. For three years thereafter he lectured and wrote of the horrors he had witnessed, traveling about Europe making his plea for an organization to meet such emergencies. Officials of influence were interested and an international conference was called at Geneva in 1863, with 36 delegates representing 14 nations and six charitable organizations present. Thus the Red Cross was born.

Henri Dunant lived to the age of 82, by which time he had seen the great organization of which he was the father spread to every civilized nation. Perhaps no man who ever lived contributed more to the cause of humanity than he, and millions yet unborn will be beneficiaries of the noble movement of which his great, sympathetic heart was the inspiration.

Queer Superstitions

Superstitions regarding the prevention and cure of disease have persisted from the immemorial, many of them being still prevalent in the more backward sections of the country. A few were called to mind by a recent writer, in noting the death of an aged Kentuckian who continued to wear earrings to the last, in the belief that they were good for the eyesight.

Another old-time notion was that wearing a mustache was beneficial to weak eyes, just as it was thought that carrying a buckeye or a potato in the pocket would prevent or cure rheumatism.

One doesn't have to be so very old to remember when children were caused to wear a little bag of asafetida strung around the neck as a protection against "catching" diseases and when in many homes bunches of various dried herbs were hung about for the same purpose. Some believed that keeping a goat around the house was a prime health measure.

The Red Cross Call

Under the direction of J. Mell Martin, County Roll Call Chairman, the Red Cross drive is on in Chilton County this week, and will continue through Thanksgiving. Our quota has been set at three hundred memberships. We can and undoubtedly will go over that figure.

Worthiness of the cause is beyond question with citizens of this county. We know that the Red Cross activities are wisely and effectively executed. We have been the recipient of Red Cross aid; we know that disastrous events are occurring constantly in various section of the country; and we will not fail to make our contribution toward the aid given by the American Red Cross.

However, just because our quota is not large this year, let us not wait for somebody else to make it. Every individual should feel responsible for his or her membership being paid up just as quickly as possible. That will relieve those in charge of the roll call of a great deal of trouble, and these people are donating their services, so let's make it as easy as we can for them by enrolling NOW!

D. W. Haskew

Every morning for a week I entered my study to find a large spider web woven in the corner of the window. Each morning I would take the broom and remove the web. Finally it occurred to me that I was getting nowhere by just removing the web. The only way to stop the web from being in the window corner was to put to death the spider that created the web. I went atfer the spider and when I had killed the insect there were no more webs to bother me. Looking back over our days journey we can see where we have made a mistake. We can see the cobwebs in our record. We think that we are growing better when we remove the faults and failures of the day. When another day has passed we see the same mistakes and the same faults made the day before. We are making no headway in clearing our souls of faults by just brushing away the mistakes of the day. Go after the thing in your life that causes you to make the mistake or commit the sin and kill that desire and the same thing will not be found in your heart again.

While reading a county paper I ran across this announcement made by someone who loved the church. "There will be a church cleaning day at our church on Friday and all who are interested in a clean church will please meet at nine o'clock." It was not clear as to whether the community would be required to clean the church building or the members who composed the church. If they were to clean the buildng, that could be done in one day but if they were to "clean up" the membership of the church that might run into weeks and months. We believe in having a clean church building, but the most of the effort needed now is to clean up our membership Some folks call the revival "The Wash Day" of the church. Some call it the "Clean Up Day." It will take both days to set our church memberhip right if we are going to make church life what it should be. There will be a "clean up" day at your church next Sunday If you are interested you are requested to be present.

Hagenbeck had to kill three of his largest and best trained elephants and all because the mice had gnawed their feet and burrowed into their ears. In size the mice are mere specks by the side of an elephant, yet the mouse can overcome the elephant. It is a well known fact that a herd of elephants will go into a stampede when a mouse is seen near. How important it is that we should be afraid of little sins. They gnaw our characters and burrow into our soul with fateful results. Better be very much frightened when little sins come near. Watch out for little sins. They will lay you low.

One Sabbath in August I was on a ship off Cape Hattaras. The ship was wallowing in a rough sea. The captain sent a sailor to the top of the tallest mast that he might have a wide vision for all possible danger. I watched closely the man as he climbed and when he had reached his elevation I observed the captain as he listened to the report of the man high up. The captain offered no dictation to the observer and at no time did he argue with him or call in question the correctness of his report. It was accepted in all good faith. The man was high above the captain and should be able to know the sweep of the sea. When a man climbs high and lives close to God it behooves us to listen to his report. When a "good man" tells you there is danger in certain things you had better hush your objections and give up your personal beliefs and listen to him. He see farther and wiser than you. Listen to good men.

When people go around playing the song of life on one string they make but little music and yet, there are thousands of people who do nothing but "harp away" or one string all the time. A "hobby horse" is a mighty poor horse to ride In the song of life. for goodness sake present a variety.

ORIGIN OF FOOTBALL

What is said to be the earliest written mention of football in America is contained in a book on Virginia published about 1609. only two years after the first permanent settlement at Jamestown. In that day boys played a crude game by kicking an inflated bladder over the field.

But the real origin of football goes back to ancient times in Greece and Rome, where a game called "harpaston," or "harpastum," was played. It is likely that the game was introduced into the British Isles by the Romans about the beginning of the Christian era. Varieties of the game have been found in many other parts of the world. Native Polynesians played with a ball made of bamboo fibers; Eskimo made a ball of moss with a skin cover

Early football rules were more in keeping with the name of the game as the ball was kicked only, and not carried.. The carrying feature of the game was introduced by William Webb Ellis, a schoolboy of Rugby, England in the closing minute of a tied game in the fall of 1823. His feat is commemorated by a tablet at Rugby which bears this inscription:

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis. who with a fine disregard of the rules of foot ball as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it thus orginating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game."

The first intercollegiate football game in America was played in 1869 between Princeton and Rutgers, with 25 men on each side, and was won by Rutgers, the score being 6 to 4.

The Human Element Back of Your Telephone

But for the human element back of your telephone, the millions of dollars worth of telephone equipment in the State would be only so much inactive machinery.

It is the army of telephone workers who give life to the vast network of wires, switchboards and other equipment, making of it one of the State's most used and useful instruments of modern business and social life.

These workers are selected with extreme care as to their fitness for the job and the majority of them have had years of experience and training in their respective lines of work. They are loyal folks, all striving for the same end—that you shall continue to get the best and most dependable service possible at the lowest cost consistent with the financial safety of the business.

Collectively, they and their families form a very large group of substantial citizens, who contribute in many ways to the welfare and support of the State. Their earnings are spent mainly for the necessities of life, in the communities where they work and live. This regular expenditure of money aids materially in the support of merchants and other business institutions throughout the State.

Because their life work in the telephone business is service to the public, it is natural for telephone people to be interested and active in civic, church and other organizations which work for the upbuilding and betterment of the communities in which they live.

The telephone industry is one of the State's largest and most necessary institutions, but its value is not measured alone in money. Of equal importance to the investment in land, buildings and equipment are these loyal people whose lives are dedicated to a necessary public service, which through years of perseverance and labor, they have developed to the present high standard of quality and dependability. These folks are the Telephone Company.

Five Point Hog Program Given

Auburn, Ala.—By following a simple 5-point program, Alabama farmers can profitably market surplus corn by feeding it to hogs. says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who offers the following suggestion:

1. Select only thrifty, well-developed pigs as feeders.
2. If possible, keep pigs on green feed, such as rye or oats, during the entire feeding period.
3. Keep a mineral mixture (equa parts by weight of charcoal, slacked lime, an dsalt before the hogs at all times.
4. Equal parts by weight of 60 per cent tankage and cottonseed meal should be kept in a self-feeder or fed at the rate of 1-2 pound per pig per day, in addition to all the corn they will clean up twice daily.
5. Shade, shelter, and fresh clean water should be available at all times.

C.C.H.S. LOSES TO MONTEVALLO BY SCORE OF 13-6 ON BREAKS

The Chilton County Tigers lost a hard fought game to Montevallo High last Friday afternoon.

Early in the first quarter Montevallo registered a touchdown, but this did not dishearten our boys. They fought a good fight, and the spirit hold them to the end was shown on the faces of every player on our team.

In the second quarter neither team was able to score. In the third quarter C.C.H.S. on a beautiful pass from Gillespie to Williamson, registered their touchdown and the score remained 6-7 until late in the fourth quarter when a punt from Williamson was blocked paving the way for Montevallo's second touchdown.

The local team plays Holtville at Holtville next Friday afternoon, and the following Friday the classic game of the season will be played between Clanton and Isabella. This is a long looked for occasion. Quite a bit of friendly rivalry has arisen between Isabella High and C.C.H.S. This game no doubt will be one of the hardest fought and most hotly contested athletic occasions ever experienced in Clanton. Printed programs will be run off early next week descriptive of this game, with names, weight, and positions of players on both sides and posted in prominent places downtown for the information of all concerned. These programs will be paid for by the merchants and businessmen of Clanton.

STATE FARMERS WARNED ABOUT COTTON VARIETIES

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers planning to grow a new variety of cotton next year should get the real facts about the variety before buying the seed, advise officials of the State Experiment Station and Extension Service.

Growers are likely to suffer a heavy loss unless they do obtain the real truth about the cotton seed, they advise.

The safest guide for farmers in buying cotton seed is the cotton variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. All best known varieties are tested year after year on the principal soils of the State by well trained, experienced men. These tests remove the "guess" in selecting a suitable variety of cotton.

The results of this year's findings will be made available within the next few weeks. In the meantime, farmers desiring to purchase seed should advise with their county agents who have the results obtained in tests conducted over a period of years.

Oyster And Chicken Supper At Jemison

The F. F. A. and F. H. A. are sponsoring an oyster and chicken supper at the high school on November 15, 1935, from 5 to 8 o'clock p. m. The cost of each oyster or chicken plate is twenty-five cents; stew fifteen cents, cake five cents, cocoa or coffee five cents.

The public is urged to attend. The profit received will be given to assist in equipping convalescent homes for crippled children of Alabama. These homes are possible only with outside help, since the funds for equipping and furnishing them cannot be supplied from the State appropriations. Fortunately, buildings have been offered by kind-hearted people, but these buildings must be equipped.

There are 9,000 crippled children in Alabama. There were only 158 crippled children treated last year. At present there are 744 crippled childern on record waiting for hospitalization. There are many not on record. Without these homes there will be only a limited number of children who can receive hospitalization. With the homes they can be readily removed from the hospitals and treated therein, freeing the hospital beds for other children. After the homes are equipped that particular piece of work will be permanent.

Come to the Jemison High School enjoy the supper and at the same time help the crippled children.

Every effort is being made to give the public an appetizing dinner and wholesome recreation.

"In his father's footsteps," seems to be the slogan of James Carl Martin young son of J. Mell Martin of Clanton. Although only a freshman in high school, James Carl shows signs of developing into a real promoter.

And everyone who knows J. Mell Martin recognizes that he's the man to get interested when you have some civic or public program to foster.

This year, Mr. Martin is roll call chairman for the Red Cross Annual Membership Drive in this county. The drive began Monday, Armistice Day but the workers who were scheduled to solicit membership in Clanton failed to show up.

When James Carl went to his father's office late in the afternoon and heard the story of the bad showing being made in Clanton on the first day of the drive, he armed himself with receipts, membership cards, buttons, and other necessary paraphernalia and sailed forth. He returned an hour later with 14 memberships.

He's just another J. Mell, it would seem.

The Legislature shall not, after the adoption of this amendment, pass any law making any claim a preferred claim against said County, and all laws, or parts of laws, now in force and effect, making a claim a preferred claim against said County, are hereby annulled as to any future claim. The words "governing body of Mobile County" as herein used shall include any board or officer which is now or which may hereafter be vested with the powers and duties now or formerly exercised by the Board of Revenue and Road Commissioners of Mobile County, Alabama. Any person violating any of the provisions of this amendment shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000.00, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, one or both, at the discretion of the jury trying the same, and the violation of any of the provisions of this amendment shall also be ground for impeachment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday the 17th day of December, 1935, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 17th day of December 1935, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 31st day of October, 1935.

Our church met in conference Wednesday night, November 6, and elected the Rev. L. L. Stanley of Thorsby, Ala., for our pastor for the coming year.

Rev. Stanley was on program on our homecoming day. Everyone present seemed to enjoy his sermon.

We feel sure that we are going to be well pleased with our new pastor. Our former pastor, the Rev. A. C. Nelson and family left last Saturday for their new field at Headland, Ala. With reluctance we give him up to the new field. We are sure he will be greatly missed by his many friends in the county.

Since Rev. Stanley cannot be with us on the third Sunday morning, the hour has been set for 2:3- in the afternoon and 6:45 in the evening Everyone is cordially invited to come and bring someone with you.

1936 Farm Outlook Good, Says Bureau

Auburn, Ala.—The present "upward trend" in farm income will continue in 1936 predicts the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which expresses belief that the income available for farm family living will be the best since 1929

"The demand for farm products in 1936 is likely to be greater than in 1935. Consumer buying power in the United States is likely to be increased in 1936; buying power of consumers in many foreign countries also is likely to increase," says the Bureau.

Improvements in farm family well-being, it is stated, are indicated by the decrease in the number of farmers on relief, only two-thirds as many being reported in October, 1935, as in the same month of 1934.

THAT'S NEWS!

WE DON'T claim to have the complete answer to the problem of keeping children clean, but we do say that having hot water ready ALL THE TIME—the way you have it with an automatic ELECTRIC Water Heater — will make a world of difference. Frequently the children will solve the cleanliness problem themselves.

Automatic ELECTRIC hot water saves time and eliminates annoyance dozens of times a day, with dishwashing, laundering, house-cleaning and baths all needing hot water. (The cost is only a few cents a day at the most—a small price for making cleanliness so easy.)

leans, midway between Birmingham and Montgomery, an ideal base for maneuvers by the Maxwell Field corps —the Department of Commerce is intensely interested in the promotion of this field's development.

Declarng that airports are to aviation what highways have been to the development of automobile travel, Major Haight described to his audience his conception of the development of aviation in this country in the coming years. Any place, he said, without proper facilities to accomodate the air-traveler will be off the map. Today people go to places which they can reach by traveling good roads. Tomorrow they will just as surely seek those centers of trade where the best aviation facilities are afforded.

Neither Key or Capt. Donaldson spoke at length, but both assured their listeners of their full cooperation in behalf of the development of Gragg Field.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, who was toastmaster, announced that a private option for 60 days had been secured on the desired acreage. Both county and city officials present at the meeting pledged their support.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and Commissioner Howad R. Oden, representing the county governing body expressed their willingness to cooperate in the promotion of the program, as did Councilman L. E. Diefenderfer.

Capt. Donaldson said that the WPA is anxious to complete these airport projects if possible by next June 30 and urged the people of Clanton not to lose too much time in purchasing the necessary lands in order that approval of the two appropriations might be made while the funds are still available.

With $35,000 it was explained Clanton could have one of the most up-to-date little fields in the country. Major Haight estimated that grading of the additional 32 acres should not cost more than $6,000, leaving the $29,000 appropriation for the buildng of a hangar and equipping the field with lights

Other speakers were: Judge Smith Howard Oden, Mack Wyatt, Percy M. Pitts, L. E. Diefenderfer, Supt. Luther E. Little, and Senator Earle Thomas

It has not been learned when the Commissioners Court and City Council expect to take action on purchasing the the additional acreage. However at a meeting of the court last Monday, November 4, a motion was passed to cooperate with the city in this movement if it was determined that the federal appropriation was available.

MORE MEMBERS ARE NEEDED FOR RED CROSS ROLI

Last Week Of Roll Call; Eveyone Being Urged To Join

Only about one week more remains for the people of Chilton County to express their appreciation to the National Red Cross Organization for its work in behalf of suffering humanity throughout the world, and to share in this work by contributing funds for its continuance.

Thanksgiving, November 28, closes the Annual Membership Drive. Just a few days remain for Chilton County to show her colors, and come through with the quota set for her this year. A quota of only 300 memberships is not high for a county that knows the Red Cross first hand, as do the people of this section.

J. Mell Martin, roll-call chairman. is urging everyone who has not yet joined in this drive to do so at once. "Make your contribution to someone that really needs help—wear your Red Cross button and let the world know that you are one who believes in lending aid to the sufferng of our country," Mr Martin appealed.

Reports have not been had from the various workers out in every community in the county, but Mr. Martin is urging them to make good use of the few remaining days between now and Thanksgiving when the campaign will be officially closed. "There is no reason why we should not go far beyond this small quota. and if we do not—it will have been the fault of the workers and not the people. I know if the people of Chilton County are given an opportunity to subscribe to this great organization, they are not going to turn it down."

4-H Clubs Being Organized in County Schools

Miss Ruth Pardue, county home demonstration agent, and County Agent J. W. Fant have been busy for several days organizing and reorganizing both boys and girls of the county into 4-H clubs.

Clubs have been organized in the following schools, it was announced, and there are several others to be visited before the completion of the program:

Baker Junior High, Mt. Pleasant Vermont, Stanton, Concord, and Thomas Junior.

D. M. MARTIN OF ISABELLA RECENT VISITOR TO CLANTON

Mr. D. M. Martin, father of A. D Martin, Chilton County's Tax Assessor was a very pleasant visitor in Clanton one day last week. While here he called by the News office and chatted with the boys for sometime. Mr. Martin is well past the three score and ten year mark, but he carries the years lightly, and one would think him a much younger man. He is a fine citizen from a fine community, and we are glad that he came to see us while in town.

Walter Scott Arrested On Murder Charge After Affray In Sept.

Walter P. Hayes, who was a World War veteran, died Monday at 3 p. m., after undergoing treatment for almost two months for the knife wounds and the loss of blood, said to have been suffered when he and Scott engaged in a fight because Scott cursed and threatened Hayes' children when they were gathering pecans off of trees near the Hayes home.

A CHANCE TO SHARE YOUR CHRISTMAS JOY

It isn't too early to begin thinking about Christmas. In fact one lady Mrs. Ola Kelley of Thorsby, Ala., who is also a widow and is crippled. Mrs. Kelley does not have a great deal of wealth of this world, but she has a beautiful Bed Spread, spider design which she has crocheted. She says it is very beautiful, and wonders if someone would not like to purchase it for Christmas. She is not asking a high price for this lovely spread, and if she can sell it, the proceeds would enable her to also share in the joyous Yuletide Season.

VERBENA TAKES LEAD THIS WEEK IN $200 PRIZE CONTEST

Isabella Follows Close In Second Place; Subscriptions Pouring In To News With Contest End Drawing Near

The prospectus of the big subscription contest being staged by the Chilton County News changed last week, when Verbena P.-T. A. forged ahead to lead the field in the home stretch which will decide the winners of the $200.00 cash awards being offered.

Since the beginning of the campaign several weeks ago, the Isabella P.-T A. has held the coveted place at the head of the list—first choice as winner of the prize of $150.00 in cash, which will be given to some lucky organization within the near future. With only two days hard work, the Verbena P.-T. A. climbed from the bottom to the top of the list, now leading Isabella by the small margin of 83 votes.

The Chilton County Home Demonstration Council is one of the leading contestants, holding third place in the list of leaders. Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. climbed Saturday from the very bottom of the list to fourth place, and Billingsley P.-T. A., one of the latest entrants, is gradually crawling toward first place, now being fifth.

Isabella P.-T. A.—7,891.
Chilton H. D. Council—7,486.
Clanton Grammar P.-T. A.—5,504.
Billingsley P.-T. A.—4,389.

Mr. Mims, The Dog Killed By You Was Found To Be 'Mad'

Health authorities here and in Montgomery are seeking a man, who gave his name as A. C. Mims of Clanton Route Two.

Saturday. November 9, he sent the head of a dog to state laboratories for examination. It was found tha the animal was suffering from rabies, but no trace of A. C. Mims can be found.

It is not known whether the dog had bitten Mr. Mims or members of his family. It is only known that he sought to determine if the dog had been rabid.

Allowing for the passing of the usual nine days, the time ordinarily required for the disease to take effect after one is bitten, the time is drawing near for those who may have come in contact with this dog to contract the disease.

That is the reason that every effort has been made by health authorities here and in the State Department to locate Mr. Mims and notify him that the dog was "mad."

Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Stapp of Selma Ala., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs J. C. Page, Sunday.

BANKHEAD SEES CHANGE IN COTTON PLAN

Bankhead Says New System Of Bases Will Remove Inequalities Of System

Haynesville, Ala., Nov. 15.—Senator John Bankhead told 1,000 Lowndes County cotton famers here yesterday that he was "reliably informed" that in 1936 they would have four alternate bases from which to select in determining their cotton production allotment

He declared that this plan would supercede the five-year production plan which he said had cause considerable dissatisfaction, and would give cotton farmers of the south the opportunity to select their best years for a base on which to fix their allotment

Senator Bankhead, who drafted the Bankhead cotton control act in collaboration with Congressman Will Bankhead, his brother said that President Roosevelt had declared that unless a legal cotton production control plan was in effect next year, the government would make no cotton loans.

The State can elect, Senator Bankhead said he was informed, to have his 1936 allotment based on:

1. Present base period of the five-year period 1928-32 inclusive.
2. Production in 1932-1933 and 1934
3. Production in 1933, plus plow-up acres and 1934-35.
4. Production in 1935.

He declared that this plan would eliminate "many of the inequalities' that exist under the present system

"All people interested should bear in mind," he said, "that no further cotton loans will be made if there is no law for compulsory crop control. President Roosevelt, while congress was in session, stated . . . that he would authorize no such loan unless congress passed a bill continuing the Bankhead act.

"It should now be understood definitely and positively that if we lose compulsory control of the cotton crop that the price of cotton must take its place under the law of supply and demand, and that it will not be aided by further government loans. On that point I speak with authority."

YOUN MAN IS KILLED FRIDAY AT SAWMILL

Lonnie Ellison, Age 27, Falls On Saw And Dies Instantly

Lonnie Ellison, 27 year-old sawmill worker, was instantly killed last Friday afternoon when he was thrown from the log carriage into the whirling circle saw at the T.C. McSwain sawmill. ten miles northeast of Clanton.

The accident occurred when John Partridge, swayer, suddenly stopped the carriage to prevent one of the iron "dogs" from striking the saw. Ellison who was block-setter, lost his footing on the carriage and was hurled into the saw, which practically severed his body. Ben Roberts and other felyow-workmen, who dragged him from the saw, declared that he must have dide by the time his body struck the whirling saw.

It was near nightfall and the last log for the day was being ripped into lumber when the sawyer noticed that one of the "dogs" was going to strike the saw, and stopped the carriage sud-

Press Rights Upheld

Another effort to muzzle the press has failed in Texas, where a judge fined six Houston newspaper men for contempt of court, because they published reports of a murder trial in violation of his order not to do so.

Three managing editors were fined $100 each, and three reporters $25 each, which all refused to pay. They were ordered into technical custody of the sheriff, but were released on writs of habeas corpus pending appeal.

A few days ago the Court of Criminal Appeals ruled that newspapers have a constitutional right to print proceedings of criminal trials—a right which can not be abridged by the courts. It declared that "in the nature of things the proceedings of public trials constitute news which newspapers have the right to publish in informing the public of current events."

It was pointed out that a court could order a change of venue to protect the accused and that the law offers wide latitude for determining whether jurors hold opinions that would influence a verdict.

After declaring the privilege of writing opinions was accorded and protected by the bill of rights, the court said:

"This guaranty is also embodied in the constitutions of the several American states and in the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Highway Maintenance

We do not vouch for the correctness of his figures, but a recent writer declares that 100,000 miles of hard surfaced American highways must be reconstructed in the next two or three years, or they will be unfit for use. Some engineers estimate that within 15 years most of our present highways will have to be rebuilt.

Even allowing for some exaggeration of the situation, the prospect is rather discouraging. It appears that most of our highways will be ruined before they are paid for, as most road bond issues still have many years to run before maturity.

There is no doubt that their rapid deterioration is due largely to the damage caused by unreasonably heavy trucks and buses. These destructive vehicles not only break up our roads and weaken our bridges but are a nuisance and a menace to all other [illegible] object to the use of the [illegible] size and [illegible] which now [illegible] highways should be abolished. [illegible] to this end is being adopted in [illegible] and while the tr[illegible] have no one but themselves [illegible] "hog" the roads and destroy [illegible] me they have little cause [illegible] if the taxpayers demand pro[illegible]n for the highways they have built at burdensome expense.

Roosevelt Stability

"Do you remember the day Roosevelt took office? His solemn-faced countrymen gathered around their radios to listen. There was chaos in the United States. The biggest American bank panic was on. Confidence way low.

"Then Roosevelt spoke. He spoke with confidence. He had confidence in America, in her people and in himself. Mr. Roosevelt's remarkable display of spirit on that occasion started the United States back to prosperity.

"We think of that moment when we read a statement just made by Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Co. Mr. Ayres is no New Dealer, but he says that the year 1935 will go into history as one of the most nearly stabilized years in the history of our country. He writes that the flow of business has continued to move steadily forward. Yes, Mr. Roosevelt's policies have given his country a stability that is has seldom known. We've stabilized with Roosevelt."—Chicago, Ill., Times (Ind.)

Knowledge Comes To The Farm

Good farm cooperative organizations perform many valuable services for their members aside from their basic business of buying and selling commodities.

Not the least of these services might be classed as education. Cooperative executives must keep in constant touch with a wide variety of national and international problems which, though they are seemingly divorced from agricultures most direct problems, influence the welfare of every farmer. Tariffs, embargoes, currency standards, changes in the money system, taxation—these may appear to be far away from the plow and scythe, but their relation to farming is comparable to that of the moon to the tides.

As a result, cooperatives have made steady and successful efforts to interest their members in these diverse issues. They are discussed in cooperative publications. They are often the topics of speeches made by cooperative leaders. The consequence of that is to bring the farm fireside a far more thorough, sound and conclusive knowledge of the great world problems than the farmer ever possessed in the past. That is the kind of progress that really means something—and that is worthwhile and permanent.

Last African Slave

In the little Alabama village of Plateau near Mobile, there recently died Cudjo Lewis, who has been described as "the most historic Negro in the United States," a title seemingly well bestowed.

For Cudjo Lewis was the last survivor of all the slaves brought from Africa on the Clothilde, last of the slave ships to bring a cargo to our shores, on her last trip in that unholy traffic in 1859.

With 109 others of the peaceful Tarkar tribe in Africa he was captured by the more savage Dahomeys, and sold to the slave trader, Captain Billy Smith of the Clothilde. The unfortunates, like thousands of others before them, suffered indescribable hardships during the 70-day voyage, being kept most of the time in the foul hold of the vessel, with only a scanty allowance of bread and water for their subsistence.

They were finally landed on the Alabama coast and soon after sold to various masters, whom they served faithfully. After the Civil war they gathered together to form a colony at Magazine Point, where they were employed in a shipyard. Later some of them bought land and engaged in truck farming.

One by one they passed away, leaving Cudjo Lewis as the only link between the African slave traders and the present, until his recent death at the suppose dage of 96.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The patrol of a state highway near San Jose, California, saw a speeding car filled with seven Philipinoes. Seven heads were sticking far out of the windows as the speed cop brought the machine to a halt. He inquired about the big idea of breaking the speed limit. The offenders confessed to their speed, but said that they were trying to outrun a "Bad Smell" that filled the car. The State's debunty caught a whiff that made the Philipinos run, like smoke, and he began an investigation. He found a large skunk fastened between the fender and a light rod and he saw and knew. The reason why the odor in the car was stronger the faster they ran was because they were carrying their stink along with them. Many people make believe that they are trying to get away from things that hurt and injure and all the time they are carrying those things along with them. The only way to get away from the "bad stink" of a skunk is to leave the skunk behind.

In front of almost every home there is a little horse tied to a peat that is well shod. This little horse is known to us as an "Excuse Horse." When the president of the Missionary Society asks for duty and service; when the pastor comes up and would seek for help and service, the folks living in the house rush out at the door and jump astride the "Excuse Horse" and ride like Jehu. The little horse goes up and down, and bounces and bumps like a horse of speed. but he never gets out of his tracks. Let me say just here that an "Excuse Horse" is a very poor thing to ride if you want to go places and see things. Cut the halter that keeps an "Excuse Horse' tied at your door. Get on the horse of duty and service and then you can travel. It is the clown in the show of life who rides an "Excuse Horse."

The one-horse wagon passed the parsonage door loaded with green white-oak timber. I ventured to ask the driver what he was going to do with load of wood. He replied that he was "carrying it to his shop where he would season it for use." That green oak timber was not fit for use until it had been seasoned. A good workman has better sense than to use green timber in making wagon wheels. Our world would be much better off if we would learn that our knowledge newly attained is unfit for use. Knowledge and timber shouldn't be much used until they are well seasoned. Season your thoughts before you use them.

While in company with some men who were not selected as my companions, I was forced to listen to a yarn that was vulgar and unclean. A black mouthed vulture reveled in the telling of his story and when he was through two men in the company went into convulsive laughter. The other man in the company seemed disgusted and did not even smile. While the two men were laughing at the vulgar yarn I thought that I could read them and later I found out that I read them correctly. Nothing is more significant of men's character than what they find laughable. How repulsive to a decent man is a story that is full of slime.

While waiting in the doctor's office the maid handed me a note from the physician within asking me to come into his private room and sit. I did so and had the privilege of listening to the doctor as he made his diagnosis and as he prescribed for his patients. One man was ushered in and the doctor gave him a look over. Nothing much was wrong with the man but the physician informed him that he had a weak heart and that while nothing serious was wrong with him, yet, he could be attacked on his weak place and soon something serious would happen. As I listened to that doctor I thought of the weak places in the character of men. Nothing much wrong with them but they have weaknesses that should cause alarm. There lives not the man who may not be cut up—aye—leashed to pieces on his weakest side. Better look out for those weak palces. there is where danger is to approach.

Some Highlights In 1936 Farm Outlook

Auburn, Ala.—Some of the highlights in the 1936 agricultural outlook of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Econom[illegible]

Prices of farm machinery are likely to advance slightly in 1936, due to increases in the prices of materials, labor, and other costs.

The outlook is for somewhat lower fertilizer prices during the 1935-36 season than in the 1934-35 season.

The demand for electricity on farms will continue to increase if the plans of the rural electrification administration materializes.

Hog prices between now and next September are expected to average higher than in 1934-35, but will be as high as th peak prices last summer.

Farm wage rates are expected to advance in 1936 in view of the greater demand for hired farm workers now in prospect.

Chevrolet Expects Big Christmas . Business

The Chevrolet Motor Company is looking forward to the highest volume of Christmas sales in its 25-year history, according to W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager who in an interview outlined the factors supporting that view.

The prediction is based, Mr. Holler said, mainly upon three points—the excellence of the new 1936 Chevrolets which were introduced November 2; the timeliness of their introduction, just before the Christmas buying season; and the fact that the new General Motors Acceptance Corporation's six per cent purchase plan reduces to a new low figure the outlay required to own and drive a new motor car.

"Orders taken on announcement day," said Mr. Holler, "exceeded anything in our history. Plainly, the public agrees with us that the 1936 Chevrolets are the finest product we have ever introduced. Increased beauty and luxury greater safety and economy, and finer performance characterize both the Master deluxe and the Standard series. Both new lines are equipped with perfected hydraulic brakes, and both have solid steel turret top bodies by Fisher. There has been a growng trend toward the giving of automobiles for Christmas, and these fine cars of low price will certainly be selected by many for Christmas giving.

"This should be especially true in light of the fact that the purchaser is giving a next year's car, rather than one which will be supplanted by a new model in a few weeks. The advancement of the announcement date removes this deterrent to Christmas buying, and for that reason can not fail to stimulate year-end business.

"Finally, there is the new payment plan just announced by GMAC, whereby the purchaser on a 12-payment contract receives the benefit of lowered interest rates. The GMAC purchase plan in use heretofore was the m[illegible] liberal automobile time payment plan in the industry. With the further reduction in rate announced by GMAC it becomes possible for the thrifty buyer to effect further important savings by selecting as a Christmas gift o[illegible] of the new Chevrolets."

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right."

CARDUI

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

CITY RISES, FALLS TWICE A DAY

Like a lofty ship riding the tide. Clanton's new post office rises and falls twice every day on a dry land tide that corresponds with the surge of the sea.

Columbus claimed the world was round. "King" Wilbur Glenn Volivia of religiously zealous Zion City, Ill. tells the world that it is flat and four-cornered.

Geophysical scientists at the Gulf Refining Company's new research and development laboratories, Harmarville Pa., paintakingly measuring and graphically recording the undulating ebb and flow of dry land tides 24 hours each day, know the world is not flat; never will be round, even if it stops revolving and loses its centrifugal force which flattens the earth at the poles and bellies it out at the equator. They have definitely established that combined land and marine tides distort the earth's shape like a ball of putty—elliptical at times, egg-shaped at others, depending upon the gravity pull of the moon and sun.

Concerned with dry land tides only insofar as they effect extremely delicate gravity instruments used in locating oil beneath the earth's surface Gulfmen leave it to laymen to ponder: do earth tides cause earthquakes? When is it high tide at Kansas City? In Death Valley's desert waters?

One thing laymen may readily deduce; the earth is not solid, but viscous. Its thin crust is a poor indication of its interior which is, beyond a doubt, a molten mass.

Clanton is rising and falling from 13 to 23 inches twice each day, Gulf Oil scientists state.

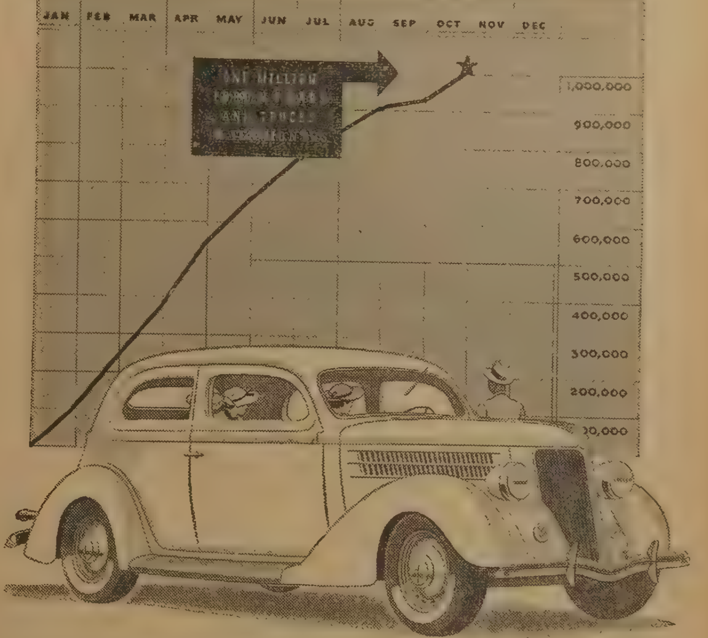
V·8 LEADERSHIP



ON OCTOBER 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out, in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.

SCOPE OF IMPORTANCE OF FARM WOODLANDS

We can more easily understand and appreciate the vastness and economic importance of the WOODS FIRE problem in Alabama when we consult recent census figures that show 9,364,810 acres in farm woods or idle land, a total of 48 per cent of the farmer's land holdings. Any problem of economic concern in the farm woods is further magnified by the 27 per cent increase shown in farm woodlands from 1930 to 1935, while cultivated crops were showing a 2 per cent increase This means that of the more than two million acres added to the farms of Alabama something over one and three quarter millions were either added as or converted into woodland.

These facts simply serve to impress upon us that our farm woods problems, including FIRE, not only cannot reach a partial solution by decreasing acres, but are increasing along with a large addition in woodland.

There seems to be no other course than the laying out of a program to solve in some measure the major problems connected with this crop which in normal times ranks second only to cotton as a net cash producer on the farm, worth $15,000,000 in gross returns and which has shown the least price fluctuation of any crop down through the years. It is also the one hope for holding and utilizing the millions of marginal and submarginal acres offering the greatest threat as an erosion problem.

The perpetuation of tree crops on these acres and certainly the successful economic operation of them will depend on a number of factors of which FIRE PREVENTION is by far the most important.

No major practice affecting half the farmer's land can be ignored or passed lightly by in a rural State like Alabama.

Junior Music Club Holds Convention

Clanton has held many conventions lately, but perhaps the most interesting was that of the Jr. Music Convention of the 4th District of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs held at the Methodist Church in Clanton Saturday, with the Jr. Music Club as host. The meeting was presided over by the district president, Miss Annette Lee, of Montgomery, a charming member of the Students Music Appreciation Club of Montgomery. She was assisted by Mrs. Zeigler of Tuskegee district counselor.

The session opened at 10 o'clock with prayer by Mrs. Zeigler, followed by the Jr. song and Jr. pledge.

A most inspirational welcoming address was given by Miss Mary Courtney Jones, president of Jr. Music Appreciation Club of Clanton, in behalf of the club. Hon. C. Fenn Jones, mayor welcomed the guests in behalf of Clanton and turned over the keys of the city.

The response was graciously given by Mr. Roderick Wolfe, a member of the Students Music Appreciation Club of Montgomery, of which there is perhaps no more wide-awake club in the district. Mr.s John Dreber is counselor for this club. During the session given over to reports this club gave a most interesting and full report. The district was fortunate indeed to have present at this time Mrs. R. C. Woodson of Birmingham, the gracious president of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs. In her address she especially stressed how much the Juniors impressed her with the earnest and business-like manner in which they conducted their proceedings.

Mrs. Walter Agnew of Montgomery state chairman of music in religious education, spoke on the hymn contest an important feature of the state work

At one o'clock a lovely luncheon was served. During the luncheon the newly elected officers of the district were introduced: Miss Mary Courtney Jones of Clanton, president; Mr. Roderick Wolfe, vice president, and Miss Annette Lee, secretary-treasurer, both of Montgomery. Too much praise cannot be given the major feature of the afternoon session, which was given over to talented young artists. The program rendered by members of the young musicians group of Montgomery including Sara Brown, soprano, Edward Burns, tenor, Louise Watson, pianist, and Willie Mae Howell, accompanist. Also a group from Alabama College added to the program.

A large representation was present as the Fourth District comprises clubs from the following cities: Alexander City, Clanton, Montgomery, Notasulga Montevallo, Opelika, Roanoke, Tallassee, Tuskegee and Wetumpka. Montgomery alone boasts six Junior clubs

Miss Lee accepted the invitation most graciously extended by Mrs. John Dreher, Junior Club chairman for Montgomery for the Fourth District to hold its convention in that city next September.

The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock in that delegates might return home before such a late hour.

Plans for Enlarging Judson College

Marion, Ala., Nov. 17.—Plans are being formulated for the launching of an enlarged program for Judson College, including the raising of $31,500 for reconditioning the dormitories, providing scholarships for worthy girls caring for certain accumulated obligations, and securing books for the library and other needed equipment. N. J. Bell, of Montgomery, pesident of the board of trustees of the college, is general chairman of the movement.

The plan to increase the facilities of Judson received the indorsement of the Alabama Baptist Convention held at Troy last week, following the report of President L. G. Cleverdon on the progress made by the college during last year. Dr. Cleverdon's report indicated that there has been a 20 per cent increase in student enrolment over that of last session and that additional facilities are necessary to provide for the increased number of girls attending the college.

Hugh Mallory, prominent Selma attorney, and Dr. J. E. Dillard, pastor of Southside Baptist Church, Birmingham, have been selected as co-chairmen and will be associated in the movement with President Cleverdon and Mr. Bell. Two prominent Alabama women who will cooperate in carrying out the enlargement program will be named soon.

Modern Woman Uses Modern K. Equipment

The good, old fashioned woman who hung her pans in the cellar stairway, made her own tallow candles and pumped soft water from a forty-barrel cistern, now has a granddaughter who can mix a three-story cake and toss it into her electric oven without once getting up from her white enamel chair.

Yes, something has really happened in the kitchen. It was a long time coming. Members of the Woman's Club estimate that baking and stewing went along without very much change for about six thousand years. Two centuries of progress in America brought running water and replaced the open fireplace with a carboniferous range which wouldn't start till the hired girl primed it with kerosene.

Enter Penelope. Think of Penelope as a progressive young woman who found a place in the kitchen for scientific management. She learned a lot about orderly arrangement of materials and tools, also the approved method of saving steps by cutting out waste motion.

Penelope has revolutionized the kitchen. For her, no back-breaking gymnastics in bringing together the materials to prepare a meal. She is freed forever from untidy wall books, cluttered pantries, musty cupboards, unsanitary built-in shelves.

The wisdom of the ages, what every woman knows about convenience in cooking, is suddenly focused in a fine kitchen cabinet. A remarkable transformation. From the shoulders of countless women it lifted a tremendous burden, contributing cause of crow's feet, slumpy posture and premature ruin of sweet disposition.

Now the modern kitchen cabinet is the accepted thing in the well appointed kitchen. With it has come a new technique in the orderly, rapid and convenient preparation of better foods Women who are using kitchen cabinets find they can do more work and better work in about half the time formerly devoted to the everlasting struggle with dishes, pans and food.

Local merchants say the sale of the better class of cabinets shows the largest increase of any single piece of furniture or household equipment. And still many homes are not yet equipped. Mother is so accustomed to deny herself in order to buy things for Jane, Betty and the boys that she has put off purchasing a cabinet.

How about it, Ulysses You, of course, are equipped with all the tools of your trade, not to mention the jack-of all trades collections in the basement. Did you ever think about a kitchen cabinet and what a marvelous help it would be in your domestic establishment? What a sensation it would be if somebody really took the initiative in making things easier for Mother!

In Japan, undressing in public is quite permssible. Passengers on railway trains frequently step into the aisles and cange all their clothing.

CONTROL OF CREDIT A BASIC QUESTION

Economist Describes Conflict Between Opposing Social Viewpoints on Government Bank.

Agitation for government banking is a phase of the conflict between our present "personal competitive enterprise system" in America and the "compulsory state collective security system" of several European States, Virgil Jordan, President National Industrial Conference Board, says in an article in a recent issue of "Banking" published by the American Bankers Association.

"They involve irreconcilable principles of human conduct and philosophy of life and the conflict between them is the key to the economic, social and political struggles of today," Mr. Jordan says.

The enterprise system of which "the development of the United States has been the unparalleled example, depends for its motive power of progress upon the inexhaustible reservoir of energy in individual desire for personal advancement in prosperity, but it guarantees nothing to the individual save freedom of opportunity," the article says in part.

The collectivist security system, he says, "places all emphasis upon the maintenance of a minimum standard of living for the mass without regard to the creative power of the individual. Quite simply the security system involves the modern form of the philosophy of the slave society." He continues:

A Sign of the Times

"The many-sided movement toward governmental banking, deposit insurance and currency management is the most direct and decisive expression of the universal instinctive search for security which is the sign of the times. In America our so-called social security legislation is an important indication of the drift away from the enterprise system toward a collectivist security system with concentration of authority in a central Federal government.

"The nationalization of credit is crucial and indispensible for complete state control of the complex industrial and business structure of this country. The drive toward government banking and monetary control is most determined because the relation of the state to credit goes to the root of the enterprise system. A collective security system is inconceivable without nationalization of credit. An enterprise system is inconceivable with it."

Under a collective security system, based on government banking the controls "lie solely in the hands of a few persons and depend upon their judgment, will or caprice," Mr. Jordan says, adding that it is they who must determine "upon the basis of some predetermined plan or upon pure political expediency of the moment, what lines of industry and even what individual enterprises shall have access to the credit reservoir." The state, he says, has the power of life and death over all enterprise that utilizes credit.

"Every government is an organ of party power and must respond to the will of the party that put it in power," the Jordan article says. "Under unchecked government operation it is an inescapable tendency of every currency to depreciate and for credit to expand. However much it may be in the interest of the nation, deflation is too dangerous politically for any government to undertake it deliberately.

"In the end government banking and currency management resolve themselves simply into the use of credit as a political instrument of power, and this instrument tends to be used in the long run for expropriation of the savings of the community."

THE FARM BUDGET

By DAN H. OTIS,
Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

Inventories aid in the formation of a farm budget. Some banks, as well as the Farm Credit Administration, recommend outlining in advance the method of using production loans. Under this plan provision is made for monthly expenditures and funds are granted to the borrower in accordance with the budget plan The budget helps to show how loans can be repaid.

D. H. OTIS

With the accumulated data from previous inventories and budgets, budget making becomes easier and more accurate and valuable. As one branch of the farming plant requires more expenditure, such as for new machinery, fencing, livestock, etc., it may be necessary to limit other branches in order to meet these pressing requirements.

The budget helps to formulate a financial program. It is of special importance in arranging to meet special or large expenditures. If the income and expenditures are carefully budgeted it prevents the spending of money needed for interest and taxes before the time of their payment arrives. It helps to provide a reserve.

The Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association feels that this type of work is so important that special emphasis has been placed upon the field of farm inventories, budgets and credit statements as one of its national projects for farm aid.

Ford Makes Good On Million Car Promise

Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 31—Henry Ford today made good his promise of a year ago to build a million Ford cars in 1935.

In fact, he did better than that. He built 1,000,000 cars in ten months. Total production for the full year 1935 will probably run to 1,180,000.

One year ago today Ford sat, late in the afternoon, watching pupils of Greenfield Village schools taking a dancing lesson in the big ballroom which is a part of the Ford Engineering Laboratories.

A newspaperman who chanced along asked Mr. Ford about his plans for the coming year.

"Next year," Ford said, "we'll build a million cars."

"Can I print that?" asked the newspaperman, conscious that he had a story of world-wide intelest.

"Sure," said Ford. "You may say 'a million cars or better.' "

Flashed by wire, cable and radio, the story was received in the streets of the world with feelings ranging from joy to absolute incredulity. In most of the raw material markets and the financial centers it was taken as the first solid evidence that American industry was pulling out of the depression. In other quarters the proposition of putting a million new cars into the automobile market in 1935 was considered fantastic.

During the last weeks of 1934, the Ford industries were got in order for the new producton schedule. All during December raw materials were coming in in trainloads. Promptly, on the morning of January 2, the River Rouge plant opened up after the holiday shutdown. The first motor off the line that morning bore the number 1,336,770. Production rose steadily and the whole automotive industry and the public generally watched with interest the monthly announcements to see if "Henry would make it."

A January production figure of 100,793 showed something unusual was afoot. February's figure of 126,646 and that for March, 158,887, showed the pace at which production and sales were moving. April, with one-third of the year gone, showed 546,429 built and distributed. Seasonal demand which usually sags sharply in summer this year held on unusually strong, with production keeping pace.

This afternoon, as Henry Ford and Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, looked on a black Fordor Sedan came down the assembly line. It looked like all other cars of its model. But under its hood was engine No. 2,336,770. It was the 1,000,000th Ford unit made in the United States since January 1, this year. It left the line at 2:44 o'clock and was taken at once for shipment to the company's showrooms in New York.

Smiles and handshakes showed how pleased were the Fords, father and son, and several of the Ford organization executives who also watched the making of the millionth car.

"And how about next year " a newspaper man asked Henry Ford.

"Well," he said, smiling broadly, "you can just say we'll make all we can sell and sell all we can make."

Canadian production in the first 10 months of the year added 68,000 more to the million.

World production of Ford units from June, 1903, when the company started business, to September 1, this year totalled 23,308,648.

Farmers Should Buy Farms, Says Duncan

Auburn, Ala.—Economic conditions are improving and land prices are rising, says Dr. L. N. Duncan, president Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the State Extension Service in advising farmers that now is a good time to buy farms.

Farmers with land, shelter, water, and firewood are assured of a comfortable place to live, regardless of the economic condition of the country, he said He also described land-ownership as an old-age insurance, guaranteeing an income in later years.

In describing the farm as an ideal place to live and rear a family, Dr Duncan says: "I believe that it will be only a few years before electricity farm-to-market roads, and other conveniences will revolutionize the farm home and make it by far the most desirable place to live."

Dr. Duncan advocates improving the land by terracing and growing winter legumes and providing a comfortable home by repairing the old or building a new. He says that county agents extension service and experiment station official, Auburn, and the soil division of the Department of Agriculture, Montgomery. will gladly furnish information about farm lands and will give assistance and advice in reparing and building farm homes.

NOT YET CIVILIZED

When one contemplates the great advance in science and mechanics which have been made in the last half century or so. it appears that man's achievements have been little short of marvelous. But, if we could but look into the future, it is probable that we would realize that our present knowledge and utilization of the forces of nature are only crude beginnings.

This thouht is forcefully expressed by Dr. R. A. Millikan, one of the world's greatest physicists, who recently said: "Mankind is now just an infant, a few months old at most, who up until but a minute ago has been lying in his crib shaking his rattle."

Even conceding that great advancement has been made in a material way, whereby the more enlightened peoples have facilities and comforts not dreamed of by our ancestors, we are still sadly deficient in the moral qualities which must be developed if this old world is to become a satisfactory place of abode.

Although there is more of charity and altruism displayed than ever before human nature has not changed greatly throughout all the centuries. Crime greed. intolerance, hate, and cruelty are in evidence on every hand, even among the most civilized of peoples. A million laws and an army of peace officers fail to make either life or property safe.

Unless a man's opinions anl beliefs conform to those of the majority he must suppress their utterance or be proscribed. Freedom of conscience. even in this land of supposed freedom, is only a pretense. Only those who are financially independent can afford to be entirely frank in expression. People are no longer burnt at the stake for their opinions, but they are persecuted in other ways.

WITH THE STUDENTS OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

The Isabella Parent-Teachers Association met last Monday night at 7:00 o'clock in the Vocational building. The following Armistice program was given:

"America," by the second grade; a play by the grammar school, and a talk by Mr. Curtis Matthews on "What Armistice Day Means to Me."

Miss Cobern, the attendance helper for Chilton County schools, spoke on several important phases of the attendance problem. The following committee was selected to help her in keeping our attendance average high at Isabella—Mrs. Fred Oden, Mrs. Wallace Cox and Miss Johnson.

All members of the P.-T. A. were urged to help in the "Chilton County News Contest" since we need to win the grand prize very much.

The students, as well as the teachers are looking forward to the Thanksgiving holidays.

Last Friday afternoon Isabella played Maplesville at Maplesville. We were glad to see that so many came out to see the game. The two teams seemed to be very evenly matched in this particular game since the score was a scoreless tie.

November the twenty-second Isabella will play Clanton in Clanton. This is one of the most important games of the season and our boys are going to fight hard to bring home the "ribbons;" so everyone plan to come out to boost your team in the last game of the season.

"The Isabella Team"

The Isabella football team
Is just the team to play.
They go out on the field
Like an old spinning wheel,
And play their troubles away.
Every boy knows the plays.
He has them in his heart.
They are always listening for the whistle—
The signal for them to start.
And there's our good old manager
Who is a great help to the team;
He carries water to the team
To keep them full of steam.

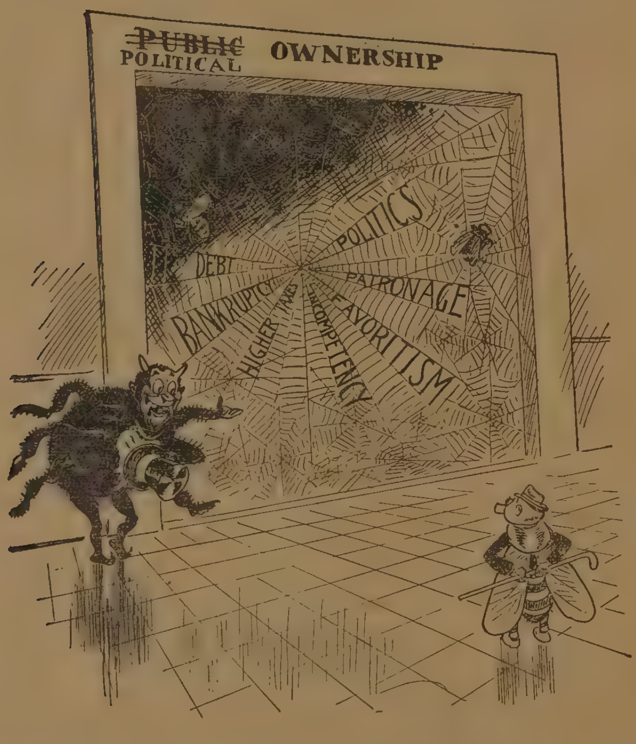
BARBECUE AT LAWLEY

There will be a pork barbecue at Lawley schoolhouse next Saturday night, November 23. There will be good string music and other entertainment Come and bring someone with you.

"COME INTO MY PARLOR"
. . . said the Spider



"COME into my parlor," said the Spider to the Fly, making attractive offers the while. The Fly, recalling previous narrow escapes, replied, "You entice me greatly, Sir Spider, but I fear you would put me in bondage."

Whereupon the Spider offered the Fly a contract in which would be included all the promises of a rosy future and freedom from care.

"Very pretty, very pretty," said the Fly, "but spiders have a reputation of being careless with their promises to flies. I think I'll take my chances rather than put myself under the domination of a Spider."

Rosy promises and dazzling inducements are offered by politically inspired promoters of public power enterprises. Assuming the honesty and sincerity of some public power enthusiasts, can they give any guarantee that their political successors in office will have similar high ideals?

After they gain their end of gobbling up the light and power business, what is to prevent officials in charge of public power plants from increasing rates, or taxes, or both? (Taxes already show a heavy increase.)

ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP IN ALABAMA

Alabama Power Company, under regulation by public bodies, has a record of steadily reducing its rates. The average rate per kilowatt hour paid by its customers for all residential uses has declined from 7.9c in September, 1926, to 3.6c in September, 1935.

During the same 9-year period the taxes paid by the company to federal, state, county and municipal governments have increased from 6.4c to 14.4c per dollar of total money taken in.

While taxes have gone UP 180%, average rates for electricity in the home have gone DOWN 54.4%.

John Ezell Wins Honors In School

Wake Forest, N. C., November 13.—John S. Ezell, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell of Clanton, is makng quite a name for himself here at Wake Forest College. Recently at a meeting of all the student religious organizations young Ezell was elected unanimously president of the general Sunday school This office puts him in charge of six student classes with a membership of 250 or 300. This is one of the most important offices to be had on the campus, and Ezell is proving his worth by being elected to it while still a Sophomore.

Last spring this talented young man was elected as Representative-at-large on the B.S.U. Council—a council which has for its membership the heads of the various religious organizations of the students. Last year, too, Mr. Ezell was one of the aids in founding a new B.Y.P.U. union; and he was elected vice-president of the Dr. W. L. Poteat Sunday school class for the present semester. As a result of the positions he has held and due to his splendid work, it is very probable that next year will see Ezell as president of the Baptist Student Union council—a position which will put him at the head of all the student religious activities on the campus, wit more than 1000 students

This year, besides his religious work, John is a member of one of the two literary societies on the college; is a friend to every student and is well known and greatly admired by all who come in contact with him.

While taking part in many extra-curricula activities, the young man finds time to keep up his regular school work. making the honor roll each term. Last year, out of a Freshman class of over 200, John was third highest in yearly average for those taking chemestry.

FARMERS MET CHESTNUT GROVE LAST SATURDAY

Members of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America met in convention at Chestnut Grove last Saturday, according to a statement from W.F. Aldridge, president and C L. Curry, secretary.

A bountiful dinner was spread at the noon hour following the morning session. Resolutions, coinciding with the policy of the organization were adopted.

Ways To Increase Poultry Profits

Auburn, Ala.—Poultrymen and farmers will increase their profits by giving their poultry special attention during November, advises John E. Ivey, extension poultry specialist, in listing the following 7 November poultry usggestions:

1. Put your birds in comfortable laying houses, properly ventilated, having the north, east, and west walls closed to keep out the cold, winter winds.

2. Keep plenty of dry mash before the birds all of the time. Allow two 6-foot mash hoppers for each 100 birds.

3. Feed mash, moistened with milk at noon time.

4. Keep accurate records of what your flock is doing, as a guide for future management.

5 Be sure that lice and mites are controlled.

6. If round or tape worms are present and birds are not in satisfactory production, treat the flock for same.

7. Use morning or all night lights to stiumulate feed consumption.

Farmers Are Advised Watch For Corn Worm

Auburn, Ala.—To keep pink corn worms from damaging stored corn in Alabama as they did last year, farmers are advised to examine their corn at regular intervals and to fumigate with carbon disulphide as soon as the pests are found.

"Fumigation is by far the most common method of controlling this pest when damaging corn," says Prof. J. M Robinson, head of the entomology department here. "Where a farmer fumigates his crib he not only destroys the pink corn worms and moths but he also rids it of other insects, such as corn weevils."

Farmers interested in fumigating their cribs against pink corn worms or corn weevils are advised to consult their county agents who will give detailed instructions.

As Hoover Did Nothing About the People's Depression, They Show Slight Interest In His Personal Depression

"The reactionary opposition to the Roosevelt administration are not concealing their hopeful anticipation that the Agricultural Adjustment Act and other measures we have passed in the interest of the people may be found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court" said Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah in an address before the Young Democrats Club in Washington. "What an unpitying attitude, not to care whether the farmer loses his little gains.

"The opposition professes a dread fear that we may destroy the Constitution; not we the administration but we the people, because the people only can alter that sacred document. Will they say the Constitution was violated the 20 times it was changed by the people before the New Deal came along? In those 20 amendments the people themselves enacted the Bill of Rights, without which we did not have enough Constitution for the 13 colonies. The people provided in amendments for the direct election of senators; gave women the right to vote; established a federal income tax; freed and made citizens of the slaves; provided that one may not confiscate the property of another without due process of law; kept Ex-President Hoover from being vide president today (Twelfth Amendment.)

"And since Mr. Hoover, as President, did nothing about the people's depression, the people will do nothing in 1936 about Mr. Hoover's personal depression. I wonder if in his eagerness to become President again, and in the zeal wich leads him to speak in superlatives, he knows that the Senate of the United States is so strongly Democratic that it could not possibly become Republican during the next Presidential period. Can he assume that he could suddenly become the magnetic, personable executive to motivate the Senate into following his leadership—if he could possess leadership; to carrying out his program he had a program, and to help him velop his ideas, if he should have idea

VALUE OF INDIAN RELICS IS POINTED OUT IN LETTER

Former Resident Urges Collecting Relics As Valuables

The following letter in regard to Indian relics comes from O.T. Headley a former Chilton County man, who now resides in Wolfeboro, N.H.:

For some months I have planned to appeal to people in Chilton County to try preserve as much as possible the best specimens of Indian stone workmanship found in the county. Having gathered specimens from twenty-two states during the last several years and having examined specimens in museums in New York, Boston, and in the Smithsonian in Washington, and in several universities, can say with assurance that of all the specimens examined, few or none were superior or showed finer workmanship, than specimens right there in Chilton County The day is coming when few or no Indian relics may be found. They they will be of priceless value. They are mostly found during the spring plowing and if farmers and farmers' boys would look carefully for the finer specimens and preserve them, the time will come when they will be rewarded for their finds.

Indians made about one dozen objects of stone, including the arrowheads. These are besides arrowheads, tomahawks, celts, wampum, beads of stone, spear heads, drills or perforators, discordials, tunner, banner stone gouges, mortars and pestles, and some others. Most of these were made by the Alabama Indian and may now be found in various regions of the State. From all my information, in no other part of the State may finer Indian tools be found, nor in greater quantity than in Chilton County.

Now most of these tools found there are lost or broken, or destroyed by not knowing their full value, and not appreciatng that the loss of these will later be found to be an irreparable loss. I wish to appeal to all who find these to carefully preserve them, at least until sale for the best specimens can be found. I, myself, can find sale for many of the best specimens, if I am appraised of their finds, and can be given a little time.

A better way, if some place could be found in the County to place them, and preserve them right in the county, that would be all the better. Or if not that, if every person finding specimens would only carefully preserve them, he would soon have a fine collection, he would be proud to exhibit, and sooner or later would find ample sale for them. What should be done is to see that all fine specimens are saved.

Among those in Chilton County who have setn speciments, added to my collection, are A. B. Manning of Thorsby, Marion Headley of Route 7, one of the Broadhead boys, and some others, and there have been as fine specimens among them, as any of the twenty-two states I have collected from My collection was exhibited at the All-State of Main Fair last year, at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., and at the Fairbanks Campbell Exhibition at Horticultural Hall last December in Boston. The arrows from Alabama are mostly pure white, and arrows from no other State attracted as much attention as the fine white arrows from Alabama—all mostly from Chilton County. So great was the interest at Boston that the management has requested my collection be exhibited again this coming December. From no other State do fine white arrows come. Of course all the other instruments from Alabama are some other color. While in Chilton County last year collecting, I was able to locate several Indian village sites, and from all these fine specimens were found.

There are some arrows worth as much as one dollar each, but not many, of course. Tomhawks are worth two to five dollars each. Stone pipes about the same as Tomahawks. Good banner stones are worth around five dollars each. I am not advertising for these, as I have in my collection about all I can buy, but am giving you their value, so as to urge you to preserve all good specimens.

One man at Dayton, Tenn., has sold about sixty dollars worth of Indian relics, and engages in this as a profession. I came across a man in Pennsylvania that had picked up and sold nine hundred dollars worth, and had on hand about six hundred dollars worth. A man in Kentucky from whom I buy a few specimens has ten thousand dollars worth on hand. So you see, these have a value.

If people over the county could arrange to place all their finds in some central place, say at Clanton, there would soon be as fine a collection as most of the bigger universities have A man in New England, who finds a good specimen, will hardly sell it at all, and most who do would ask five dollars for a really good specimen. Of course the reason is the scarcity here, and a man does appreciate his own find. When a boy in Chilton County we would find them and either break them up, or loose them, and if I had carefully preserved all the specimens I found, would have had hundreds of dollars worth, without paying for them.

There are many other reasons for saving Indian specimens besides their intrinsic value, but I fear the editor would not give me space to recount all. The historic, or rather pre-historic, value is to be considered. But perhaps this is sufficient to impress you that all good specimens of Indian stone work should be preserved.

O.T. HEADLEY.

Thousands prefer Black-Draught for the refreshing relief it has brought them. Mrs. Ray Mullins, of Lafe, Ark., writes: "My husband and I both take Thedford's Black-Draught and find it splendid for constipation, biliousness, and the disagreeable, aching, tired feeling that comes from this condition." With reference to Syrup of Black-Draught, which this mother gives her children, she says: "They like the taste and it gave such good results."

woman with two small children walking along the road, the children broke away from the woman and darted directly in the pathway of his car. To avoid striking them, he jerked his machine off the road and into a ditch.

It was found at the hospital where he was brought in a semi-conscious condition by passing motorists that he had suffered a slight concussion, but no permanent injuries. He was discharged late Monday afternoon and left immediately for his home in Birmingham.

The identity of the woman and children, who so nearly met an untimely death but for the gallantry of the man behind the steering wheel, has not been learned.

to San Diego crashed when it struck a tree on a mountain-top near Birmingham. The pilots in neither plane were seriously injured, but Sergt. O M. Newsom, San Francisco, army aviator, who was riding in the second plane with Lieut. J. D. Greer, of Coronado, Calif., was badly hurt and is being treated at a Birmingham hospital.

Lieut. Simpler suffered only a few minor injuries, including a sprained left shoulder, a neck injury, and slight bruises about the body. Narrowly missing two sets of high voltage lines, he landed almost in the yard of W. P. Lakeman's home, where he was cared for during the night.

This is the second narrow escape experienced by Lieut. Simpler within the past several months. He is a survivor of the Macon, navy dirigible.

Lieut. Green and Lieut. Simpler were piloting the two planes from Anacostia, Md., to the Naval Air Station at San Diego. They left Spartanburg, S. C. about 3:30 p.m., Tuesday en route to Maxwell Field, Montgomery, where they were to have stopped over for the night. Sergt. Newsom was accompanying Lieut. Greer.

Fliers Seeking Beam

Unable to locate Montgomery, the two pilots turned around with the intention of strking the Birmingham-Atlanta radio beam and following it into Birmingham.

Lieut. Simpler, following Lieut. Greer, became lost from the other plane. With only 10 or 15 minutes' gas supply, he turned south again, heading for the lights at Lay Dam. He circled around several times and bailed out at an altitude of ..500 feet when his gas supply became exhausted. He landed on the west side of the river.

The plane zoomed across the river crashing on the east side about a half mile away.

Survivor of Macon

Lieut. Simpler is one of the survivors of the ill fated naval drigible Macon which crashed in 1934.

"After my regular gas supply ran out, I began using my reserve supply and then saw the lights at Lay Dam and headed for them. However, jjust before reaching the town my gas ran out and there was nothing to do but bail out of the plane or crash with it," Lieut. Simpler said.

CONDITIONS MUCH BETTER HERE IS SHOWING OF TAX RECEIPTS

Judge Smith Says There Is A Decided Increase In Sale Of Autombile Tags; McKee Sees A Big Increase

Receipts at the probate office and the tax collector's office indicate that times are greatly improved in Chilton County, much better even than last year.

Records at the probate office show that there was an increase of approximately 30 per cent in the number of automobile tags sold by November 15 as compared with the same period in 1934. The same was true in the amount of taxes collected by Tax Collector T. L. McKee.

Judge J. Lee Smith stated that approxmately 1,879 automobile owners purchased tags this year during the period before November 15, as compared with 1494 last year. This is an increase of nearly five hundred tags and Judge Smith declared that to him it is positive proof that there is much improvement in the general business conditions in Chilton County.

Tax Collector McKee, comparing the figures, found that advalorem taxes collected in this county is $50,38..52 which is quite an increase over $34,618.65 for the same period in 1934 Taxes collected on automobiles shows the same substantial increase. Last year the total collected from this source was $3,557.86. This year it is $4,387.26.

The load took effect in his left side, underneath the arm, and he died a few minutes later from the loss of blood.

Coroner J. Mell Martin investigated the case, returning a verdict of accidental death by shooting. Dr. V. J Gragg was called immediately after the accident, but the youth was dead when he reached the scene.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs W. G. Thrash; two brothers. Amos Thrash and Ward Thrash; and one sister, Miss Lena Mae Thrash, all of Calera Route 1.

A Car, A Cow, A Hog And All Is Quiet For All

Last Thursday night was a busy one for Jesse Bethel, 22, and Fuller Samuels, 23, Clanton Negroes, according to the belief of county and city officials, but it seems now that they will have plenty of time to rest—in the County Jail.

Bethel started taking his "rest cure" early Friday morning, but Samuels managed to keep going until late Saturday night, when Officer John Browder persuaded him that he was really overtaxing himself.

There are quite a few details connected with the alleged escapade which it is said made Jesse and Fuller—and incidentally several other people—sc tired.

But briefly, the story follows:

The H. N. Smith Motor Company where Bethel worked, missed an automobile—L. C. Vance, Cooper, noted that he was short one pig, and Miss Mavis Thomas. of Verbena, had lost a beautiful calf.

That's where all the Sherlocks in the county began to get their heads together. The result was—the car was found parked near the Clanton Baptist Church. Evidence was that a hog and a calf had been back-seat-passengers on its most recent trip. A quick check on Clanton butchers saved the pig's life, but, alas!, the calf had already paid with its life.

Jesse and Fuller were tired! Oh, sc tired!

H. N. Smith was tired—and so were Mr. Vance and Miss Thomas.

DEMS IN FAVOR OF HOOVER FOR FDR OPPONENT

Senator Borah Still Looms As Obstacle In Path Of Hopeful Herbert

Washington, November 3.—Climaxing a week of quickening politics, Chairman Farley and Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania each singled out the former president as symbolizing the major opposition to the New Deal.

"Bring him on," they said in substance.

Neither referred to the growing indications that a storm is gathering over Mr. Hoover's head in his own party. The Republican leadership has this possibility to contend with, as few now dispute the readiness of Senator Borah of Idaho to carry his opposition to that leadership into the presidential primaries.

Situation Still Muddled

Speculation over the Hoover and Borah attitudes toward the nomination continues without direct clarification. One foremost Republican close to the former, asking that he not be quoted, told the Associated Press tonight Mr. Hoover had prepared a statement disavowing candidacy but was dissuaded from issuing it at least at this time.

The ex-president, he said, has yet to make three speeches of five long plan-

REAL FEED MILL NOW OPERATING WITHIN THE CITY

W. A. Crowson Builds Up Section Of City With Industry

Among the progressive steps that can be cited for Clanton is the new feed mill, recently installed by W. A. Crowson in the Reynolds Addition. This is claimed to be one of the most up-to-date feed mills serving the farmers of Alabama. Assisting in bringing this new service to Chilton County farmers was the Chilton County Exchange.

When we say that Mr. Crowson is prepared to make feed, the statement is made to cover a multitude of operations, products, etc. But that is just what he is doing. There is an investment of about $5,000, and another thousand will be added to it in the next month or so, according to Mr Crowson. The present building, a two-story affair, is going to be about doubled in size, making room for more storage and machinery and increased production.

One interesting machine is a John Deere corn shucker and sheller, which at one operation shucks the corn, shells it, puts the cobs in one place, the shucks in another, and conveys the shelled corn into a large hopper. This machine is upstairs, but the bottom of the large hopper is near the ground floor from which the corn is drawn

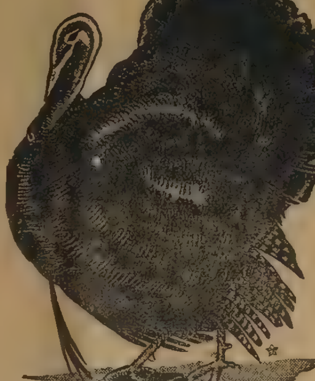
A DAY FOR Thanksgiving



When Thanksgiving comes around each year, most everyone thinks of turkeys, a big feast, a day off, and there comes to mind a picture of the Pilgrims with their friends the Indians giving thanks to the Almighty for the blessings they received, even through many hardships.

And, too, when Thanksgiving Day comes around there comes to theminds of many that it is truly a day to give thanks to God for life and happiness and our place among the people of this county and nation, we welcome this day of Thanksgiving to join many others in expressing our sincere thanks for the confidence and support from our fellowman.

Thanksgiving this year should bring to the hearts and minds of the people of this nation a deep feeling of gratitude for many things. They have been well cared for since Thanksgiving of the past year. Let us not ignore this opportunity to pause wih seriousness and utter a few words of thankfulness for whatever we may have.

About 3,000 Gather At Gragg Field In Order To Get Air-Minded

If there has been anyone in Chilton County who has entertained doubts regarding the interest of this county's citizenship in aviation, they should have attended the little air circus at Gragg Field Sunday afternoon. A view of that crowd of people should have convinced them that the people of this section are not only intensely interested in aviation, but are hungry for it and for some good, clean amusement for Sunday afternoons.

At least 3000 people crowded all the roads leading to the field—just to watch one little machine carry passengers and do a few minor stunts. With a real flying circus staged out there it would be absolutely impossible to accomodate the people who would attend, if Sunday afternoon was a fair example of the interest in aviation in

Closing Date Of Big $200 Conte[illegible]t Is Set

Next Saturday Is "Double V[illegible] Day" To Include All Subscriptions Received [illegible] Office By Four O'Clock; Verbena [illegible]l In Lead

Register in Chancery 1-1-36

The end of the Chilton County News $200.00 Subscription Campaign is drawing near. Some lucky organization will soon be receiving $150.00 in cash—and another will receive the second prize of $50.00.

Saturday, December 23, at 6 p.m., will mark the end of the contest. Only four weeks more—not quite that long. Contestants had better wake up and get busy!

Just to pep things up a bit, from now until Saturday, December 7, double votes will be given. This is a mighty good time to overcome some of those handicaps that a late start, lack of organization, and insufficient hard work has caused.

There is plenty of time to win this contest yet. Three or four really hard days work will overcome any lead now enjoyed by any contestant. The contest lacks lots of being in the bag. It will be won in the next three weeks It's just a matter of seeing who is going to work hardest.

This will be the last time that double votes will be offered in this contest Contestants had better take advantage of this opportunity, or forever hold their peace. This is the final call—It will only take a little hard work.

BLACK AGREES TO TAKE POST AS DELEGATE

Senior Senator Pledges His Unqualified Loyalty To New Deal Policies

Democratic National Committeeman Leon McCord's movement to have Alabama's executive committee rescind its appointment of four party leaders as state-at-large delegates to the 1936 convention faced defeat.

Sen. Hugo Black announced from Washington he would accept appointment as one of the delegates. Previously the opposition forces had admitted their only chance to start a real uprising was hat the senior senator might decline and demand that all delegates be elected by the people.

Senator Black, without approving or criticizing the committee action, declared:

"If I could not support President Roosevelt under the resolution adopted by the committee I could not be a delegate. I consider the resolution a virtual pledge to the President—if any pledge were needed. I am for Roosevelt one hundred per cent. I am for his program of progress. And I shall carry out my convictions as a member of the Alabama convention delegation.'

Senator Black had no more advance notice than the rank and file of Alabama voters that the committee would Prosperity, By G.O.P.!.

Chairman Fletcher of the Republican National Committee has appointed 16 big industrialists and corporation lawyers to raise a G.O.P. war chest for the 1936 campaign.

"Most of them," Mr. Fletcher said, "have never before participated actively in politics."

That may be true, but we seem to remember having seen some of their names on the front pages before. There is, for instance, the war chest chairman, Mr. William B. Bell of New York, whose American Cyanamid Co., tried to grab control of Muscle Shoals in the Hoover Administration but was frustrated by Senator Norris.

And there are Charles Francis Adams of Boston and Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, the former a Cabinet member and the latter an adviser of the Hoover Administration, both of whose names appeared on the famous House of Morgan preferred lists.

And there is Ernest T. Weir, last heard of in the Weirton Steel Co. collective bargaining case.

There are others less well remembered, but all are well known in circles of finance and industry whose interests the Roosevelt Administration has not husbanded as tenderly as did other Administrations in the good old days.

"They are outstanding men of achievement vitally concerned over the welfare of the country," said Mr. Fletcher.

"They believe in a Government of laws, not of men," said Mr. Fletcher. He didn't say what they thought of use of tear gas and bayonets to disperse the peaceable assembage of the bonus army, nor of Mr. Hoover's war debt moratorium before getting the consent of Congress.

"They believe in preserving for the younger and future generations the same opportunities for advancement which they themselves enjoyed," said Mr. Fletcher. He didn't bother to recall the "opportunities" that knocked at the doors of the high school and college graduating classes of 1930, '31 and '32.

"They believe . . . there must be both a recovery of basic industrial activity and a revival of agricultural income, on the basis of plenty—not on the basis of scarcity," said Mr. Fletcher. He didn't reconcile that "belief" with the decade of agricultural depression and the final collapse of both agriculture and industry under Republican rule.

But let nothing we have said about these gentlemen, their lack of disinterestedness of their beliefs, be interpreted as meaning that we discount their ability as war chest committeemen. On the contrary, we believe that Mr. Fletcher has done a superb job of finding men who know where and how to get the sinews of political warefare.

Some commentators, we notice, predict they will do the job as well as it was done in the days of Mark Hanna. We think that is a belittling forecast. Mark Hanna, in his palmiest days never had a Republican setup as ideal as the present one. With hatred of the Roosevelt Administration a fixation in Wall Street, with the "non-partisan" and well heeled American Liberty League making a flank attack, with men like J. P. Morgan and E. F. Hutton atremble lest high taxes whittle them down to their last yacht, raising a slush fund to drive the New Dealers from the temple will be no job at all—it will be a pushover.

Talk about the "gentle rain of checks" which has brought prosperity to farm regions! In the classic words of an unremembered wit, "You ain't seen nothin' yet."

A fairer redistribution of wealth—a primary objective of the New Deal—may yet be realized, not by Government taxation and Government spending as was planned, but by political contributions and campaign spending.

Today the country groans under a burden of relief expenditues and unemployment. But when the campaign gets hot, we should get a breathing spell from this depression. Just wait until those with grudges against Roosevelt start shelling out.—Birmingham Post.

The Right To Die

One of the most heated discussions now going on in England is over the question of whether a physician is justified in painlessly putting to death a human being, at the sufferer's own request, when the patient has no possible chance for recovery or other relief from mortal agony.

Legislation is proposed giving that right to physicians, under definite restrictions, which include: Request by the patient; approval by the nearest relative or guardian; approval by two physicians specially licensed to give opinions in such cases; and finally, approval by a "referee" appointed by the minister of health.

The bill is sponsored by leading medical men including the King's physician, Sir Humphrey Bolleston. Opposition is naturally strong, especially on moral and religious grounds.

It is a grave question, and one which admits of much argument on both sides. When discussed by those in good health, and consequently free from pain of any kind, it is a somewhat academic matter, and the average person would perhaps look upon such "mercy killings" with horror.

On the other hand, if these same persons were suffering the unspeakable tortures of the last stages of cancer, spinal meningitis, hydrophobia, general peritonitis or any of the many other afflictions known to be incurable. they might take a different view.

While not prepared to express a positive opinion on the subject, we have often wondered why a human being could not properly be permitted release from such suffering, when no possible benefit to anyone could result from its prolongation.

The ultra-orthodox may contend that this relief should be denied, because it is God's will that the victim should so suffer. But, somehow we can't quite believe that the Almighty gets any especial gratification from witnessing human agony, either in this world or in the world to come.

Oldest Trolley To Go

What is claimed to be the first practical electic trolley street car system in the world is soon to be superseded by motor busses, according to a recent press dispatch from Montgomery, Ala., where the pioneer trolley system began operation on April 7, 1885, a little more than half a century ago.

The Montgomery street car system is at present operated by the Alabama Power Company, which the dispatch states, is about to sell it to a bus company. This is in keeping with a modern trend in urban transportation.

After the establishment of the Montgomery trolley cars in 1885 the new method of street car traction spread rapidly. In 1888 an extensive system was placed in operation in Richmond, by 1902 the electrified trackage had increased to about 22,000 miles, or 97 per cent of the total of street car lines in the United States.

The peak of urban and interurban trolley car trackage was reached about 1931, when some 35,500 miles were in operation. Since that time trolley systems have been gradually abandoned in favor of motor busses in many communities, where the increasing number of automobiles has seriously reduced street car traffic.

In the larger centers of population, however, the electric street car still affords the cheapest and safest means of transportation, and it is likely to hold its own for many years to come.

Pig Dividends

A great many Alabamians are taking advantage of the freezing weather to kill hogs. But there are not nearly as many Alabamians killing hogs as there should be.

Those families in rural sections who are paying 24 cents a pound for white meat and 35 cents a pound for bacon and doing without ham should be remided by the boiling pots an squeals in the backyards of their neighbors to get a sow next year.

Alabama can raise hogs as well as any other State. It so happens that Alabama cannot afford to buy its pork from other sections with all the necessities right here at home to provide our own. But at the same time Alabama is buying pork from other States and at a great expense to herself.

A few pigs will pay big dividends next year in the way of bacon, lard, hams, and cracklings.—Montgomery Advertiser.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

While standing in a drug store I saw a young man enter in great haste. Without looking to the right or the left he pushed his way to a slot machine in the center of the building. He pushed in a coin and looked intently while the thing buzzed and rattled on the inside. Nothing came out when the buzzing was over. He pushed in another coin and listened to the same buzzing sound with no results. In went the third coin and no results. The young fellow then flounced around and dashed out of the bulding as if he were furious with the machine. He had played and lost. On witnessing the action and the loss of that lad I thought about how foolish is human nature To sober, right thinking people, this gambling business is foolishness personified. When a loss is sustained in a gambling machine do not blame the machine, but place all the blame on the sap who pushed in the coin.

A man in Kentucky went out to his garage and stepped into his car. He put his foot on his starter and only heard a buzzing sound. He pushed down the starter again and nothing doing He then got out of the car and lifted the hood and discovered that some thief had visited the garage the night before and had taken the engine out and had only left him the hull of a car. The engine is never seen when the car goes by and yet the engine is the power that pulls it with speed. God has installed an engine in every human life. This engine is none other than the hidden characteristics that are planted withih us. When we allow a morose, a sarcastic, a surly disposition to pilfer around our inner being, that thief is sure to steal the engine from our lives. Watch your life with great concern for a thief will steal the engine out while you idle around.

Some years ago a man with a horse and wagon overtook an old man with a heavy pack upon his back. The driver of the team invited the old man to ride. The invitation was accepted with due grace, as the traveler lifted himself into the wagon body. He sat down on the edge of the body with his pack still on his back. The driver asked the old man why he did not lay his bundle down on the bottom of the wagon, to which the man replied: "Friend it is so kind of you to let me ride and I don't want to burden you with my load." The wagon was carrying the load and the man also. That sounds foolish indeed but no more so than the Christian who accepts a lift from the Master of human needs and then refuses to let go all of his loads and burdens. Christ said that he would bear all of our burdens for us and why should we carry them also?

A company of students assembed in a retreat under the trees of a mountain side. In the early morning hours they were having a communion service and had placed the broken bread on a plate in open view of a drove of crows perched in the tree tops. The broken bread represented to the students the most sacred thing in human thinking—the broken body of their Lord. They looked upon it with reverence. While the crows above them only looked upon it a a means of filling the crow. Many a time is this true with men. Like the crows, we often look upon the most sacred things of life as only a means to serve the purpose of filling our stomachs or our purses.

Stable Manure Best Fertilizer

Auburn, Ala.—One of the best fertilizers for farmers to use under cotton, corn, and other crops is stable manure, much of which can be saved on Alabama farms during the winter months if farmers devote a little time to its production.

By supplying animals with bedding of leaves, pine needles, or straw and by keeping halls of barns, sheds and barnlot well covered with litter, leaves or straw, much valuable manure can be produced and saved. reports J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

"If the barnlot is too large to cover with bedding, build a pen of rails or logs and cover the bottom with 12 to 15 inches of litter," he says. "Rake up the droppings from the lot and throw them into the pen until almost one foot deep. Then add another layer of litter. Build up with alternate layers until about 6 feet high."

V. T. TREATMENT

Works Like a Miracle

Says Mrs. W. E. Elkins, Well Known, Highly Respected Lady, Residing At Holt, Alabama

"The V-T Treatment has worked like a miracle in my case, for it has done so much for me in such a short time," said Mrs. W.E. Elkins, well known and highly respected lady who is the wife of Deputy Sheriff Elkins, and who resides at Holt Ala., in a recent statement to the V-T Representative. "Before I commenced using the V-T Treatment," continued Mrs. Elkins, "I was just a nervous wreck, and was too nervous to teach my Sunday school class—my appetite was poor and what little I did dare to eat seemed to sour and ferment which caused poison acids to go through my system. Gas would form around my heart and nearly suffocate me. I was continually losing in weight and strength and it was with difficulty that I did my household duties. My husband went to our druggist and got me a bottle of The V-T Preparation, and after I had taken just half a bottle I noticed a gradual improvement in my condition and I commenced getting an appetite and things looked a little brighter for me, and now since I have taken only one bottle of your wonderful V-T Treatment it is a pleasure for me to teach my Sunday school class. I can eat anything that I want and digest it—I no longer have those awful pains around my heart and am steadily gaining in weight and strength. I will honestly state that the V-T Treatment worked like a miracle in my case, and I have not one bit of hesitancy in saying that it is a wonderful medicine and sincerely recommend it to all my friends, for if they have suffered like I did, I know it will help them."

The V-T Preparation is on sale at the Upchurch Drug Store and Alred's Drug Store in Clanton. Call on your druggist today and let him explain the merits of this Wonderful Preparat'on

President Asks People To Use Christmas Seals

Washington, Nov. 24.—President Roosevelt today summoned "the serious consideration of everyone" to the annual Christmas seal drive for funds by the National Tuberculosis Association.

In a statement issued at the White House, Mr. Roosevelt said "the disease continues to be the nation's foremost health problem—especially among the young," He added:

"The coopeartion of every man, woman and child, every organized group and every Government official is needed in order to bring this dread disease under control. It is properly the duty of each local community to raise the funds for its own protection. Christmas seals give everyone an opportunity to do his part. The funds are spent in the communities in which they are raised for the protection of all. The need is great."

FAIRVIEW P.-T.A.

The Fairview P.-T. A. met last Friday evening, November 22, with 18 members present. The following program was rendered.

A Thanksgiving program arranged by the pupils and teacher. An observation lesson in the sixth grade social studies was conducted by Mr. Stroud. The purpose of this lesson was to give the parents a better idea of the methods used in their children and to show how the tool subjects can be coordinated with the social studies.

Mrs. Estella Cowart gave a very interesting talk on "The History of the P.-T. A." In her splendid talk she pointed out why it was necessary for every school to organize a P.-T. A.

We feel that much will be accomplished by the P.-T. A. and we urge that every mother and father be with us at our next meeting on December 20.

Cotton Consumption Highest Since 1929

Auburn, Ala.—World mill consumption of all cotton during the year which ended July 31 this year was the largest since 1928-29, reports the United States Department of Agriculture in its 1936 farm outlook.

Current conditions indicate that world consumption of American cotton this season will probably increase, although consumption might be materially affected by further war developments, the report says.

Experts of American cotton show a gain of 119,000 running bales in October, 1935, over the same month in 1934 with the outlook that exports should be somewhat greater for this season than last ,says the Agricultural Adjustment Adminstration. Expotrs in October. 1934, were 592,000 bales and in 1935, 711,000 bales.

Crotalaria Should Be Turned During Winter

Auburn, Ala.—To get the greatest good from a crop of crotalaria, farmers should turn the crop in December or early January.

This is advised by Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, who says that "if plowing is delayed until spring poor results from the crop following the crotalaria are sometimes obtained."

The plants should be cut with a stalk cutter when they are thoroughly dry he advises. "This makes the heavy growth easily turned under."

In advsing farmers to save their crotalaria seed, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, says that "the seed may be stripped by hand or the plant may be cut and the seed thrashed or flailed out."

Isabella School Activities

The Isabella football boys went to Clanton Friday with a strong determination of giving Chilton High boys a real hard fight for the "game of the season." Isabella made more first downs through the line during the first half without either side scoring.

The second half opened with both teams fighting for a victory. During the first part of the last half Isabella began throwing and completing passes with Jones throwing to Deason. Fox and Williams. Oden and Lecroy made considerable gain on wide end runs and trick plays. Jones threw a pass to Deason who ran four yards for the first touchdown. Isabella failed to get the extra point on another pass.

Clanton began to fight harder but failed to plow the Isabella line for very much gain. As fate would have it, Clanton completed a long pass but was stopped near the goal line. They fought until they made a touchdown but failed to move the Isabella line for the extra point. The Isabella boys are looking forward to whip C.C.H.S. next year. Clanton has yet to see that victory over Coach Porch's team.

Shell Service Station Is Being Remodeled Here

The new Super-Shell Service Station is going to soon be one of the most modern stations in Clanton, according to W. G. Culp, operator of this establishment. A program of complete remodeling is being carried on, including a new roof, installation of modern greasing and washing equipment, and better lighting facilities.

An addition is being built to house the washing and greasing department which will be under the supervision of men thoroughly trained in this important phase of service to the automobile-driving public.

"It is our aim to make this one of the best service stations along this highway," Mr. Culp declared. "We want to be able to give the public such service that our customers will come back for more" he declared.

Weogufka State Park In Coosa County Attracting Many Visitors By Its Beauty

Despite lowering skies, 75 visitors thronged Weogufka State Park on Sunday last, about one-third being from Coosa County, with Talladega Jefferson, Montgomery, Tallapoosa and Chilton represented.

Although visibility was low, Chilton County eleven miles westward, loomed up but the Coosa backwater was hidden by mist. The mountains are not wearing their fall dress and the somberness of the pines is varied by the scarlet oaks. sumach, sourwood, maples and gums which with the rusty brown of many oaks have changed the extended stretch of green extending over several thousand square miles.

Ladies are entranced by the log cabins which are built rustic style but with running water and along modern lines. They admire the comfort and wish to cook in the "cute Dutch ovens," and get the summer breeze.

Men begin to look wisely at the solid construction of the lower third which is of stone, and of the square fitted logs, built to last well into a century but the interior comforts for women get little of their comment.

Roy E. Parke, superintent, returned from an extended trip into Alabama Tennessee, Arkansas and Oklahoma where he studied economic conditions He found basic prosperity everywhere and in Montgomery found the exact "corner, around which prospeirty was to be found regarding which he said:

"Building of new homes is one of the last indications of a general upturn in business along basic lines. Folks may repair houses, buildings and roads where necesary, regardless of financial conditions but new residences may be taken as an index to stabilized conditions. We may conclude that the corner of prosperity, is, therefor merely a house corner.

"In Tennessee, especially in the western counties, new farm houses were going up, some of which were of brick and stone. I saw no houses of cheap construction going up and this region is noted for its dependable farms and incomes.

"In Arkansas, the same rule holds with regard to plentiful evidences of basic prosperity. In certain regions of the state where specialized crops are produced, farms look more flourishing than where recourse is had to merely cotton and corn."

Turning to the coal mining regions through which he passed and where he once worked as a mining engineer Mr. Parke said that production was now at a higher rate than in the past three years in Oklahoma. Farm prosperity was most in evidence where specialized crops were produced such as rice in Arkansas, dairying in Alabama and Tennessee, apples in the Ozarks. Cotton he did not find to be an index of prosperity in regions where it formed the main crop.

Occasional patches of alfalfa in dairy regions always betokened good buildings, and other evidences of a sable prosperous farming.

Regarding the famous "prosperity corner," which had been so sought for the engineer said folks had been looking for it in a city street where factories might be found, or other industrial operations centered. He emphasized that the building of permanent houses in the country showed that at last basic prosperity was at hand and that the famous cornor was found in the country, and mostly where houses were going up.

Agreement Expected Increase Farm Exports

Auburn, Ala.—Agricultural exports from the United States to Canada will increase in consequence of the recent Canadian trade agreement, predicts the United States Department of Agriculture. "In addition the adomestic market for farm products should expand on account of increased domestic payrolls," says the department.

After pointing out that exports tc Canada declined from $50,000,000 tc $15,000,000 during the past five years Secretary Wallace expresses the opinion that the new agreement will benefit "the whole of agriculture."

"The United States has always had a greater volume of trade with Canada than with any other country except the United Kingdom," Mr. Wallace pointed out. "This extremely profitable mutual relationship, amounting on the average to over a billion dollars a year, was rudely broken by our Tariff Act of 1930 and by the retaliatory Canadian tariff shortly thereafter. It is my opinion that the new trade agreement with Canada is beneficial to all people of the United States, and especially tc farmers.

"There are a few farm groups which will fear they are being hurt by the new agreement, but actually in those cases the tariff reductions are moderate and in addition there are quota restrictions of such a nature that imports from Canada cannot affect the American price sructure by more than 1 per cent. This small effect, in my judgement, will as a rule be more than offset by the increased payrolls of industries established along the northern border and in the Northeastern States These increased payrolls will stimulate the demand n the United States for most of the farm products in which there has been a slight reduction in duty. I am thoroughly convinced that the Canadian treaty will prove of benefit to the whole of American agriculture, and that no particular branch of farming will be seriously, if at all, disadvantaged."

BOLTERS FEAR ERROR AS FDR FANS INCREASE

—o—

NEW DEAL STILL HOLDS

—o—

Solons Line Up With President As Voting Time Is Near

—o—

President Roosevelt's swing through the West has caused an unlimited amount of squirming on the part of would-be democratic bolters. The enthusiastic receptions he received all along the route were just so many headaches to the Republicans but they were doses of political arsenic to those Democrats who have been yelling their heads off against the New Deal.

Again President Roosevelt has demonstrated that when he gets on the husting he has plenty of "political it" and when campaign times rolls around next year these democratic politicians who have been off the reservation will be breaking their necks to crawl on the New Deal bandwagon.

It was interesting to watch certain senators aboard the president's special as it sped through their respective states. Some of these same senators a few short months ago were blocking New Deal legislation but now with campaign time nearing they are anxious to take a bow with the man in the White House.

When President Roosevelt goes South next month there will be some more rallying to the Roosevelt standard. In fact the senate's twin conservatives and opponents of Roosevelt policies, Glass and Byrd, have already taken sides with the president and are praising him to the sky. Down in North Carolina Senator Bailey is praising the New Deal although two years ago he was calling it all kind of names.

But it is down in Georgia where some of the anti-Roosevelt Democrats are going to have to eat their words. Governor Talmadge has spoken from one end of the country to the other denouncing President Roosevelt. Now the friends of the president are going to stage a home coming rally for the states distinguished adopted son and already Taldmadgites are reported to be taking to the bushes.

In South Carolina some of President Roosevelt's opponents would like to take a slap at the New Deal by defeating Senator Byrnes when he comes up for reelection next year. The reasor is obvious. Byrnes is the president's number one adviser on Capitol Hill and his defeat for re-nomination would be interpreted as a blow to the administration. As yet no candidate of importance has announced against Byrnes and Roosevelt seems to be gaining ground in the state.

Georgians apparently like Gene as a governor but when he sets out to denounce a democratic president and seek that office for himself he is attempting something that not even Tom Watson could accomplish and there is no comparison in the ability of the two men. It is the case of a bush league player trying to bat in the big league.

Already President Roosevelt's friends are linking Talmadge up with the Republican party and Abraham Lincoln That is not a healthy combination in Georgia. Tom Heflin bolted Al Smith in 1928 and Furnifold Simmons did the same thing. These two men were retired to private life and there is no question but in opposing the 1928 democratic nominee they had a more popular cause than bolting Roosevelt.

All in all this bolting business boils down to one well established political fact and that is a politician who abuses his party's leader is in a bad way at election time. He may get by with it during off election years but when it comes to electing a president you are either a Republican or a Democrat From now on the opposition to Roosevelt inside the Democratic party will subside and by convention time the efforts to defend Roosevelt will be strictly a Republican proposition. Even George Huddleston of Alabama may be expected to soon begin eating political crow.

There are many preachers who are strong for Roosevelt but it stands to reason that his position on repeal has not made him popular with the clergymen who are mad about repeal and ultra-conservatives ministers a much desired opportunity to lambast the president about fishing on Sunday, not attending church regularly and other digressions from the straight and narrow path.

To cap the climax the letter was lifted from a similar letter sent out by Governor Phil LaFollette, of Wisconsin. This put the president in a most ridiculous position.

Had Louis Howe been well and at the president's elbow it is doubtful if the clergy letter would have been sent but if it had it would certainly have changed so as not to put Mr. Roosevelt in the light of a plagiarist.—Alabama Herald.

Wildcat Insurance Warning Sounded

Frank N. Julian, State superintendent of insurance. told the Montgomery Lions Club yesterday that "Alabamians pay $1.000,000 a year to wildcat insurance companies that have not qualified to do business in the State."

"My advice to those seeking insurance." Julian said, "is to investigate first and see if the company is registered with the State Bureau of Insurance. Should you buy a policy from a company that is not registered, and they should refuse to pay off, it would be an expensive proposition to try to collect for the suit would have to be brought in the ciy where the home office is located."

Julian said that Alabamians pay approximately $90,000,000 annually in insurance premiums on policies aggregating more than $800,000,000.

"You get some idea of the size of this business," he said, "when you learn that more than 6,000 persons are employed in Alabama in various positions with insurance companies."

Julian said that his department collected around $1,000,000 annually in revenue from insurance companies in Alabama, and estimated that the companies paid an additional $2,500,000 to municipalities.

Gist Gives Cotton Price Information

Montgomery, Ala.—Records for the past ten years show that cotton prices average as high or higher during the harvest season as any other season of the year, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician.

"The average price from August to December, inclusive, during the past 10 years was 13.25 cents per pound while the average price from Januar yto July inclusive, was 12.57 cents per pound,' he says.

"It will be seen, therefore, that the farmer who sold his cotton during the harvest season from August to November, inclusive would receive the highest price obtainable during the ten years an average of about $3.40 per bale over the average price from January to July," Gist comments.

CHEVROLET
The Complete Car

THANK YOU, AMERICA,

for more than a Million cars in 1935

This year Chevrolet has two very good reasons for saying, "Thank you, America."

One reason is that people have bought so many Chevrolet cars that production for the year will reach 1,040,000.

And the other reason is that they have placed a record number of orders for new 1936 Chevrolets during the first few weeks they have been on display.

Chevrolet is indeed happy to say, "Thank you, America," and to pledge continued adherence to the manufacturing and service policies which have won and held the friendship of the nation.

Council, Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A., and Billingsley P.-T. A.

Which one will win the $150.00? It will be interesting to watch the activities for the next few weeks. Or suppose some new organization may enter yet and walk away with the prize money—there's a possibility of just that.

It's the home stretch now. It's either nose 'em out or be nosed out!

And it must be remembered that a liberal commission is being paid on each subscription in addition to the two grand cash prizes. Considerable cash is being paid each week to workers in commissions. Individuals have an excellent opportunity to earn some Christmas money by getting in on this contest.

After this campaign closes, the price of the News will be $1.50 again. So subscribers, it is a mighty good time for you to check the subscription label on your paper, and if it expires within the next few months, renew while you can get it for the exceptionally low price of $1.00—and at the same time give the votes and commission to some worthy organization.

DEMS IN FAVOR

ned. According to this source, elements opposed to another Hoover nomination counselled against the statement as well as some friendly to that for which he stands.

An expression used by Senator Borah today in opposing federal anti-lynching legislation afforded more cause for thought. It was where he said he would veto any such bill reaching him, "should the unexpected and great honor come to me of being president."

The party difference may head up on the question whether delegations to the June convention should prmarily be unpledged or for "favorite sons," or party strife over principles should be resolved by preconvention campaigning for delegates.

Hoover Stresses Issues

Mr. Hoover is believed by friends to favor emphasis on issues more thar candidacies until convention time. The Idaho Senator evidently is distrustful of this. He may take exception in a series of eastern speeches to begin December 7.

The naming of "big business" leaders as a Republican finance committee this week nettled him. Coming at a time when he is intent upon liberalizing the party, he was reported to consider the move "political suicide."

President Roosevelt is expected to pursue a similar broad defense attack at Atlanta next Friday, but dwelling more on the AAA and possibly the new trade agreement with Canada That agreement has suddenly presented a potental major issue rivaling those previously apparent.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader who has supported the New Deal on occasion, returned to the capital today to protest the tariff concessions on lumber accorded Canada He reported the Pacific northwest "up in arms," and led friends to believe he expected G. O. P. chances next year to be fenefitted accordingly.

Senator Dickinson of Iowa, also a potential Republican nominee, agreed with criticism of the agreement by Mr. Hoover that more was lost than gained by this country. Their views were challenged in the Portland speech by Farley, with a caution to "wait and see."

into sacks. The capacity of this machine is 60 bushels of shelled corn per hour. Another machine on the second floor is a mixer for dry feeds. A sweet feed mixer is being installed this week. The capacity of the dry mixer is 2 tons per hour and the sweet feed mixer will put out 4 tons per hour.

Then there is a chicken feed grinder which takes shelled corn and cuts it up to any size or grade that is desired. It is capable of handling one ton of corn per hour.

The main machine of the plant is the one which grinds up nearly anything imaginable in the way of feed, such as shucks, corn, cobs, fodder, velvet beans sorghum stalks, pea vines, goober vines etc., turning them into meal. The products from this machine may be taken and mixed with various other things making just the balance of feed desired, so far as ingredients are concerned.

The mixers are run with individual electric motors. All the other machines are powered by a large 42-h.p. kerosene-burning International engine.

Mr. Crowson is working out analysis tables for the various feeds and elements which he produces. These analysis will be posted up and will show just the protein and other contents of various products. This scale has to be figured out by the State department of weights and standards, and will be made in strict compliance with useless to them for the farmers of Chilton County to import their feed the State law.

The promoters say that it seems whenever plenty is raised right here in the county if only properly worked up. They are going to continue to add to this machinery until the needs of Chilton County farmers can be taken care of. The farmers can bring their stuff and have it ground according to their wishes, or make exchanges for other feed, or what have you. In short every wish of the farmers in the way of grinding feed will be taken care of this section.

Had this field been developed along the lines that have been repeatedly outlined for its development, it would doubtless become one of the best advertising mediums that could be afforded Chilton County and Clanton Crowds from miles around would motor out to Gragg Field on Sunday afternoons—and at other times—for a wholesome entertainment that can not be had anywhere in this section.

There has existed a doubt in the minds of county and city officials as to the advisability of spending money in the completion of this project, but a view of those people out there Sunday afternoon would convince most anyone that it will be hard to find a project which commands a more widespread interest than does Gragg Field.

Charles Miller, pilot of the plane Sunday afternoon was busy for hours carrying passengers—many of them for their first ride along the "skyways.' He did several loops and spins, but the feature that held the interest of the crowd to the utmost degree was the aerial leap of "Billy," a bantam rooster.

Cars lined both roads leading into Gargg Field for near a half mile It was almost impossible to get to the field after about 1 o'clock in an automobile. Many parked a half-mile away and walked.

SEN. BLACK

"hand-pick" the state-wide delegates The whole program was planned by Gov. Bibb Graves and executed under his direction.

Administration lieutenants throughout the state were summoned to Montgomery on the eve of the committee session to see that the plan clicked Matt Murphy, Thomas J. Judge and John D. McNeel were among those summoned from Birmingham.

The governor's close associates say the appointment as chairman of the convention delegation puts him in a stronger position than ever to secure additional Federal funds for Alabama.

But those on the inside declare there was still another angle to the governor's coup.

Many Democrats over the state had been suggesting Senator Black for the chairmanship of Alabama's convention delegation. They had predicted the senator would run for delegate-at-large and lead the ticket. This, under a long standing custom, would have insured his selection as chairman.

MOATES FREED OF CHARGE IN SHOOTING CASE

Grand Jury Exonerates Man Charged With Killing Of His Brother

A Chilton County grand jury last week in special session exonerated Claude Moates. 44-year-old tenant farmer, blamed in the fatal shooting of his brother, John Moates, last October 13 in a family quarrel at the Moates home near Maplesville.

Claude, who has been held in the County Jail without bond since he surrendered to Sheriff J. R. Hardy a short time after he fired a bullet from a 22-calibre rifle into the heart of his brother, was released immediately after the grand jury made its report and he returned to his home, which has been deserted since the Sunday morning when his brother came there over his protest and engaged in a quarrel.

Columbus Rosenberry, who is alleged to have fired a shot gun at Moates after he had shot his brother, was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Rosenberry is said to have suffered a wound in his left arm from a bullet fired from Claude Moates' rifle.

Several months ago, officers investigating the affray were told, Thelma and Geneval Moates, daughters of Claude Moates, left their father's home and went to live with their unmarried uncle. Moates said that he had repeatedly tried to persuade them to return home, but John had interferred About noon on the fatal Sunday, John came to Claude's home; an argument ensued and John was shot to death.

The following indictments were returned by the grand jury while in session:

William Cleckler, manufacturing and possession of a still; Ted Wilson, grand larceny; John Hines, Negro, assualt to murder; Radford McGuire, Houston McGuire and Thomas Mahan, assault to murder; Oscar Glasscock, arson;

$10,000 IS SET ASIDE TO PAY COUNTY DEBT

Will Be Transferred From General Funds Of This County

At the regular meeting of the County Commissioners Court here Monday it was voted unanimously to set aside the sum of $10,000 into a sinking fund to take care of a part of the county's bonded indebtedness.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith suggested to the court that this should be done, inasmuch as the county's outstanding bonded indebtedness amounts to $81,000. If this allowed to mature in any one year, it will be practically impossible to take care of it, he explained.

"I believe it is the part of wisdom to begin now to make preparations for the payment of this indebtedness. By gradually reducing this amount, we can be in position to take care of all of it before or by the date of maturity," the judge told members of the court.

This money will be transferred from

December 31 Dead Line To Pay Taxes In County

WELL KNOWN COTTON BUYER DIES SUDDENLY

Raymond Welch Victim Of Hearth Attack At His Home Here

Funeral services for R. K. Welch, local representative of the Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association, who died at 6 a. m., last Thursday at his home in Clanton, following a heart attack were held Friday at 1:30 p. m., from the Spigener Funeral Home here. Dr A. E. Middlebrooks, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church, assisted by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, officiated at the services. Mr. Welch was 36 years old.

His death came as a surprise to his many friends in this county and over the state. Although he had been suffering from a heart ailment for several months, his health had seemed normal until about 3 o'clock Thursday morning when he suffered an attack. A second stroke about 6 o'clock resulted in his death.

Mr. Welch came to this county less than two years ago, but in that brief time he had become acquainted with practically every cotton farmer in the entire county and many of them were his close friends.

Following the services here, the body was taken to Prattvilel and burial was in the Rocky Mount Methodist Church cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Olive Yarbrough Welch; two small children his father, the Rev. R. S. Welch, of Montgomery; three sisters, Mrs. Allen Northington, Miss Thelma Welch, also of Montgomery, and Miss Katherine Welch, of Chicago.

Enforce The Traffic Laws

Of all the weapons being used to combat motor traffic accidents, enforcement is ultimately the most important. This is not to minimize the vital need for such primary measures as education and engineering, for education is a great hope and only through it can we achieve the ideal of self-enforcement. Traffic engineering is a fast-developing science which can and does go far in reducing the probability of motor accidents caused by faults in street and highway design and construction. Nevertheless, until education teaches the motorist better habits and a proper respect for the added advantages given by traffic engineering safety, enforcement must assume the practical leadership in accident reduction.

People who are otherwise law-abiding, deliberately break the traffic laws every day. The result last year was 36,000 killed and close to a million injured. The police cannot afford to let down in their enforcement efforts—rather must they itensify them. Probably the first requisite for good enforcement is good laws to enforce. The truth of this statement is proved by a survey made by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. This survey showed that the trend in the ratio of motor accident fatalities to gasoline consumption increased twenty per cent in six years in a group of states having no driver's license laws, while at the same time, it decreased twenty-five per cent in those states with standard license laws So long as the law itself is lax, not only about licenses but also about the whole motor vehicle code, it cannot be surprising that the motorist is also lax.

A second requisite of good enforcement is intelligent application of the law. All offending motorists are not alike, either in their attitude or the degree of their offense. No police officer has the right to abuse his authority by abusing a motorist where harshness is not called for. The "bawling out" should be saved for the extreme offender. The average violator, being the average man, is amenable to reason. The policeman who can explain how the safety of the offender and of others has been endangered by an illegal or an unsafe practice and who is equipped as well to demonstrate statistically the toll taken by that particular violation, is far more likely to win a convert to the good driving idea. Correction and not punishment is the aim of modern traffic law enforcement.

Real enforcement, therefore, is self-enforcement. Death and destruction on streets and highways will practicall cease when every driver—and every pedestrian—becomes his own agent of enforcement.

Let's Center Stripe Them All

Recently the News editor had occassion to drive over the new paved road between Goodwater and Kellyton. Along the center of this road has been placed a large white stripe of paint, about six inches in width, and adds a great deal to the beauty of the highway, the white stripe against the dark background giving an effect pleasing to the eye.

But far more important than the beauty feature is the safety feature of this stripe. Some other roads in the state have a center stripe and many do not. It has been the experience of this writer that a clean center stripe in a highway almost completely eliminates the nuisance and danger of "road hogs."

Many accidents are caused by collisions of cars on highways, and it would seem that a distinct center stripe on all paved highways would prevent a lot of accidents at a minimum of cost.

Christmas Draws Nigh

Again our imaginations span the few weeks ahead until the Christmas Season will be with us once more. Already many stores have the bright red and green decorations; with silver stars against silent blue in their windows throughout the buildings Toys and candles and fruits are rapidly taking the forefront among the displays. Biting winds out of the north remind people that coats and wraps and woolen garments now must come first on the shopping list

Far across the seas come faintly to us the echo of war drums and booming shells, sad accompanist of Christmas bells soon to ring out upon the starry night, re-awakening the spirit of "Peace on earth, good will to men" in our hearts Our hopes throb against this tragedy of humanity, and we pray that the war gods may vanish

Little children wait impatiently for that glorious night when a benevolent old man will ride out of the North behind a team of reindeer with a load of toys. Men and women of Clanton and other communities, too steeped in the cares of daily life to expect a visit themselves from this kindly saint, take time off to do their bit in bringing happiness to some unfortunate child overlooked by Old Santa in the rush on the night before Christmas.

Even now toys are being gathered in Clanton, repaired and repainted under direction of the Kiwanis Club for the "forgotten" child on Christmas Day. Those taking a part in this are wise—or so the world has decreed for nearly two thousand years, for it was three wise men who came on the first Christmas to the bedside of a tiny babe, overlooked by a busy world, and there laid their gifts, which compassionate men have and will glorify for all the centuries to come.

Drive Careful, Please

Monday morning of this week Alabama's drive against "Sudden Death" on our highways started. Gov. Granves signed the first safety pledge, and Chief McAdory put his crew of Motorcycle Officers and Patrol Cars on the highway.

Simultaneously with the policing program an educational move against accidents has been started under the direction of Lawrence B. Tipton, State Safety Director.

Loss of life on our highways in all sorts of accidents with automobiles has become an appaling tragedy. As we understand the policy of Chief McAdory and his aides, it will be an attitude of courtesy to all drivers, but with all a firm determination that this tragedy of the highways must stop.

The public's cooperation is earnestly solicited. Most drivers of cars and trucks are aware of the worst dangers on the road such as passing other cars over hills and around curves, excessive speeding, parking along the road in danger zones, etc., but many drivers are also inclined to "take a chance."

As the present plan of highway patrolling becomes more and more effective the careless driver will be taking a longer and longer "chance," for he not only will expose himself and passengers to the danger of "Sudden Death," but there is a likelv possibility that he will soon find himself face to face with one of the State's new highway patrolmen, who will bring him before the courts to answer for the "chance" he took.

Not many of us enjoy being policed about our daily activities, but we are wise enough to know that the highway death rate must be lowered. It is up to us to cooperate in this effort, and as individuals do our part to make it effective. We already know, or can readily learn, how to drive a car carefully. The simple and wise thing to do, is to put this knowledge to work — on the road.

A writer hopes for the time when standards will be based on something besides money. In the case of a good many of us, that time came quite a while ago.

Out of the mouth of another babe comes wisdom. Asked what was the most wonderful thing thing ever made by man, a Kansas eight-grader answered: "A living for his family."

"If the Republicans are to deserve any victory, they must show that they have a positive program to follow, not merely a tiresome list of negative complaints."—Hartford Courant. (Rep.)

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

While listening in to a program over the Radio I heard an announcement of a Street Fair that came in from a distant city. The man at the mike said, "We do not expect young people or children to see this fan dance, but if you are mature men or women you will enjoy this special artist." Having never attesded a place where an artist was giving a "Fan Dance" exhibition I did not know why this announcer should have barred all young life. If the night was good for mature people, it should have been all right for young folks. If reports are correct there are "Sights to be seen" for mature people that should never be seen by any human eye. When you hear a thing is for "Mature Eyes" alone you had better keep your peepers off that sight if you want to see right and think right.

At a summer resort I stopped by a skating pavilion to witness the speed and grace of those moving over the floor. In one corner of the building there was a costly Victrola. It was one of the nicest machines I ever saw. It was a thing of beauty but the music coming from that Victrola was jazz cheap and bad. The machine was all right but the record that it was playing was a nerve wrecker. Have you not seen this same thing on the pavilion of life. Many a human, man or woman, has the appearance of being very fine, but nothing is given out to the world other than jazz, cheap and bad. We should never fall out with the machine because jazz is played upon it, but we should try hard to see to it that good records are played. Never fall out with folks because they live and play jazz, but try hard to get them to play worth while music for the world. If you are playing jazz, cheap and bad, it will be better for you and the world if you will change records.

William Tell shot an apple while it rested on the head of his son and the arrow divided it into two halves. In one of our childhood Readers there was a story of a Frontierman who came home late one afternoon and saw a large tiger as he ran from his house with his little babe between his jaws He lifted his rifle and with careful aim so as to kill the tiger and not harm the child, he sent a ball through the heart of the tiger. When we become such skilled laborers for the Master as to be able to shoot dead the sins in the hearts of mankind and not injure the man, then we will be worthy of His name. Christ was death to sin but life to mankind. He hated sin but loved the sinner.

Two young men plunged into the swimming pool, one was afraid but the other was not afraid. The one filled with fear flinched and splashed the water and fought for his life. He even cried out for help. The other young man let himself down into the water and quickly gave himself to the refreshing liquid and drifted about in gront pleasure. This attitude is so true to human life. Many of us plunge into our task in a nervous state of mind, we clinch our teeth, breath in an irregular manner, slash and splash all the day long and when the day is over we are exhausted and physically all in. Some adobt the better method of giving to the work of the day in a quiet manner and let go our strain and struggle, and when the day is over there is a feeling of refreshment and joy. When you swim do not try to carry the water of the pond on your back, but let the water carry you.

The athlete was out on the track and a row of hurdles stretched down before him. The young man on whom the team depended for success showed signs of nervousness and the manager of the team addressed him thus, "Don't look at the row of hurdles my lad, just look at the first and resolve to make it, then at the second and resolve to make it and so on until all the hurdles are made." What is good advice for each of us as we tackle the many duties coming every day. Quiet your nerves and do your best in the first task, and when you have done this only look to the next and do your best. Take just one hurdle at a time.

Chevrolet Sales Set New 20-Day Record

Chevrolet retail sales during the first 20 days of November totalled 60,707 units, nearly double the previous high record for that period, it was annouscced at the offices of the Chevrolet Motor Co., Detroit.

Only once in Chevrolet history, in 1926, has the sales total for the whole month of November exceeded that for the first 20 days of the present month, te records show. Since the November, 1926, figure was only about 5,000 higher, the current November will be, by a wide margin, the greatest in the history of the company.

The new 20-day record, following the introduction of new models November 2, is nearly three times as great as the best previous post-announcement 20 days since January, 1928. With the exception of April, this year, there has not been a first 20-day period in any month to equal it since April, 1930.

To assure an adequate supply of cars to meet the record demand, production has been stepped up beyond the 100,000 units orginally projected for November. A new high mark for a single day's production of 1936 models was reached November 22, officials reperted, when more than 6,000 units rolled off the assmbly lines.

Thorsby Institute News

On Tuesday afternoon, November 26 the try-out for the annual Declamatory Contest took place. Fourteen girls and six boys spoke. From the girls Mary Nelle Pate, Lessie Rascoe, Dora Holt and Bernice Robinson were chosen. From the boys J.C. Williams, Lewis Wilson, Robert Weems and Will Lay were chosen. These will now be trained until time for the contest on February 22.

On Thanksgiving Day the dormitory folks with a few guests, had their Thanksgiving dinner in the Dining Hall which was decorated with leaves and the tables were arranged in the form of a T. On the tables were leaves, and artificial turkeys that had been made by the girls.

Between courses Lorene Stokes told about the first Thanksgiving, and Mary Christ gave reasons for being thankful. After the last course Robert Weems also gave reasons for being thankful. Lessie Rascoe recited a Thanksgiving poem by Grace Crowel and Miss Fairbank told a Thanksgiving story. The singing of alma mater concluded the program.

A little after two o'clock the dormitary students and teachers rode out in wagons to the County Poor Farm taking some gifts for the people of the farm. The Rev. Lawrence Stanley gave a short talk and prayer. Then several hymns were sung. On the way back from the Poor Farm, everyone stopped at the home of the Rev. E.W Butler and had supper and a bonfire About seven o'clock the students and teachers arrived back at the Dining Hall.

A week from Saturday night at seven-thirty there will be held the annual Christmas program given by the Helen Keller Literary Society, under the direction of Miss Kathryn Foss. A Christmas pageant will be given. Everyone is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

"My wife likes the smartness and roominess of the Ford—but THIS V-8 ENGINE'S WHAT OPENED MY EYES!"

ENGINEERS have known for years the undisputed advantages of the V-type engine . . . simplicity, economy, compactness, ruggedness. But until Ford announced the first Ford V-8 in 1932, no one had found a way to bring these advantages to the low-priced field.

Since its introduction this engine has been constantly refined and improved—but the basic features of Ford design have remained through the production of over two million V-8 engines.

This is the engine that powers the beautiful 1936 Ford V-8 . . . and, because it is V-type and compact, gives "all that extra room" that many [a] woman has wondered about in the Ford V-8 body. This is the engine which proved sparkling performance and eight cylinder smoothness are economical if you have a V-type engine with a dual-downdraft carburetor that takes the "gas" used by a four and splits it into eight equal charges.

This is the engine you need for quick, sure, cold-weather starting this winter—the engine that's "opened the eyes" of over two million enthusiastic Ford owners.

You'll find such an engine in no other car at anywhere near the price of the Ford V-8 for 1936—So why not arrange to drive one today?

JUDGES NAMED BY G.O.P. DOMINATE NEW DEAL VOICE

DEMOCRATS HAVE NAMED FEW MEN

Republican Appointees To Federal Bench Hold Big Majority

Washington—With New Deal legislation piling up in the federal courts, a check-up Monday showed that judges appointed by Republican presidents will have the dominant voice in passing on its constitutionality.

Although the Democrats have controlled the executive and legislative branches of the government for almost three years, the survey disclosed that Republican appointees are in a majority on the federal bench by a wide margin.

Even though political tags are discarded by judges when they assume the bench, discussion of their backgrounds has been stirred by the importance of pending New Deal tests and by charges and denials that the administration was over-riding the constitution.

The check-up showed that only two of the nine Supreme Court justices were appointed by Democratic presidents, while Republican appointees have a wide numerical edge all the way down through the circuit and district judges.

Federal judges hold office for life Twelve years of Republican rule in the White House, from 1921 to 1933, left on the bench few men who were appointed by Democratic presidents.

President Roosevelt has appointed only eigt of the 41 active circuit judges. Seven others are still serving under appointments from President Wilson so that the total appointed by Democrats is 15 against 26 named by Republicans.

Among the federal district judges there are 107 appointed by Republican presidents; 12 named by President Wilson and 23 by President Roosevelt.

In the District of Columbia courts where many constitutional tests arise the Republicans also have a wide edge. Four of the five members of the District Court of Appeals were named by Republicans. Of the nine members of the District Supreme Court, one was appointed by President Wilson, one by President Roosevelt, and the other seven by Republican presidents.

President Roosevelt has not named a single Supreme Court justice, though two are holdovers from the Wilson administration.

Out of the total of 196 federal judges from the Supreme Court down to the District of Columbia courts, 151 were named by Republican presidents, while 45 were selected by Democrats.

Though it does not follow that Republican presidents appoint only Republican presidents appoint only Republicans, and Democratic presidents only Democrats, that is generally true, lawyers say. Chief exceptions are on the Supreme Court and lower courts in the South.

Remember The Under-Privileged Child At This Xmas Season

Again the Clanton Kiwanis Club is sending forth the plea "to remember the underprivileged child" at this Christmas season.

For some years now, Clanton Kiwanis has been doing a great work in helping to bring cheer, smiles, and gladness to the hearts and faces of children in this section, who, because of poverty and ill fortune, would otherwise miss the joys of well-filled stockings on Christmas morning.

As in the years past, this group of business and professional men will lay aside the more serious duties of everyday life and devote much of their time to the art and pleasure of making little children happy, and they are urging others not to forget the command "Inasmuch as you have done it unto one of the least of these, you have also done it unto me."

Old toys will be gathered together and repaired for distribution among little fellows less fortunate than the present owners. John Hollis, of Mitchell Dam, is in charge of this drive. He is asking everyone who can contribute any type of old toy to bring it to J. Mell Martin's office in Clanton. Arrangements have been made for the repairing of these—they will be woven into a thousand smiles.

DUFFEE FAMILY AT JEMISON ENJOYED REAL THANKSGIVING

Mr. Duffee also celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday at this time and even at his age enjoys perfect health.

After all were seated at the table a sentimental expression was rendered by each one present and the trend of these expressions was that all were most thankful for the life and spirit of this grand old man who gave rise to the assemblage.

Those sharing these privileges were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duffee, Miss Evelyn Duffee, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Harbour and their son, Jerry of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Duffee and their son, Albert of Montgomery, Mr L. D. Duffee of Jemison, Mr. and Mrs George S. Naish of Jemison.

J. A. HEADLEY WRITES ON PROSPERITY

Editor, Chilton County News:

I want to say a few words to the good old citizens of Chilton County.

As we go about our business at home rejoicing over the difference in the prosperity of our home life today and the prosperity that we had under Mr Hoover's admnistration, it makes me feel glad and rojoice in our hearts so much to know that we have a government that has the right kind of Christian love for the people in the United States as a whole, especially for laboring people in the world. The poor farmer ought to keep a fresh mind at all times and try not to forget that we as poor people, are having the privilege of living under the only man that is living in the United States with brains and love for the people in the United States as our great President

We ought to be proud that we have got a president that no other nation can compete with and all European nations are looking at him with that respect.

Our great senators from all states are looking at him with that respect and let us poor farmers look at him with that respect and let's always remember him and work to keep him as President until old age disqualifies him and then let's see to it that he has the right kind of a nurse and treatment until he passes away. and then see to it that he has a monument that is impossible for all the wealth of the nation to compete with

To the subject again: People, we have people who under this administration that have got to shove a few of their nickels out as never before in all the history of the world to help the little fellow to live and it is taking their eye teeth out by the roots, and they are organizing everything that they can find in all the United States that is weak enough to listen at them to overthrow our government so they can keep their few nickels and let us root hog or die poor. Don't let them deceive you. If you want to know who some of them are, it hurts me to let you know who they are, for they are progressive Democrats, also my right-hand brother Republicans, such as the great man of Minneapolis, Mr. Stanley B Houck, also our lovely E. E. Kennedy head of the Union. It might gripe pretty bad for me to name the third but he is the Editor of the Union-Banner, and they are not all. There are lots of other people. When we vote for the government to turn us loose tc root hog or die poor, you can begin to get ready, for the time won't be long.

The way times are now, if you think you can live better without help thru the Government, you are thinking thru a hole in the top of your hat. Boys let's line up against any candidate that is against the New Deal in any respect. Of course we have got to keep our thoughts to ourselves, because some of these New Deal critics are liable to put a hicky on our heads if we talk too much before them, but to show you that the New Deal critics are looking for the best interest of the state, county, also themselves, they are on our county agent, trying tc stomp him out of existence. So boys let's keep up with that bunch and when they ask us voters to give them an office let's give them the one that they are looking for and at the proper time that they are looking for it.

It is a strange thing that some people can't be satisfied with a good living and want to kick everybody and knock them in the head because they can't get the government to give them enough over to buy them a big car and gas to run it. I am one that voted for Mr Hoover and I am one among the half of the world that Mr. Hoover and his administration starved practically tc death and while in that starving condition I proceeded to help put in office our great President, Franklin D Roosevelt, and other members of the Administration, and now they, through their love for their country and their people, have proceeded to help me in a prosperity way as I have never before been helped and they have stuck my love for them forever.

People, we have some people scattered over the world who would not have a fortune but just a few minutes If you were to give it to them they would give it for a rusty Ford car and then starve to death. Well, then what is the use of us folks voting starvation cn all the whole world just for the sake of that kind of a few. Not me!

Children's Colds Should Have This Safe Treatment

Young Mothers Benefit from Two Generations' Proof of This External Treatment For Fighting Colds.

IT AVOIDS CONSTANT "DOSING"

There's nothing like a child's cold to upset a young mother. And mothers of two generations, anxious to help end colds, have depended on Vicks VapoRub. It is effective—external—and safe. It avoids the risks of constant "dosing," so often upsetting to children's delicate digestions.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two wa at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers

Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

Over 53/26/17 Million Vick Aids Used Yearly for Better Control of Colds

Kappa Kappa Gamma Chapter Is Honored

An article clipped from The Tuscaloosa News of November 27th, relative to the Gamma Pi Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma, of the University of Alabama, will be of much interest tc friends of Miss Ruth Shepherd, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Kate Shepherd of Clanton.

Miss Shepherd has been receiving considerable recognition for outstanding scholastic work at the University and the Gamma Pi chapter there, of which she is a member, is one of the most outstanding in the entire nation. The article follows:

"Local Chapter Leads Nation in Scholarship

"Miss Marian Handy of Crisfield. Md., presented to the members of the Gamma Pi Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma a magnificent silver loving cup last night at a formal ceremony which was given by the national organization in recognition of the outstanding scholastic record made during last year by the members of Gamma Pi Chapter this group leading all of the chapters of Kappa Kappa Gamma in the nation.

"The gift is a museum piece of rare value and was made in London in 1764 and the design is early Georgian. The shape is typical of the tankards of ye olden day and seldom has an antique been so lovely. Miss Handy was pronounced in her commendation of the achievements of the brilliant young women composing the Gamma Pi Chapter, she expressed great satisfaction over the handsome home of th chapter, and Miss Mary Rainey president of Gamma Pi Chapter, accepted the handsome token from the national chapter in the name of the winning chapter.

"Before the presentation service the members of the Gamma Pi Chapter entertained with a beautiful seated tea in the home of Kappa Kappa Gamma at Colonial Place. The apartments were filled with splendid gift chrysanthemums and carnations which were combined with Pernet roses and rose colored dahlias.

"The officers of the chapter welcomed the guests, including the presidents of each of the sororities on the University Campus, the alumni, and a few additional guests, and presented Miss Handy, regal looking in a costume of deep sea green wool crepe elaborately trimmed in bands of brown fur.

"Mrs. Annie Jones, official chaperone presided at the refreshment table which was perfectly appointed, and hot coffee was served with open face sandwiches wafers, small cakes and other sweets by the members of the active chapter an dthe coterie of guests were happy indeed to meet Miss Handy and extend to her a cordial welcome on her official visit in the Southland."

"I long for the day when the public will recognize this organization, not as a 'bunch of drunken bums' but as men who do things—men who contribute in community service. The principles of this Legion of ours is the foundation for the greatest organization in history and it is up to you buddies out there to make this dream a reality," Dr. Inge told his listeners.

Declaring that he hopes that the legion will be able to get a favorable reaction to its request that the ex-service men be paid the bonus at the January session of Congress, he said this will depend upon the pressure that can be brought to bear by the number of members in the Legion. Always heretofore, he stated, the Legion membership has only been a small percentage of the ex-service men of the country.

Mr. Lokey was the first speaker on the program, being introduced by Percy M. Pitts, post commander. He outlined briefly some of the programs that comprise the Legion's work in this nation. Among those cited were: the Americanism program, Child Welfare Legislative, and Educational programs

Pete Jarman, who is lauded by his fellow Legionnaires in this section as the next congressional representative from the Sixth District, spoke briefly paying tribute to the principal speaker as "Alabama's most outstanding Legionnaire."

Dr. Inge has visited 80 posts in Alabama, taking to them a message that he believes is of vital importance regarding the bonus issue that will be a bone of contention in the next Congress.

He declared that he hopes the bonus can be paid. in order that this issue can be put behind and Legionnaires can join in a concentrated community-service program that will completely transform the aims and ideals of the organization and its place in the minds and hearts of the people of this nation ministration had made public details of a two-year adjustment program for corn-hog producers intended to increase next year's hog production by 30 per cent.

Both long-range control agreements were projected in the face of the impending Supreme Court decision on AAA's constutionality. Four-year contracts also have been prepared for wheat, tobacco and rye producers.

High administration quarters have indicated some way would be sought to continue production control in these major crops even should the high tribunal hold processing taxes invalid. Benefit payments to farmers are financed through these taxes.

XMAS LIGHTS TO BE DISPLAYED IN NEAR FUTURE

City Will Soon Present Beautiful Spirit Of Season At Night

By the end of this week, Clanton will be one of the most beautifully-lighted cities in Alabama. J. Mell Martin, chairman of the Lighting Committee of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, announced Tuesday that arrangements are being completed for the installation of thousands of Christmas-colored lights, whose glow will be a token of the "peace on earth and good will to men," which will be Clanton's Merry Christmas to the world.

Again the huge Welcome Banners will gleam over the Birmingham- Montgomery Highway at the entrance to the business section of Clanton on both the north and south. These signs will characterize Clanton's friendlines to those who pass through its limits, he declared.

Almost every business firm has been contacted and given an opportunity to share in this program of beautifying our city at this Christmas Season, Mr. Martin stated, but if there are others who wish to have part in this program they are urged to see him or other members of the committee at once.

There has been a wonderful spirit of cooperation and the lighting program will be the most outstanding ever achieved, he continued.

DeMabel's Now Under A New Management

The well-known DeMabel's Beauty & Art Salon is now under new mangement and is being remodeled and equipped to serve better the exacting clientele that patronized this shop since its establishment ten years ago.

Miss Willie Maude Kelly, who has been connected with this establishment for the past two years, and Mrs. Geo. Wyatt will operate this business. Mrs. Wyatt has been connected with the Mrs. Claude Goodman Beauty Shoppe for the past three years and is well acquainted with needs and demands of the beautician patronage in this section.

The interior of the building is being repainted and many other improvements are being installed. Some of the most modern equipment known to beauty scientists has been secured for the new DeMabel's.

Among the new equipment is the Ther Mique croquignole machine, which Miss Kelly explained is the last word in the art of giving permanents. It affords greater comfort than any machine used heretofore, and its heaterless feature guarantees one against the danger of injured hair by burning. Although this machine is comparatively new to the South, it has been in use long enough to demonstrate the fact that it is far superior to its predecessors, Miss Kelly stated.

Both Miss Kelly and Mrs. Wyatt extend cordial invitations to their friends and patrons to visit them.

$29,000 AWAITS MORE LAND ON LOCAL AIRPORT

Commissioners And Judge Believed In Favor Of Land Buy

Once again the prospects of securing an up-to-date airport at Gragg Field seems favorable. Senator Hugo Black recently notified Probate Judge J. Lee Smith that an appropriation of $29,000 for the further improvement of this field has been okeyed by the United States Comptroller-General, and the money will be available just as soon as the county secures the additional land needed to make this field safe for landing.

A committee from the Clanton Kiwanis Club which has been intensely interested in this project, conferred with Judge Smith Monday afternoon regarding this appropriation and the county purchasing 22 acres of land on the north and west of the present field. An option, which ends January 1, for $2250.00 is held by members of the Kiwanis Club for the county, it was revealed.

Judge Smith declared that he is in favor of the county purchasing this land, declaring that it would be foolish not to expend this small sum when such a large amount of federal funds can be brought into the county. The Commissioners Court, he said he believed too, will be in favor of the proposition if an agreement can be reached whereby citizens of Clanton will agree to buy the land should the county ever care to sell it. Such an agreement was made when the original 60 acres was purchased.

SENATOR AND REPRESENTATIVE GIVE VIEWS ON ROAD PROJECT

Cox And Thomas Claim In Letter That They Do Not Receive Cooperation From Other Local Officials In Paving Selma Road

To The Readers of The News,

Dear Friends:

It is with regret that we write this letter, informing the people of Chilton County that apparently the opportunity to secure the paving of the Clanton-Selma highway has been lost, but we feel that you have a right to know the truth about this situation. This opporunity has been lost through the lack of cooperation on the part of your county officials. Repeatedly, they have chosen to assume an attitude far from friendly to the aims and ideals of the program sponsored by State and National governments.

Information has reached us that Gaston B. Scott, chairman of State Highway Commission has notified Judge J. Lee Smith that the Highway Department will withdraw its offer to Chilton County regarding the proposed paving of this road, linking the county seats of Chilton and Dallas unless accepted by Commissioners at once. Our county officials have shown they are determined not to cooperate in this matter.

Despite the fact that they agreed and assured us of their willingness and intention to participate in this project, they have constantly attempted to mis lead the people regarding this work. Several months ago, while the Legislature was in session, County Attorney Omar L. Reynolds called me (Charlie Cox) in Montgomery and informed that he, Judge Smith, and members of the Commissioners Court wished to come to Montgomery and hold a conference regarding some local legislation which we were seeking to have passed.

It was agreed in this conference that the local bills (one providing for the employment of a county road supervisor and the second providing for the allocation of one and one-half cents of the county gasoline tax to the State for the purpose of paving of this road) would be withdrawn and the Commissioners Court would cooperate in the futherance of this project. The members of the court agreed to participate to the extent of one-third of the gas tax due the county until such time as the State of Alabama had received one-third the amount of the cost of the paving of this road through Chilton County. Estimates at that time placed the cost at approximately $42,000, but later the Federal Governmen proposed to participate to the extent of 42 per cent, thus Chilton County's share was reduced to $39,300.

From this moment on, it has been the sole aim of Judge Smith and members of his court to camouflage this issue. They have repeatedly made the assertion that "Charlie Cox and Earle Thomas have taken all our money" and we can't do this, or we can't do that. The majority of the people in Chilton County must know this money which we sought to have transferred to this road project comes out of the road and bridge fund and can not possibly be used for any other purpose. So, in no way could this program have interferred with or prevented support of other programs other than road work.

Three years ago, when President Roosevelt launched his gigantic relief

Citizens Of Chilton To Vote On Six Constitutional Amendments

Voters of Chilton County, along with voters in every other county in Alabama, will have an opportunity next Tuesday, December 17, to express their wishes regarding six amendments to the Constitution of Alabama

Although these amendments generally speaking only effect certain localities, every voter should give them this close attention and vote with the same interest as if his county or city was being effected.

Chilton County voters, too, will be given an opportunity on this day to vote on whether or not they wish Chilton County to participate with the State Highway Department and the Federal Government in the paving of the Clanton-Selma Highway.

Because of oppositon to the move Judge J. Lee Smith declared that it was decided by the Commissioners Court to leave the matter to a vote of the people before they entered any agreement with the State Highway Department regarding this project.

Detailed provisions of the Constitutional Amendments will be found elsewhere in this issue of the News.

Election To Be Held Over County On Dec. 17th

FIGURES ARE CITED

The people of Chilton County will be given an opportunity to express their wishes regarding the advisability of Chilton County entering into an agreement with the State Highway Department to participate to the extent of one-third of the cost of paving the Clanton-Selma Highway to the Chilton-Dallas line.

Judge J. Lee Smith announced Monday that he will have special ballots provided in order that the voters may express their wishes regarding this issue in the special election which will be held next Tuesday, December 17

Following is a copy of resolutions recently passed by the Commissioners Court, calling for a vote of the people before definitely deciding upon this issue:

WHEREAS, Chilton County has an opportunity to share in what is known as a three-way project for hard surfacing the Maplesville highway, from a point four miles West of the City of Clanton and joining the present hard surface paving, to the Dallas County line a distance of approximately twenty miles, said road to cost approximately $150,000.00 of which Chilton County would be required to pay not exceeding $42,000.00 and it being presently estimated by the State Highway Commission of Alabama, that Chilton County's portion would be approximately $40,000.00 and

WHEREAS, it is proposed by the State Highway Commission that Chilton County pay its part of the paving of said road by agreeing with the State Highway Commission that one cent of the gasoline tax which is now paid to Chilton County and being approximately $2,000 per month be deducted from the county's part of this fund until the entire sum not exceeding $42,000.00 is paid as the county's part, and

WHEREAS, said road proposed to be built shall be of a bituminous surface commonly known as tar or black top surface, and whereas said road is now a State owned road and the State at the present time maintains said road without expense to the county and in the event that said road is hard

Nell's Eat Shoppe Moves To New Home

Since removing to its new location Nell's Eat Shoppe is one of the most inviting and attractive dining emporiums in this section of the country.

It is something new in Clanton, with spick and span interior, new equipment inlaid linoleum-covered floors, individual booths, and many other improvements.

This establishment was moved to the new location several days ago, and according to Miss Nell Goodgame, operator, it is enjoying a wonderful business. The new location is just across the street from its former location on the Clanton-Montgomery Highway.

Odd lights spotted about the cafe lend a color and charm to the establishments, and the individual booths offer a privacy that is not found elsewhere in this section. All in all, it is one of the most modern cafes in Clanton and its expert staff is anticipating wonderful business in the future.

MOST BEAUTIFUL XMAS WINDOWS ARE BEING SHOWN BY CLANTON STORES

Sauntering about the streets of Clanton this week, one is not likely to overlook the fact that the Christmas Season is here again. On every hand is seen some reminder of when men and women, boys and girls join in celebration—and in observance of the birth of the Saviour of man.

Several of the various business houses in Clanton have arranged their display windows to depict scenes of the Christ Child, the manger, or the shepherds as they made their way toward the star that hung like a beacon over the little town of Bethlehem.

J. R. Mullins & Sons have a beautiful window, arranged by Mrs. J. R. Mullins, which is a replica of the occurrences about that little town 1935 years ago. It depicts the sheep browsing on a rocky hillside, while an angel appears to bring the news of the birth of Jesus. In the distance is seen the shepherds as they hurry toward the star which hovers over the stable where the Christ Child is cradled in a manger.

The Marionello Beauty Shoppe has reproduced a similar scene, showing Joseph and Mary with their child housed in a stable with the horses and cows, because there was not room for them at the Inn. In this same window Old Saint Nicholas speeds across the snow with his six reindeers, bringing cheer and gladness to the hearts of many.

At the Yellow Front Store is seen another attractive window. Here the world is covered with snow; cars plow through it; smoke belches from chimneys; a stream that flows along by the side of the road is frozen, and on the hill is the quiet little brick church—a symbol of all for which Christmas stands.

The Alabama Power Company has loaded Santa Claus with a big electric refrigerator, but he seems to be happy to be a bearer of such a nice Christmas gift. A background of holly, centered with a lighted cross lends color to this display.

Evans Variety Store, too, has a very attractive window, with a lighted Christmas tree drawing attention to the scores of attractive items of Christmas merchandise.

I. S. Levine, manager of Mazer's, is proud of the display that is being shown. Santa Claus has dozens of beautiful gifts to select from if he visits this establishment. Attractively arranged greens, aided by a unique lighting effect, makes this one of the prettiest windows in the city.

At The Leader, Old Saint Nicholas is making his way down the chimney, laden with gifts for every member of the family which he evidently purchased at this popular store. This window was arranged by Marvin Marcus and is worth going to see.

The first Christmas window in Clanton was at the Wozo Service Station,

Ever Have a Fire?

Have you ever had a serious fire on your property? The chances are that you haven't—and you are lucky.

But the fact that you haven't suffered directly from fire loss shouldn't give you a false sense of security. A fire, like anything else, has to happen a first time. And the property-owner who disregards warnings concerning fire hazards, thinking that such matters may affect others but not him, is all set for that "first time."

Unless your home is different from the average, it contains a long list of fire hazards. Remember that old furniture, those ancient magazines and clothes you've been putting in the attic little by little for many years? They offer a constant invitation to fire, no less than the nest of a real pack-rat. And the accumulations of greasy rags or refuse in the basement or garage—what more could the force of spontaneous combustion want to get in its work? And those electrical repairs you made yourself, in order to save the few dollars an expert electrician would have charged to do the job properly—perhaps you don't know that electrical hazards are one of the most prolific sources of fire. And that heating plant that is going full blast these first days of winter—unless it has been recently inspected and overhauled, it is one of the fire demon's best allies.

Almost every fire hazard can be eliminated—furthermore, it can be eliminated, quickly, easily and cheaply. Some of the most dangerous hazards, such as improperly-stored inflammables and piles of rubbish can be done away with entirely without cost. Doing that may save lives and irreplaceable property—is it worth the little work that is involved?

The Good Old Day

An interesting document was brought to light during the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the founding of the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. store in Chicago. Someone in that organization had preserved the rules for employees of their first store which read as follows:

"Store must be opened from 6 a. m., to 9 p.m. the year around.

"Store must be swept; counters, base shelves and showcases dusted. Lamps trimmed, filled and chimneys cleaned; pens made; doors and windows opened; a pail of water, also a bucket of coal brought in before breakfast, if there is time to do so, and attend to customers who call.

"Store must not be opened on the Sabbath unless necessary, and then only for a few minutes.

"The employee who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barbers', going to dances and other places of amusement, will surely give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty.

"Each employee must pay not less than $5 per year to the church and must attend Sunday school regularly.

"Men employees are given one evening a week for courting and two if they go to prayer meeting.

"After 14 hours of work in the store, the leisure hours should be spent most in reading."

Who was it heard sighing for "the good old days?"

The New Deal

To the Editor The News:

Once upon a time it had been raining a long, long time, causing a great flood, and the water was rising rapidly. A man was clinging to a tree-top, and the water was nearing his head. Just about the time the water was reaching his head, a raft made of logs came along, and it was under the command of another man by the name of Franklin Roosevelt. The raft approached the tree and with much difficulty the commander took off the man who was about to be engulfed in the raging, rough water. After he was safely on the raft he did all he could to help his benefactor navigate the raft down the roaring torrent.

After a while the sun began to shine and the raft came within view of a large and beautiful boat. The commander of the boat was Capt. Recovery. Seeing the raft in distress, the captain lowered a lifeboat and rescued the men on the raft. In line with the great tradition of the sea, Capt. Recovery proceeded to have the two men who had been rescued provided with warm clothing, plenty of warm, good food and a comfortable place in which to rest and sleep.

After the man who had been clinging to the tree-top had recovered from his shock and was warm and well fed and rested, he began to survey his surroundings. He noticed that the man who had been in charge of the raft was there. Looking him over, he said: "I almost lost my life on your account because you did not have sense enough to get a good boat and competent crew to start with instead of coming along with a lot of logs tied together." The navigator of the raft was silent for a while, and then answered: "I am just a man, after all. I do not claim that I can perform miracles, but I did the best I could to save you under the circumstances and with the means at my command."

The man in the tree-top was many bankers of the United States expecting the doors of their banks to be closed any day; the man in the tree-top was many of the leading industrial concerns of the country fast drifting towards the financial rocks and breakers; the man in the tree-top was thousands of unemployed and destitute citizens; and his name—Mr. Wiseacre Ingratitude.

Flirting With Death

It is an amazing fact that the appalling number of deaths which result from sheer carlessness make no greater impression upon the average person. This is especially true with respect to drivers of automobiles.

Persons who are ordinarily careful in protecting their health and property often throw discretion to the winds the moment they grasp the wheel of a motor car and flirt with death through failing to observe the most elementary principles of safety.

They will take a chance at a grade crossing, speed while rounding a blind curve, pass other cars under dangerous conditions, and do other foolish things which menace life and limb—seemingly oblivious to the fact that one slight mistake of judgement may prove fatal to them or to those who happen to be passengers in their cars.

The jaywalker is equally reckless, taking the chance of being run down for the sake of saving a few steps or a moment's time. In fact, many pedestrians are even more careless than the average motorist.

Safety education has been the means of reducing accidents to some extent, but the lamentable fact remains that no amount of warning has any appreciable effect upon the majority of people.

The result is that 36,000 or more persons are killed and about a million are injured in automobile accidents in the United States every year, while at least 90 per cent of these casualties might be averted by the use of ordinary common sense.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A woman in the country had a distinguished brother who was going to make her a visit. This sister of the distinguished man was lazy and slovenly but to make him think that she was an expert housekeeper she swept the dust and rubbish under the rug and left it there. All went well until someone stumbled over the rug and then the secret was out. The dust and trash flew all over the room. She made all kind of excuses for the dust being under the rug, but her brother knew why it was there. Many people in a like manner are trying to make a good impression and to do this they sweep all of their faults and sins under the rug. They hope that no one will ever find out what is hid in the secret places of their lives, but it is coming out some day. "Be sure your sins will find you out." Better remove the rugs and sweep clean. Sins should be swept out and not into secret places.

The yard dog jumped off the back porch with a slipper in his mouth. The owner of the shoe called for him to bring it back. The nice old dog turned around and trotted back to his master and stopped wth his head just in front of his hands. The man took the slipper into his hand and said, "Let go." No sooner had he spoken than the dog dropped the slipper. Then the master took a large juicy bone and placed it between the teeth of the dog and he trotted away with is eyes sparkling with delight. He gave up an old slipper and got a nice bone. We often would have our own way but God says to us, "Stop." If we obey and return to Him for orders He will give us things much better than we thought to possess. God has never called upon us to give up anything when in return He did not give us something much better.

Before me in the peach orchard was a tree that was laden with fruit that looked to be ready for use. Stepping up to the limbs I began to feel of the large yellow peaches, but they were all hard. I kept up my investigation but there was not a ripe peach on the tree. Finally I decided to pull one anyway. When I buried my teeth in the peach I discovered that it looked like a ripe peach but it was green. Often we think that a man is ripe for the church when he attends services. We urge him to join and to please the preacher he joins. Later on it is discovered that he was pulled before he was ripe. It is safer for the kingdom to first let a soul ripen well and then harvest. They make better members of the church than when pulled green.

And it came to pass that a certain Methodist preacher was sent to a certain charge and he opened his ministry with a terrific barrage against the sins of the community. The leaders heard him and lifted their hands and voices in holy horror. They whispered to each other that he would not hold his congregation for six months and that in one year he would be moved from their midst. The year drew to a close and the minister still preached to a crowded house and all the community wanted this man?" One of the "ring leaders" Presiding Elder ventured to ask "Why all this change in your attitude toward this mah?" One of the "ring leaders" for his removal in the beginning of the year replied, "We want this man back because he practices what he preaches." Verily, verily, I say unto it matters not how high a standard a man may preach if he lives up to it, it is well with that man.

I saw some berry pickers who were more concerned about full quarts than they were about quality berries, and so they just stripped the leaves and trash filled the quart vessel wtih speed. Te filled the quart vessel with speed. The result was that the berries picked were almost without value. Another berry picker was careful about quality and not so anxious about quantity, and his berries were bought up at a fancy price. Many preachers are more anxious about large numbers to join the church and they rake them in, saints and sinners, and the collection is not so good for the kingdom. Pick ripe berries for the church.

"Built to Take It"

Says Frank Buck Famous Explorer

"Trekking" through the jungles has taught me that there is no substitute for ruggedness and dependability in a motor car. For over 20 years Dodge has been famous for these qualities. Everybody knows a Dodge can "take it."

Added to these attributes Dodge has been smashing all economy records—and as for the new 1936 Dodge . . . there are reports from new Dodge owners all over the country stating they are getting 18 to 24 miles to the gallon of gasoline—and saving up to 20% on oil.

To top it all—this big, new, Money-Saving Dodge has been acclaimed the "Beauty Winner" of 1936 by famous fashion authorities in all parts of the country. Yet Dodge now costs only a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

CCC CAMP ASKS FOR SHRUBBERY FOR GROUNDS

It Will Be Appreciated; Basketball Team Is Organized

The local CCC Camp has organized a basket ball team with some 20 ambitious lads reporting for the first practice, according to the educational advisor, Mr. T. H. Walker, who is coaching them. They will play their first game at the local camp Friday night, when they will play a double-header with the CCC boys from the Weogufka Camp. They will play team "A" and team "B" beginning at seven o'clock. The public is invited to see the game which will be free. The prospects for a good team seems to be very encouraging and anyone wishing games should see or write Mr. T. H. Walker. They will be glad to schedule games with any independent or high school teams.

Local authorities at the camp announces that they are n need of shrubbery for the camp grounds and if any one has any kind of shrubbery to take up and give away the Camp will be glad to send for it. Just call 132.

The camp was very glad to receive a large oil painted picture from Mrs. Clara Mullins last week given in the name of the local Pilot Club. The Camp authorities wish to express thanks for these gifts. It adds much to the appearance of the reading room which is now second to none in the district.

The dining hall at the camp has just received some new curtains and the same has added much to its appearance. The camp is very grateful to the sewing clubs for making them. This work was supervised by the home demonstration agent, Miss Ruth Pardue.

The camp is very glad to welcome the new officers that have come to tak the place of Captain Martin and Lt. Strickland. Lt. H.M. Brock has assumed command with Lt. Pattigrew assisting him as Jr. Officer. Lt. Brock comes to us from the CCC Camp of Hartselle, Ala. He had the record of having the best camp in his sub-district while serving there. We hope that he will accomplish the same at this camp.

V. T. TREATMENT

"The V-T Treatment has worked like a miracle in my case, for it has done so much for me in such a short time," said Mrs. W. E. Elkins, well known and highly respected lady who is the wife of Deputy Sheriff Elkins, and who resides at Holt, Ala., in a recent statement to the V-T Representative. "Before I commenced using the V-T Treatment," continued Mrs. Elkins, "I was just a nervous wreck, and was too nervous to teach my Sunday school class—my appetite was poor and what little I did dare to eat seemed to sour and ferment which caused poison acids to go through my system. Gas would form around my heart and nearly suffocate me. I was continually losing in weight and strength and it was with difficulty that I did my household duties. My husband went to our druggist and got me a bottle of the V-T Preparation, and after I had taken just half a bottle I noticed a gradual improvement in my condition and I commenced getting an appetite and things looked a little brighter for me, and now since I have taken only one bottle of your wonderful V-T Treament it is a pleasure for me to teach my Sunday school class. I can eat anything that I want and digest it—I no longer have those awful pains around my heart and am steadily gaining in weight and strength. I will honestly state that the V-T Treatment worked like a miracle in my case, and I have not one bit of hesitancy in saying that it is a wonderful medicine and sincerely recommend it to all my friends, for if they have suffered like I did, I know it will help them."

The V-T Preparation is on sale at the Upchurch Drug Store and Alred's Drug Store in Clanton. Call on your duggist today and let him explain the merits of this Wonderful Preparation

New AAA Program Is Being Set Up Now

The following is a continuation of an article, published last week in part, explaining the new AAA program and its provisions. Farmers will find this article both interesting and educational

Major Changes

The major changes in the new cotton contracts:

1. They cover four years instead of one.

2. National base acreage is reduced from 45,600,000 to 44,500,00 acres.

3. The reduced production for 1936 must be 30 to 45 per cent of the base, compared with 25 to 35 per cent in 1935, and 35 to 45 per cent in 1934.

4. Benefits equal to 5 cents a pound or $8.60 an acre, will be paid in one check for the reductions. Three payments formerly were made on two bases, totaling 4 3-4 cents a pound.

5. Share-croppers will receive 25 per cent of the payments instead of the 15 per cent they now get; non-managing share tenants 50 per cent of 22 1-2 per cent, and managing share-tenants 50 per cent instead of 57 1-2 per cent.

The AAA explained that share-croppers are those who furnish labor only and share a half-interest in the crop with landlords; non-managing tenants are those who furnish workstock and equipment but not production supervision; while managing tenants are those who supervise production as well as provide stock and equipment.

Tenants To Get Checks

In addition, their share of adjustment checks will be paid directly to tenants "in normal cases," the AAA explaining this provision "may operate for the protection of both landlord and tenant."

The AAA's announcement said that despite a reduction of 8,500,000 bales through the "plow up" campaign and current reduction programs, the world carryover of American cotton last Aug 1 was around 9,000,000 bales—3,000,000 bales larger than the average annual carryover in the 10-year period ending in 1932-33, but 4,000,000 bales less than the record 13,000,000-bale carryover in 1932.

A smaller crop would be desired some officials said, to enable a further reduction in the cotton surplus. Estimates have been made that the domestic consumption for this crop season will be about 6,000,000 bales, and that exports will be about the same figure, an increase of more than 1,000,000 bales over 1934 exports.

The division of payments between landlords and tenants in 1936 will be made as follows: 37 1-2 per cent will go to the person furnishing the land 12 1-2 per cent to the person furnishing the work, stock and equipment and the remaining 50 per cent will be divided in the same proportion as the cotton or proceeds from its sale are divided.

Previous contracts were drawn hurriedly without the aid of precedents, an official said, and arbitrary divisions were set up. After the study, it was decided that the tenant should receive a larger share. Cotton land owners who conferred with AAA officials here several weeks ago were said to have agreed upon the changes for 1936.

Formerly, classification of tenants has varied in various areas, but there will be no variance under the new contract. The new percentages for payment were based on a division of three-fourths of the cotton to the share tenant and one-half to the share-cropper

Benefit payments are to be made directly to both tenant and share-cropper, but a joint payee may be designated by either tenant or landlord.

Each contract signer must name a beneficiary to receive the payment in the event of his death, disappearance or incompetency.

The signers must agree in so far as is "economically practicable" to keep the present number of tenants and to allow them the same percentage of land.

Other Plantings eRstricted

Signers must agree not to increase the acreage planted for sale of peanuts, tobacco or rice beyond the acreage of these crops on their farm in 1934 or 1935, which ever is larger. The acres taken out of cotton production may be used for production of food and seed for consumption on the farm.

The AAA will allot the national acreage among the states on a basis correspondng to each state's base in 1935. Allotments will be made to counties, but an acreage equal to 10 per cent of a state's allotment will be held for apportionment by the state cotton board for adjustments to correct possible inequities.

Adjustment payments are to be made as soon as compliance with the contracts has been determined. Officials will begin checking compliance as soon as planting has been concluded in any county.

The contracts provide that the states may select one of five base periods in making allotments to counties and individuals. The years for the base periods are 1928-32, inclusive; 1931-33, inclusive; 1932-34, inclusive; 1933-35, inclusive, and 1935. The original base period was 1928-32.

A state, must select one of the five counties within the state. All land operated by a contract. Person eligible to sign the new contracts include an owner operating his own farm, a tenant operatisg a farm rented by him for cash or for a fixed commodity payment, an operator of a farm being purchased by him for cash or a fixed commodity payment, a share tenant operating an entire farm on a crop share lease or agreement. A farm, to be placed under contract, must have a base cotton acreage of at least one acre.

City Of Attalla Asks For Votes

When the voters of Alabama march to the polls December 17th to vote on six proposed constitutional amendments, they are urged by Mayor A. B. Duke, of the City of Attalla, to cast a favoable ballot on Proposed Amendment Number Three.

This proposed amendment merely extends an authority now vested in the City of Attalla and does not increase nor invoke a new levy on the taxpayers of Attalla. The City of Attalla will be authorized in the event of adoption of the amendment to continue to collect the present ad valorem tax levy now in force, which levy shall be devoted to the payment of outstanding bonds.

Failure of this amendment to pass will cripple the ability of the city to amortize its bonds. The levy has been collected since 1903 and is for one per cent of the assessed value of porperty within the corporate limits of Attalla.

"The citizens of Attalla have already expressed their willingness for the governing body of the City of Attalla to continue to levy and collect the present rate of taxation," says City Clerk M. J. McClendon, "and the voter of the state will be doing us o favor if they vote for the adoption of this amendment."

program, it was for the one purpose of relieving the unemployment situation that had become a catastrophe to this nation. But it was soon seen that it was next to impossible for the Federal Government to direct a program of such proportions. President Roosevelt then asked the States to lend a hand, and our governor, Bibb Graves, assured him that Alabama would do her part. Governor Graves in turn sought the cooperation of Alabama's 67 counties, but it seems Chilton County's officials had grown so accustomed to the idea of oustretched hands and a slogan of "gimmie" that they could not visualize such a thing as putting their own shoulders to the wheel.

Under the WPA Alabama was slated to be the recipient of $80,000,000 of Federal funds to be expended on worthy public improvements. Appearing before the Commissioners Court we made the statement that there was no reason why Chilton County should not receive at least $1,000,000 of this amount But there was a reason—and that reason was, negligence and lack of cooperation on the part of our local officials.

In losing ths project, Chilton County will have lost the $108,000 which would have been spent by the State and National governments. Much of this amount would have gone to our local people for labor and truck hire. To illustrate the friendly spirit exhibited by the State Highway Department, we wish to recall to your minds that when he question arose as to which of the two routes through Maplesville would be chosen, highway officials agreed to pave both routes.

What puzzles us is that the roads of Chilton County were built and maintained until the past two years on two-cent gasoline tax, and in that time 52 steel bridge were built. All of this was done before the addition of the third cent tax on gasoline two years ago. If our roads were built on two-cent tax, is there any reason—good reason why they can not be maintained on a similar amount It seems to us that at least one-third of this money should be spent for the building of permanent roads.

We, neither of us, have any personal reason for wanting the Clanton-Selma Highway paved, other than we believe the people of this county have a right to expect their officials to spend some of the tax money wisely.

Another smoke screen that is being employed is the argument that a durable road could not be built for $6,000 per mile. We were assured by highway officials that the road would be the same as the four miles already built, and that it was further guaranteed that should the road prove inefficient, Chilton County would be absolved of all responsibility. With the paving of this road and the completion of the highway from Centerville to Maplesvlle, much of the traffic en route to Montgomery and points south would naturally have flowed through Clanton and Chilton County. No business man need be told what this would mean.

The loss has been great to Chilton County and the antagonism shown toward this and other Public Works programs has not been in keeping with the band wagon support of the New Deal during the last campaign.

The situation is regretable, but we feel that our people have the right to know the facts.

Very truly,
C. B. COX,
EARLE THOMAS.

"It is true the supply of water in the city wells is less now than it was a few months ago due in part of course to the dry weather, and other causes we cannot understand. It is also true the demand for water has increased. The failure of one of the pumps a few days ago revealed more clearly we have not at this time, a surplus of water, and considering the increase in demand now for water, and the anticipation of extending our water mains to the new territory presents the question and problem of supply in our growing city with more and sufficent water squarely up to the city officials and to the people of Clanton.

"The question is will more and deeper wells furnish the required amount or must we go to the nearest creek or to the river to secure the necessary amount of water to take care of future requirements.

The inconvenience to the people on account of insufficient water a few days ago due especially at that time to a pump getting out of order has served a good purpose. When the city officials are endeavoring to improve present conditions and secure adequate water supply, they will have the cooperation of the people."

ONE IS KILLED IN ACCIDENTS OVER COUNTY

Several Receive Painful Injuries During The Past Week End

One man lost his life and several others suffered injury in three automobile wrecks in Chilton County during the past week end.

Edward Keith Johnson, 19, who was killed instantly early yesterday morning when the car in which he and three other persons were riding was crowded off the Birmingham Highway two and a half miles south of Verbena.

The driver of the car, Jack Frisby, received severe head injuries and Hubert Hammell, Verbena filling station employee, and a young woman were bruised slightly.

The party was en route to Lake Mitchell, eight miles from Verbena, to join a hunting party when, in attempting to pass another machine on a curve, their car was crowded into a guard rail. It overturned, pinning Johnson beneath the wreckage, and throwing the others clear. The other machine did not stop.

The three injured persons were taken to the Central Alabama Hosptal at Clanton by a Martin and Sons ambulance. Dr. V. J. Gragg reported that Frisby had received severe injuries to the skull. The girl and Hammell were dismissed after they had received first aid.

Later Frisby was removed in an ambulance to Hubbard Hospital in Montgomery.

Johnson was a son of the late Kay Johnson prominent tire dealer for a number of years. He attended the Barnes School and the University of Alabama. While at the University he was chosen a member of the Phi Delta Theta and Chi Sigma Chi fraternities. More recently he was employed in an official capacity at the Johnson Tire and Supply Compan

Mr. Johnson was a member of Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. M K. Johnson; a brother, Kay Johnson, Jr., and a sister, Miss Mildred Johnson, all of Montgomery.

The funeral will be held from Memory Chapel, 222 Maison Avenue, at 3:30 p. m. today with Dr. H. V. Carson, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Greenwood.

Charlie Kurtz, Salem, Ind., suffered a severe head wound Saturday afternoon when his car collided with another machine near Cooper. His wife, who was with him, also suffered minor injuries. They were released from the Central Alabama Hospital Monday.

Early Sunday night a government truck, loaded with members of the local CCC Camp, collided with a small coupe driven by Clarence Causey, of Lomax, just south of Clanton, but no one was injured.

This Is Last Week Of News $200 Campaign

JUDGES WILL BE SELECTED

Contestants Are Urged To Dig Hard These Last Few Days

When the hands of the clock reach six next Saturday afternoon, the Chilton County News Big Subscription Contest will have reached its end—and in a short time the winners of the two grand prizes will be made known.

Arrangements have been made to canvass the votes and declare the winner just as quickly as possible after the last subscription is registered. The counting will begin at 6:30 and by 7:30 the two winners will have the checks for the two grand prizes.

Just who will be lucky enough to get first prize of $150.00 in cash is still a much-debated question. There are at least four organizations that have a golden opportunity, provided they don't fail to take advantage of the few days left this week. Isabella still leads the list by a very close margin; the Chilton County Home Demonstration Council is a close contender, and the Verbena Parent-Teachers Association holds third place. Billingsley P.-T.A. is fourth and with some good work this week—who can tell what may happen?

This is the last week that subscriptions to the News can be had for the extremely low rate of $1.00 per year After six o'clock Saturday evening, the price will be advanced again to its regular rate of $1.50 per year.

Those who have not renewed their subscriptions, and those who should be subscribers, now is a golden opportunity to get the paper and at the same time help some worthy organization win one of the cash awards. Even if your subscription does not expire for several months, it will be to your advantage to subscribe now and save the fifty cents.

Next year is going to be an important year in both political and business circles. The News is planning to give an even better coverage than heretofore on both phases of this news. Next year is election year—how will Chilton County's political pulse beat? The News will have men trained in news coverage and political observation getting facts on all situations that arise and its subscribers will have the benefit of uncolored news as it happens.

Now is the time to get on the subscription list. Make sure that you will be among those who will read the News next year.

ELECTION SAYS VOTERS FAVOR ROAD PAVING

No Official Count Has Been Received Here By Wed. Morn.

Apparently the people of Chilton County favor the county participating with the State and Federal government in the three-way paving of the Clanton-Selma Highway. Reports from over the county indicate that the vote in the special election held Tuesday on this proposition will be about three to one in its favor, according to Judge J. Lee Smith.

Members of the Commissioners Court met Wednesday morning to count the votes, but no official returns are yet available. Judge Smith stated that unofficial reports from the various beats indicated that the vote would be favorable.

It was decided by the court to submit the proposition to a vote of the people after outlying sections of the county had voiced criticism of the movement.

It is understood that the State Highway Department is prepared to begin work at once, provided Chilton County agrees to participate.

There Is A Santa Claus; He Lives In Chilton County; His Job Is Important; You Can Help

By Vernie Teel

About this season of every year thousands of young minds concentrate upon the coming visit of the Saint of Little Children, generally known as Santa Claus. Most of these children have nothing but happy thoughts, because father and mother have assured them that Old Santa will positively visit their tree or stocking and leave a big assortment of shining toys and good things to eat. This is as it should be, for God made children to be happy.

There are others, however, who are hoping against hope, building up a belief that everything will be all right Christmas morning, but in their little minds is a doubt no child should have. There is not much money in their home. Necessary food must be bought. Some sort of clothing to keep the family warm must be purchased. The face of their mother is lined with care. From her has come no promise that Santa will come down their chimney on Christmas night. Their confidence in the goodness of the world is being shaken. Upon their frail shoulders is being rudely thrust the cares of maturity too soon. A precious heritage is being trod upon, for fond expectation on Christmas Eve and whoops of joy on Christmas morning are the birthright of our children.

But lest these little children, and some of our adults, doubt too much that there really is a Santa Caus, let me hasten to assure you that I have recently been in his work shop. He has a place in Clanton in which there is a wide assortment of toys, and dolls and other things which he believes his little friends will like. When I saw him his uniform was off, and he was busy as the proverbial bee, but it was Santa Claus just the same for he was working as hard as he could so that he could make little children happy on Christmas morning. If that kind of person isn't Santa Claus then I don't know the old fellow when I see him.

He has quite a few people helping him, for toys and things have to be fixed up you know. Bright red and green paint must be put on the little wagons, autos, fire engines, and trains. Dolls must have dresses and then little faces sometimes need powder

Good Will On The Road

The Holiday season is a peculiarly fitting time to emphasize the obligations of every motorist. It is of more than passive interest that the Yuletide closes that quarter of the year when automobile accidents, deaths and injuries are at an annual peak, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. How horrible is the thought that as we approach the days when the sentiment, "Good Will to All," is glorified throughout the land, the carnage of wreck sand broken bodies is strewn more than ever over the face of our country.

A great deal has been said about the necessity of courtesy in driving as an accident preventive measure. Driving at speeds reasonable for conditions, sharing the road, passing properly, using correct hand signals, avoiding all those actions which make driving dangerous and uncomfortable for the other fellow, are the dictates of courtesy and manners. So, too, are they dictates of the principle of the good neighbor. Good driving, with a real desire to safeguard the lives of those exposed to the consequences of that driving, is practical Christianity. It is a kind of practical Christianity that followers of all creeds can subscribe to as they join in the common rejoicing at this Christmas season.

The first concern of the churches of America is the saving of souls. By entering with whole hearted activity into the automobile safety movement, they can extend their activity to the saving of lives, without violating their first purpose. The blot upon a soul as a result of killing or maiming another through careless or heedless action, is one not easily erased. The churches have the advantage of being able to appeal to a great section of the drivers of the country on occasions when they are most receptive to the idea of good will as a driving maxim. The good neighbor on the road could well serve as a theme for a sermon in every church at this time of the [illegible]

So long as selfishness and stupid recklessness, so long as death and destruction exist on our streets and highways, the ideal of peace on earth, good will toward men, will command little more than lip service.

Murder Rates

According to a report recently give out, the city of Quebec, with a population of approximately 100,000 was the scene of only one murder in a whole year.

In the United States there are on an average approximately 10 murders each year out of each 100,000 of population while in the cities of Memphis, Jacksonville and Birmingham the annual rate during the past 10 years has averaged nearly 60 murders per 100,000 or 60 times that of Quebec.

In spite of the earnest efforts of sociologists and publicists to determine the cause and suggest a remedy for the deplorable crime situation, no appreciable headway has been made in that direction.

Attempts to explain crime as an aftermath of the war fall flat when it is considered that the homicide rate in England, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and other English-speaking countries average only about one-tenth that of the United States, yet all these were in the war from beginning to end and suffered from its effects in every way immeasurably more than we did.

It is declared by a recent writer that only one murderer out of 160 is executed in New York, while 70 out of 100 are hanged in London. This may have something to do with our high murder rate.

A writer declares there's nothing like marriage if one marries the right person. Nor if one marries the wrong one.

Christmas

Throughout the Christian world Christmas is celebrated in commemoration of the birth of Jesus Christ, although the day or even the year of that event is not definitely known. Observance of Christmas was first officially set for December 25 by Pope Julius, in the fourth century, probably because certain pagan festivals were held at that time of the year.

Even to this day many of the customs which surround the Christmas season may be traced to pagan origins. This may be accounted for by the fact that early missionaries did not disturb the harmless native customs of their converts to Christianity, but gradually merged them with Christian observances. Thus the giving of gifts, the decoration of holly and mistletoe, the feasting and other features of Christmas celebration are of very ancient origin.

Christmas, therefore, may be said to have a double significance—one religious, the other social—the latter perpetuating the customs of many peoples. It is the world's most widely observed holiday, and its social observance is by no means confined to adherents of Christianity.

No day is so generally pervaded with the spirit of "peace on earth, good will toward men." While there has long been a tendency to commercialize the Christmas season, it is marked by much genuine charity and kindliness, and the cherry greeting "Merry Christmas" is usually a sincere expression of friendliness and good wishes.

Learn About Fire

The best friend fire has is ignorance. Its most dreaded enemy is knowledge.

No one, aside from a pyromanaic, purposely starts destructive fires. No one purposely creates fire hazards or allows them to grow and increase in dangerousness. No one wants to imperil the lives of his loved ones.

Yet millions of ordinarily intelligent citizens do those things unknowingly every day. The bulk of them get away with it—for a month, a year, perhaps forever. Many of them don't—and the dreaded fire demon strikes. And it strikes so often that, in spite of the fact that substantial progress in reducing fire loss has been made during recent years, the total annual waste comes to several hundred million dollars.

Ignorance is one of the prime causes of uncontrolled fire—ignorance that is totally unnecessary and entirely inexcusable. There is nothing mysterious about fire prevention. There is nothing difficult about it. Any fire marshal can give you the fundamentals in a half-hour's coversation. Various organizations, such as the National Board of Fire Underwriters, offer a wealth of literature on the subject which may be had for the asking. Each year Fire Prevention Week is observed, and every possible opportunity is offered the citizen to learn how he may do his part to prevent fire.

It is a duty and a privilege to do that. And it will save us actual dollars—everyone must help pay for the other fellow's fire. Perhaps it will save the lives of those close to us Give a little of your time to learning how easily fire hazards may be eliminated—then put in a little more time doing the job.

The Farmers Of Tomorrow

One of the more interesting phases of farm cooperative work lies in the encouragement and knowledge given young farm people.

Contests are held for livestock and crops raised by these budding farmers. Instruction is given them in scientific farming, marketing and distributing. Theirs is an opportunity that few of their forebears had.

The result of this is to better the outlook for the agriculture of the future—and to make it inevitable that the farmer of tomorrow will be a better crop scientist, a better business man, and more valuable citizen, than the farmer of yesterday.

"We note with interest that at Salt Lake City the keynote Republican speaker from Montana proclaimed that 'the Republican party should be neither conservative nor liberal.' Just so. That is what voters criticize. The party is neither fish, flesh nor fowl. It expects to get votes by avoiding issues and shouting criticisms of those who have dared to seek ways out from the economic morass into which Old Guard administartions led us."

D. W. Haskew

The hospital record of a prominent physician showed that he had performed one hundred thousand operations on the eyes of patients. He was asked how it was that he got started He replied: "Well, I made after eyes. If I saw a man or woman passing on the streets who had bad eyes I would seize them and push them into my office and operate on their eyes before they could protest." This physician had a passion to make men see. Another prominent doctor had a passion to make them walk and so performed operations on the limbs. The passion of a Christian should be to bring men to Christ. A soul winner should watch for opportunities to lead from darkness to light and from the paths of sin into the paths of righteousness.

The historian tells us of a tribe of people in Burma who bind metal bands about the heads of infants to prevent the growth of ther brains. The child must not grow a larger capacity for thought. They see to it that the brain capacity of a child is not allowed to expand. We have seen parents who are almost as uncivilized in their attitudes toward their own children as the tribe of Burma. To be sure the child's head is not bound with steel bands, but the life of the child is bound with the fetters of indifference. Thriftless, shiftless, laziness—all such things are moulded into bands of steel and they are bound about the child's life to keep it from expanding. Parents, are you binding the brains of your children.

A little lad of seven summers sat on the grandstand just in front of a Methodist preacher. He watched the two contesting teams with all of his attention until a young woman just in front of him took a cigarette from her case, lighted it and placed it between her lps. This lad saw the smoking of the white tube of death by the woman in front and his eyes were taken from the field of battle and riveted on the smoking "gal." He never saw anything more of the game until the female before him tossed the smoking stub of a cigarette to one side. I would have given a gold tooth to have been able to read the toughts of that little boy. It must have been his first time to see a girl smoke. May the good Lord grant that it would be his last time. If a smoking female could just see herself as others see her, she certainly would smoke no more.

Three donkeys were grazing in a three-acre pasture. One of the donkeys had pushed himself against the wire fence on one side and was reaching over grazng from the other side, while a like picture was to be seen on another side of the pasture. Two donkeys were grazing over the fence, while the third mule quietly grazed on his side. The human race, like these three mules, has come to conclude that the grass is greener and sweeter on the other side of the fence. Two-thirds of the human race know nothing about contentment, satisfaction and peace of mind. We want to get over the fence into territory that does not belong to us. We loose lots of good grazing while looking over the fence into the pasture that belongs to somebody else.

We sat on a log near the old camp meeting ground and listened to the sounds that came from near and far On one side we could hear a gathering of Chrstian people singing "O Happy day that fixed my choice on Thee, my Saviour and my God." While in the opposite direction we heard the coughing of one who was in the last stages of tuberculosis. As we listened to those two sounds we wondered what the Christian people would do about it. Would they sit and sing about their happy day and their happy choice, or would they get up and help the one in need. Religion that sits and sings is not much religion. Show the joy of your religion by helping others as Christ has helped you.

A CHRISTMAS PARTY

The ladies home demonstration club of Poplar Springs enjoyed a Christmas party given at the home of Mrs. G. B. Jones on Friday afternoon, December 6. A large number of members and visitors were present. There was a short program on Christmas and the birth of Christ given by some of the members. The exchanging of gifts, and everyone receiving a nice present was another entertainment. But the best of all was the refreshment committee serving cake, hot chocolate and popcorn candy which was enjoyed by all. The party broke about four o'clock. Everybody wishing the other a Merry Christmas.

The next club meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. L. Traywick on January 3, 1936. Be sure to come and bring someone with you. We are glad to say we enrolled some new members at our last meeting.

STATE FARMERS ASKING FOR NEW COTTON BASE

Auburn, Ala.—Reports from over Alabama indicate that farmers of the state are practically unanimous in their desire that a new base period be used for making allotments to individual cotton producers under the 1936 AAA cotton program, say members of the state allotment board here.

The growers desire that the year 1933-1934-1935 be used instead of the old period 1928-32. Over 100 producers, representing every county in the state, met in Montgomery recently and asked for the new base. Since that time the allotment board members have received a number of letters endorsing the new period.

If the allotments are made on the past thre years the producer's reduction for 1936 will not be made from the reduced acreage of 1933-35 but will be based on the acres in cotton before the plow-up program in 1933 and the actual planted acres of cotton plus the acres rented to the Secretary of Agriculture in 1934 and 1935.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS OFFERED CREDIT TO KEEP DAD'S RECORDS

Auburn, Ala.—To encourage more farm bookkeeping in Alabama, agricultural leaders here have decided to give 4-H Club boys and girls credit for keeping AAA rcord books for their fathers in 1936

In reporting this project for boys and girls T. A. Sims, 4-H club leader, emphasizes the importance of record keeping by stating that "farmers who do not keep records are unable to tell just where they stand. They may think they are making a profit when, actually, they are losing money."

EXTRA FINE TURNIPS ARE BROUGHT TO NEWS OFFICE

Tuesday morning of this week Lee A. Popwell paid the News office a most pleasant visit. He brought along with him some of the finest turnips we have seen in a long time. Come to think of it, we don't remember ever seeing turnips quite so large as the three he brought in.

At this writing we have not yet had the opportunity of learning just how good they taste, but we are happily looking forward to that pleasure.

Spending Out Of General Fund For 1935-36 Limited To $7,735,816

Montgomery, Ala.—In spite of hired experts and months of study, the recess committee of the Legislature dealing with revenues and appropriations failed by $4,732,955.56 per annum in balancing revenues with appropriations, and State Comptroller Charley Lee, in figures released Monday by Gov Graves, was forced to make a large cut in the budget for all State activities outside of salaries.

The gist of the action of Comptroller Lee was that the Legislature appropriated nearly $5,000,000 more per annum than the taxes will bring in.

Mr. Lee's estimates are made regarding the general fund of the State. He finds that the estimated disbursements as he calls them, but which are appropriations, will be fo rthe fiscal year 1935-1936 a sum of $12,468,772.33. He finds the estimated general fund receipts fo rthe year, including the cash balance on hand as of Oct. 1, 1935, will be $7,735,816.77.

There are two State functions that will be hit hard by the application of the budget law, education and health. While salaries, of employes of the State have not been affected by the budget, except those of school teachers, since the decision of Atty. Gen Albert Carmichael which held that the Tucker act making school teachers' salaries the same as the salaries of other state employes was unconstitutional, other non-essential expenditures of the State are directly affected. The gist of it is that unless the Legislature provides funds from some source, the schools of Alabama will close before the middle of February in all counties except two or three.

Education's Share

The educational department received its annual $500,000 appropriation from the 1935 Legislature. Under the budget proration the department will receive only $132,150. The schools receive only $132,150. The schools program. The budget cut of Comptroller Lee makes the schools receive on the minimum program only $835,412.10.

The budget as announced by Comptroller Lee and given out by Gov. Graves is subject to revision on April 1. But it is generally believed that there can be no considerable change on April 1 and that the budget will be only approximately 26 per cent of the appropriations for "non-essentials" made by the last Legislature which tried by an act to make the school teachers' services an essential function.

With all of the cuts made by the comptroller, education will receive from all sources in the fiscal year 1935-1936 a total of $7,551,257.57. This includes the current three mill tax, poll taxes, the educational trust fund and the cut from the general fund minimum program of $835,412.10.

Montevallo, Auburn and Alabama get some severe cuts in the budget. Instead of $205,119.98 for the year Alabama College will get $54,213.21. And as for Alabama, instead of $393,899.05 for the year, its draw will be only $104,107.51, and Auburn comes in for $87,853.07 instead of an appropriation of $332,399.05 The higher institutions of learning are wrecked, as it were, under the budget rearrangement. And all of the Normal schools suffer in proportion including Florence, Troy, Livingston, Jacksonville, Montgomery, Dalphne and the balance. There is not sufficient money coming in to pay them in spite of the snuff and tobacco tax, the drivers' licenses and all of the other increased taxes.

How Health Is Affected

How health is affected by the application of the budget may be seen by these figures: There was appropriated for county health work $202,900. Under the budget there will be available only $53,626 for that work.

Summing up the budget readjustment of Comptroller Charley Lee, there was an over-appropriation by the Legislature, after careful study at great expense by experts hired by the recess committee, of $4,732,955.56 and unless there is a curtailment in education and health, there must be an additional increase of taxes to this amount by the next extra session of the Legislature.

Figures from Virginia show that something over $4,000,000 a year is being netted from liquor and beer each year.

Highlights of Budget

Highlights in the bulky financial report to the Governor were:

1. Total appropriations against the general fund were $12,468,772.23; estimated revenue will be $7,735,,816.77; excess of appropriations over revenue, $4,732,955.56.

2. Departments listed as "essentials" which will not be affected by proration included: Governor's office, auditor's office, treasurer's office, secretary of State, attorney general, comptroller, tax commission, archives and history, Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, circuit judges and solicitors, military, insurance, banking, mining, convict department, child welfare, eleemosynary institutions, State Department of Education and Labor.

3. The State Health Department will receive all of its $197,100 appropriation for operation of its central offices at Montgomery but its $202,900 appropriation to aid county health units will be cut to $53,626.47.

4. Reductions on the higher institutions of learning included—University of Alabama, $393,899 to $104,107; Auburn, $332,399 to $87,853; Alabama College at Montevallo, $205,119 to $54,213; State Teachers' College at Troy, Florence, Livingston, Jacksonville and Montgomery (negro), $67,500 to $17,840.

5. Only 26.43 per cent of appropriations will be paid for vocational education, physical restoration, civilian rehabilitation, service for the blind, illiteracy fund, teachers' training and equalization.

"This means that the common schools cannot run more than five and a half months," said Dr. J. A. Keller, State superintendent of education, when notified of the budget announcement. "It means the common schools are coming up $2,500,000 short of their appropriations, and the higher institutions of learning from $600000 to $1,000,000 short, I haven't had time to figure the last out exactly.

"But it all means, we cannot run our schools beyond five and a half months."

At Christmas Time...

ALL ROADS LEAD TO HOME

Go home for the holidays if you can. The clasp of a welcoming hand, the sound of a friendly voice, are gifts of happiness that nobody should forego.

Time or distance, however, may prevent your visiting a few close friends and relatives whom you would so much like to see. Then all you have to do, as many folks have learned, is to let "long distance" bring you and your friends together for a voice-to-voice visit.

It doesn't matter whether you call on Christmas day or not, you will both get a real thrill from your telephone visit any time during the holiday season.

The pleasure you will experience from your visits by telephone is not expensive. For example, by using Station-to-Station service after 7 P. M., you can talk 150 miles for about 50 cents, and other distances for similarly low cost.

Your "long distance" operator will be pleased to inform you about rates to any point, and help make your holidays pleasant by giving quick connections to the friends you want to greet.

LETTER FROM J. C. EDWARDS

Editor, Chilton County News;

We read in John 8:31-32: If ye continue in my word then are ye my disciples indeed and ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free. There in the royal house of God, in the temple are wholy free from Satan Organization. One must know the truth and be in Christ Jesus and faithfully obey the Lord in order to be entirly free from Satan's Organization. But that has no reference whatsoever to liberty to exercise one's own selfish desires or will and go contrary to God's Organization instructions Those who insist on following their selfish desires and way and ignoring instructions, that proceed from the temple, put themselves outside the veil of God's favor.

Let no one think because he is in the truth he is at liberty to do as he pleases. He must do as it pleases the Lord and the Lord's will is expressed in His word. He is dealing through his organization and God has one way of doing His work. Not many Jehovah must be served with joy and not with complaining ills. A curse shall fall uoon those failing to properly serve Him. Sacrifices unto Him must be unblemished. There must be no compromise with or mincing of the things and practices of Santan's Organization with the work of Jehovah such as man worship, this being the sin of Samaria. We must obey in order to receive the gift of life.

J. C. EDWARDS.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank all relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown during hte short illness and death of my dear mother. Especially do I thank Dr. N. S. Johnson and Spigener for their kindness. May God's richest blessings rest and abide with each one,-is my prayer.—Mrs .A. D. Scott.

Although in the best of health William Currie of Shallow Lake, Canada. has arranged his funeral. He deposited $2 to be held until the time to rent a building for dancing and merrymaking.

Larger Consumption Of Cotton Expected

Larger world consumption of American cotton in the 1935-36 season than last season is now indicated, according to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Lower price of American cotton this year in relation to foreign growths, improvement in business activity, together with prospects for further improvement, and the replenishing of depleted stocks of American cotton abroad, are some of the factors that point toward larger consumption.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM DR. GRAGG IN FLORIDA

Editor, Chilton County News:

Please allow me a few lines to say to friends at home that I am feeling better already. The weather is not so much like summer as usual here, but I have improved very much and hope to be back almost by the time this is in print.

There is much evidence of the hurricane here. However, you don't hear the Florida folks say much about it, which is best, I suppose

I attended the air races and saw some good flying. There were more than 800 ships attending the meet Some ships and many people from foreign countries.

Several records were broken, enough to bring "air supremacy" back from France, who had taken it away from U. S.

One of the most noticeable things is the large airports in Florida, large fields, several hundred acres, well lighted, and with adequate hangars at every town of any size. More than a dozen such fields here in Miami. You meet aviation trucks on the road like our highway trucks at home.

I sincerely hope, when I return I will find that final arrangements have been consumated by our county authorities, whereby our county can have a worthwhile field.

Some of our people need the work and certainly can use the money given by Uncle Sam and the public will find the field needed for transportation amusement, relaxation, and a place to spend time in getting together in useful and interesting entertainment. Let's forge ahead—not fall behind

As before stated, I feel better and expect to be back, hard at work, in a few days. Best wishes to all

V. J. GRAGG.

Alabama Girls And Boys Win In Health Contest

The State Health Department has joined thousands of Alabama 4-H club members and their leaders in showering congratulations upon Miss Eloise Garrott, of Uriah, Alabama, and Mr Frederick Abel, of Gadsden, Alabama, for the unique honor they brought the State at the National 4-H club convention which has just closed in Chicago.

Those two young people went into a three-cornered and four-cornered tie respectively, for the title "the nation's healthiest" farm girl or boy. No other state in the Union gained recognition in both contests, and Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer for Alabama, was quick to felicitate Alabama's representatives.

"Every Alabamian should feel justly proud of the honors received by the girl and boy entered from this State in the National Health Contest of the 4-H club in Chicago," Dr. Baker said. "It is through the promotion of Health projects of the nature adopted by the 4-H clubs that aids materially in the improvement of personal health of the citizens of Alabama, and we congratulate the winners from Alabama who have gained national recognition."

Usually one boy and one girl are chosen from among all state winners and crowned "national champions." This year, however, competition was so close that the medical judges were unable to select a national champion of 4-H clubs representing 1,100.00 farm boys and girls throughout the country. Instead, they selected four boys and three girls and declared them blue ribbon winners.

The health contest is part of the 4-H club program and is sponsored by the farm and home demonstration agents in the various counties with the state and county health departments and educational forces co-operating.

Christmas Givers
Agnes Myers

"LUELLA," said her mother with a warning look, "take your hand out of those raisins and finish paring the apples for my pies."

"But, I've done most a bushel already," giggled the guilty youngster.

"S'pose you have! How many pies do you figure you children eat? Besides, Christmas time we have to have extras for folks coming in."

"Mercy me," she continued, "it's time for Joel to be home from the church bazaar! Look at that snow!"

Mrs. Dodge opened the cold closet and peered with secret delight at the fast filling shelves. Coffee cans filled with steamed plum puddings, a fine baked ham, frosted chocolate cakes a whole row of pies—pumpkin and mince; and a big bowl of cranberry sauce, skins and all.

"Sally, you better help Luella with the apples, we're almost finished with the baking; and now if your father would bring the turkey, I could stuff it tonight."

"Mother! Mother!" Shouted Joel, Bounding Into the House.

She glanced toward the kitchen window—

"My stars! Here comes old Emil Cooper! I'll just give him a jug of that new cider and a mince pie, when he's going home."

Mrs. Dodge had a bountiful nature. She anticipated Emil Cooper and the many other hangers-on, who always showed up around Christmas; while the supply of pies and puddings grew less and less as the visitors departed.

"Father's coming!" cried the children and they ran to the door excitedly to meet him, followed by Mrs. Dodge But a look of perplexity, almost distress, spread over her face.

"Where's the turkey?" she gasped.

"Fact is—" hesitated Mr. Dodge. "I I gave it to Ned Blake on the way home—for his poor family. Mother—I couldn't, couldn't help it."

"Well," sighed Mrs. Dodge, with a crest fallen face, "I guess they need it all right—and we still have the ham."

A light quick step sounded on the snowy porch.

"Mother! Mother!" shouted Joel, bounded into the house with a bundle larger than himself. "See! See what I have! I won the big 25-pound turkey at the bazaar!"

"Why son!" exclaimed Mr. Dodge, "that turkey is twice the size of the one we gave away!"

"DISPENSERS OF TRUE SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY"

New 1936 Corn-Hog Program Announced

Auburn, Ala.—The 1936-37 corn-hog adjustment contract has been approved and contract applications will be offered to Alabama farmers in January, Dr. L. N. Duncan, State extension director, has been notified by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The two-year contract, effective as of December 1, 1935, requires that the signer produce for market in 1936 at least 50 per cent of his market hog base and not more than 100 per cent of his base if he is to receive the maximum hog adjustment payment. The cooperating producer also must plant to corn at least 25 per cent of his corn base next year but not more than a per centage which is within the permitted optional range of 70 to 90 per cent of his corn base.

For complying with the hog adjustment provisons of the 1936-37 contract, the participating producer will receive his entire hog payment as soon as possible after final compliance has been checked after the close of each year. The 1936 rate will be at $1.25 per head for each hog in the base, less the prorata share of the local administrative expenses. Deduction will be made at the rate of $2.50 per head if the producer fails to raise 50 per cent of his base hog numbers and $5 per head if he raises more than his assigned base number.

Corn adjustment payments in 1936 will be made in two installments, about August 1 and December 31, at the rate of 35 cents a bushel multiplied by the appraised yield and the number of adjusted acres. Deductions wll be made for local administrative expenses as heretofore.

Estody Cody and Byrd Myers walked the 90 miles from their mountain home to Erwin, Tenn., to get married their grandmother accompanying them.

OVER $6,000,000 SENT STATE COTTON GROWERS

Over $6,000,000 have been paid to Alabama cotton producers this year in benefit payment checks, reports Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, in pointing out that checks continue to pour into the pockets of farmers who have not already received their payments.

Statistics show that 179,347 first rental checks for $3,552,658.65 have been distributed to farmers in 67 counties of the state and that 126,302 second rental checks totaling $2,501,181.66 have been sent to growers in 59 counties.

Bonnets must be placed upon their heads, and sometimes their hair needs curling. The Kiwanis Club of Clanton is helping, for the members know that Santa has a big job to get around to all the children. They don't want him to overlook anybody, and they say that even more help is needed.

Perhaps in your home there is some toy, some article that could be used in this work. J. Mell Martin and John Hollis are official representatives. If you have something that can be used, bring it to Mr. Martin's place.

For on Christmas morning they will go out to remember the "forgotten child." Perhaps these kindly visitors will not be wearing the famous red coat that Santa always wears; they may not even have the snowy white mustache, for they will only be representatives. But make no mistake, they are the real thing, for with them goes the kindly spirit without which Santa Claus would have died many, many years ago.

May their stock of toys hold out until the last little boy and girl in Chilton County is made happy is my Christmas wish to you, boys and girls.

FARM BUREAU

purpose "Building" and its motto "We Build."

Carrying out this purpose and living up to this motto we are attempting to build Clanton and Chilton County. There are many ways and forms of building.

We are interested in building better citizenship and better living conditions in Chilton County. Since Chilton County is a farming county we know that the success of the farmers determine the success of Chilton County, therefore, we are intensely interested in the farmers and their program of work.

It is common knowledge that we accomplish much more through organization than we do working as individuals. Practically everything worth while requires cooperation. Through organization you can: (1) Better promote your interest; (2' Better defend your interest and program of work; and (3) Better use the vocational agriculture and extension service workers whose purpose it is to help you.

We believe it would be to your interest to join the Chilton County Farm Bureau and help organized farmers to help you. This organization stands for many good things, a few of which are listed below:

1. First things first—God, Home, Humanity.
2. The upkeep of the soil a sacred trust.
3. Rural schools equal to the best anywhere.
4. A fair living wage through parity prices on farm products.

Local Party Attend Poultry Convention

Attending the recent Georgia-National Egg Laying Contest at Athens, Ga., were Cosby Hodges, of Montgomery, Aubrey Robinson, of Verbena, and L. A. Chemelle, operator of the Alabama Poultry Farm, near Calera.

They reported a very enjoyable trip and declared that they reaped much benefit from the exhibits at the contest. Greeted at Athens by Mr. Mitchell head of the Department of Poultry Husbandry of the University, these visitors were conducted through his poultry plant, where they saw scientific ideas being put into effect.

It was found that Jazz laying mash is given much credit for the outstanding egg production records at this contest.

Thorsby Institute News

Dr. Kimmey, County Health Officer of Chilton County, gave an interesting chapel talk on Wednesday morning, Dec. 11. He gave a sketch of the origin of the Plague, a dreaded disease that has visited many countries. The talk was especially interesting to the Bible students who have recently been studying about the early existence of this plague.

On Thursday morning, December 12 in chapel, an interesting "Alabama Day" program was presented by Miss Mattingly and members of her history class. The state song was sung, and a pledge to the state was read in unison.

The annual Christmas program was presented on Saturday evening at 7:30 under the direction of Miss Foss. It was a pageant entitled "Star Gleams."

The meaning of Christmas was brought out in a very impressive manner. It was one of the most beautiful Christmas programs that has been given at the Institute.

On Monday afternoon, December 16, a vote was taken by the student body for the "Good Citizenship" girl, whose name will be sent to the county superintendent, where names are drawn and sent to the state. Here the name of the girl to represent the state of Alabama is drawn and the winner will go to Washington for a week of sightseeing at the capitol with contestants from other states, sometime in April The trip is sponsored by the D. A. R. Organization. Miss Mary Louise Reinhardt was selected as the "Good Citizenship" girl to represent Thorsby Institute.

The faculty members were recently surprised with a large box of chocolates sent them by Mary Louise Bates Street, a former graduate.

School closes at 1:35 on Thursday, December 19, and opens again at 8:30 on Jan. 1

Durbin-Pattillo Wedding Is Solemnized

Marked by beautiful simplicity was the wedding of Miss Myrtle Durbin of Clanton, daughter of Mrs. Ola Edwards and the late O. C. Dubin, and William Higgins Pattillo of Billingsley .

The ceremony which was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, was attended only by close relatives. The Rev. A. S. Bentley of Plantersville read the impressive vows before an improvised altar of greenery arranged before the fireplace in the living room. The effectiveness of the greenery was further enhanced by soft candle light glowing from white tapers in white candlelabra.

The bride was strikingly lovely in a Lelong model suit, fashioned of normandy blue, with accessories of grey Mrs. Marvin L. Warren of Birmingham was her sister's only attendant The bride's corsage was of Johanna Hill roses and valley lillies. Mrs. Warren was pretty in grey moss crepe with a corsage of Lady Hillingsworth roses.

Immediatey after the ceremony the youg couple motored to points of interest in North Carolina.

Mrs. Pattillo was fomerly a popular student at Jacksonville State Teachers College. In 1934 she was elected the most beautiful co-ed. Mr. Pattillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Will Pattillo of Ballingsley, attended Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn where he was popular in student activities.

New Corn-Hog Program Is Announced

Details of the two-year adjustment program for 1936 and 1937 to be offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Admnistration to corn and hog farmers have been announced. The new contract, effective as of December 1, 1935, requires that the signer produce in 1936 at least 50 per cent and not more than 100 per cent of his market hog base if he is to receive the maximum hog adjustment payment. The maximum rate of benefit payments for 1936 will be $1.25 per hog in the market base. Deductions from the maximum will be made from payments to contract signers who produce less than 50 per cent of their market base number, or more than 100 per cent of that number. The cooperating poducer also must plant at least 25 per cent of his corn base next year, but not more than a percentage which is within the permitted optional range of 70 to 90 per cent of his base. Corn payments in 1936 will be 35 cents per bushel, times the appraised yield, times the adjusted corn acreage. The 1937 rate per bushel is to be not less than 30 cents, and is to be announced by November 30, 1936. Hog payments will be made, in one instalment, as soon as possible after final compliance check at close of each year. The 1937 maximum rate will not be less than the 1936 maximum. Provision is made in the contract for division of payments between landlords and tenants. Planting of soil-improving or erosion-preventing crops on the adjusted corn acres in addition to the area normally devoted to these purposed on the farm, is required.

Government Offers Tree Seedlings To Land Owners

Interested in reclaiming poor and badly eroded lands, the United States Government has made provisions to furnish thousands of tree seedlings to land owners throughout the nation. According to County Agent J. W. Fant, a quantity of these seedlings are now available to Chilton County and he is urging farmers of this section to take advantage of the government's offer.

Followig in a copy of a letter which Mr. Fant is mailing to practically all land owners in Chilton County:

The United States Government is furnishing Chilton County several thousand tree seedling and kudzu crowns to be planted on submarginal land—that is land too poor to produce cultivated crops profitably or too steep to cultivate.

These trees will be placed and planted by the boys from the CCC Camp. They will be furnished and planted without cost to the farmers of Chilton County.

There are many farms in this county that do not have trees enough to furnish wood. I would like to see every farmer who has none or an insufficient amount of woods to furnish wood to have a few of these trees.

Trees that make good fence posts are scarce. The old fat pine trees for making posts are about all gone. There should be trees growing on each farm to supply fence post. Black Locust makes the best wood posts known.

The Loblolly and Slash Pine are of quick growth and produce a good quality lumber. They grow faster and produce better lumber than the native short leaf pine.

There wll be a few Green Aash, Chinquapin, Red Mulberry and Persimons to giv out.

We have receive already, at the camp 150,000 pine seedling ready for planting.

TVA REJECTED BY FOUR CITIES

West Tennessee Officials Oppose 20-Year Contract

UNION CITY, Tenn., Dec. 4 (AP)—Officials of three West Tennessee municipalities meeting here last night declared themselves strongly opposed to accepting a standard TVA contract to supply electrical power over a 20-year period.

The three cities represented were Union City, Trenton and Dyersburg, each of which owns and operates its own electrical power plant. Approval of the contract by the trio is necessary for the TVA to complete a power loop of West Tennessee towns.

Robert Adams, city attorney of Trenton, said that under the proposed contract "TVA has both ends of the rope and the middle besides."

The greater part of the objections revolved about the 20-year clause.

Mayor W. M. Miles, of Union City, expressed disapproval of a long-term contract.

"If we could buy the power from TVA and sell it as we wish," he said, "it would be a different proposition. We, in Union City, wish to maintain our autonomy and sell power without government meddling. I never did like the idea of a man selling me something, and then telling me how I should use it."

Mayor L. D. Hammer, of Dyersburg, said "there is absolutely nothing in the contract that leaves anything whatsoever to the municipality.

"We are left no voice in the matter. None of us are opposing or upholding the TVA, but we are trying to do what is best for the people of West Tennessee, generally."

OBSTACLE FACES NEW TVA HOOKUP

Tennessee Towns Refuse To Abandon Plants

UNION CITY, Tenn.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority's proposed electric power hook-up of West Tennessee towns faced a barrier Wednesday that apparently threatened its completion.

The snag that has the TVA program for expansion blocked at least temporarily is the refusal of three towns to abandon municipally-owned power plants for the TVA system of distribution.

Union City, Dyersburg and Trenton stood firmly opposed to entering into a 20-year contract whereby they buy electricity from the TVA for resale to inhabitants. A fourth municipality, Covington, also is withdrawing its approval.

Acceptance by these four cities is needed by the TVA to complete a "loop" of towns.

Mayor W. M. Miles, of Union City, who has vigorously opposed a TVA contract, said at a meeting of city officials of Dyersburg, Trenton and Union City that his city wishes to "sell power without government meddling."

Mayor L. D Hamner, of Dyersburg, expressed the same thought, saying the contract left "absolutely nothing whatever to the municipality."

Officials of each of the towns said if they accepted the TVA standard contract they would be forced to increase taxes from 86 cents to $1.50 to cover revenues now obtained from the municipality-owned plants.

SOIL SAVING FURROWS LIKE LINES OF FIRE HOSE

Like long lines of fire hose at a third alarm fire, or miniature front-line trenches, contour furrows are beginning to stretch across hillside pastures in soil conservation projects of the United States Depatrment of Agriculture.

Typical of the specialized machinery being developed to conserve the nation's soil resources is the ingenious device in use on the Mankato, Kans., project. A U-knife slices a strip of sod some 4 inches deep and about 16 inches wide. Curved rods place the uniform strips, grass side up, on the downhill side of the furrow. An attached roller, slightly concave so as to give more pressure at the edges, packs the strip firmly into place. The machine is pulled by truck, team, or tractor.

Within a year or two grass covers the bottom and sides of the furrows, so that there is no loss of pasturage. Water that once ran away now soaks into the soil or creeps slowly along the serpentine furrows.

Contour furrows conserve moisture help to develop more permanent pasture, keep seed from washing away and promote a greater variety of vegetation.

"SOME INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING OUR CHILDREN AND THE HOME

"An analysis of the records of the Orphans' Home showed a population of 174 children on October 15th. These children have come from forty counties in Alabama, from Mobile Bay to the Tennessee Valley, from the Tombigbee to the Chattahoochee Rivers They represent eighty-one families. Most of the children come to the Home accompanied by brothers or sisters. There are only twenty-nine children without another member of their family in the Home. Only sixteen of these came to us alone; thirteen of them have brothers and sisters who have gone out to take their place in the world.

"The following table reveals the causes of death or disability which rendered the children's parents unable to care for them and necessitated their calling on the Home for care.

Physical Causes	Father	Mother
Tuberculosis	8	10
Insanity	4	9
Feebleminded	0	1
Pneumonia	11	3
Killed	8	2
Suicide	1	0
Died other disease	17	34
Ill health other disease	7	1
Social Causes	Father	Mother
Poverty	6	12
Deserted	12	3
Morally unfit	2	4
Parent working, no one to care for child	4	2
In Penitentiary	1	0
Total families	81	81

"All children have a thorough physical examination before they are admitted in order that contagious or infectious diseases may not be brought into the Home. When there has been tuberculosis in the famliy, an x-ray is quired to prove that the child is free of the disease. This is a protection to the child and to the other children in the Home.

"It will be noted that next to death, poverty of the mother ranks highest as the cause of children being given institutional care. The Trustees, recognizing the social principal that no child should be separated from his parents because of poverty alone. established in 1929 the Mother's Aid Department. Up to April, 1931, when the department had to be discontinued for lack of cash resources, fifty-six children and thirteen mothers had been cared for in their own homes. The Trustees feel that this is an important phase of the work for Baptist widows and orphans. and are praying for a Christmas offering sufficient to reestablish this department. Two mothers with four children are receiving temporary assistance now.

"We had five graduates from high school last spring. Margaret Welch and Lucille Wyatt have remained to work as assistant matrons and are attending the State Teache rsCollege. Lillian Thompson is attending a commercial college in Bowling Green, Ky. Lettie Pearl Nolan has entered training at the Baptist Hospital in Birmingham. Willie Ashley is on the approved list for the U. S. Navy and is waiting his call."

"According to promise, I will give a few facts and figures learned in regard to the Orpans Home while attending the State Convention, being appointed as a delegate by the Chilton County Association to repesent that body.

As we know, he Orphans Home is located at Troy, Ala., and that next Sunday, December 22, is set apart for the Christmas Cash offering for our children. Let me urge just here that all churches interested take this offering and forward same to J. O. Colfey, Supt. of the Home.

"The following might be of interest to all who have and expect to contribute. It requires for every breakfast 735 biscuits, 11 lbs. butter, 3½ gallons syrup, 17 gallons milk and when they have corn flakes it takes 16 boxes.

"M. LOCKHART."

The program last Friday afternoon celebrating "Alabama Day," which was last Saturday, December 14, was enjoyed by all.

Friday afternoon, December 20, there will be a Christmas tree here for all the pupils. Everybody bring a present for the names you drew. There will be a "Santa Claus" to deliver the presents. Everybody is invited to come and see Santa Claus.

We wish to thank Mr. Minor, Mr. Deason, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Sansom, for gathering here last Monday and firing the pump.

Our attendance was fairly good for last month. Still, there is room for improvement. Come on, boys and girls, and let's put Vermont at the top.

The 4-H Club girls met last Tuesday, December 10. The meeting was called to order by our president, Laverne Crane. The secretary, Willie Dean Ratliff, called the roll and read the minutes. The topic for discussion was "Background of a Bedroom." Miss Pardue made an interesting talk concerning this topic. The topic for next meeting is "Arranging Bedroom Furniture." Ruthie Nell Hayes' group will have charge of next meeting. This meeting will be on January 9, about nine o'clock.

The 4-H Club boys of Vermont Jr. High School met December 10. We are sorry Mr. Fant could not be with us.

Our local club leader, Mr. Hugh Shaw, made a very interesting talk on breeding and raising poultry. We have 32 members of our club, and are making good progress. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Woody Klinner.
Vice-president—O'Neal Lewis.
Secretary and treasurer—Thermon Milford.
Reporter—Allston Clinner.
Cheer leader—Hawie Sansom.
Song leader—J. D. Minor.

Our club will meet again on the 9th day of January. Hoping Mr. Fant will be with us.

YOUNG VOTERS BEING URGED TO REGISTER

President Of Local Unit Of Young Democrats Makes Statement

To the Young Democrats of Chilton County:

I wish to take this opportunity of urging you who are just becoming of voting age to take advantage of the opportunity before you in the next few days and register, so that you may exercise your privilege of expressing yourself in elections concerning your own government. Sometimes through thoughtlessness young men and young women become of voting age and let the opportunity of registering pass by without doing anything about it.

This seems to me a sad mistake when there are such vital questions to decide whch concern the welfare of us all. To those who are already registered voters, I would say that you have an opportunity of showing yourself a better citizen by reminding your friends who should register that now is the time to do it.

To members of the Chilton County Unit of the State League of young Democrats, I would say that perhaps your first duty and at the same time a privilege, is to do all you can in getting more young men and young women on the voting lists of our county.

On the shoulders of young people today are falling grave responsibilities. It presents an opportunity which we have not had before. That we have a united force for better government is necessary. Let us urge our friends to register. Explain to them that by so doing they are proving themselves better citizens and placing themselves in pohition to do something about the governmental matters that concern them.

Very truly yours,
WALLACE COX, President,
Chilton County Unit Young Democrats.

Not Too Late For Sending In Old Toys For Poor

Clanton has taken on an air of gayety during the past few days, as dozens of boys and girls return home from college for the Christmas holidays. On every hand is seen indications that Old Santa Claus is going to be given a grand reception when he gallops his reindeers into town. In fact few small cities in the South will be able to give him a more inviting reception.

But that is not all! The people of Clanton are gladly going about offering assistance to St. Nicholas that his supply of gifts and good cheer may not become depleted before he has reached every home in this section. As has been the custom for several years members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club are making arrangements to give Santa a lift.

All kinds of toys and other gifts have been gathered together and are being repaired for distribution by this organization. Funds are being collected to purchase other gifts for those children for whom Christmas might be a bit dull if some provisions were not made to help Santa Claus with his duties.

Senator Earle Thomas, president of the Kiwanis here, has charge of the Christmas Fund. All persons who have not contributed to this should see Mr. Thomas and do so. Even though your contribution perhaps could be no more than a dime or a quarter, it might be the means of keeping some child from feeling that he had been forgotten by the distributor of gifts. There are many who would never miss a small sum, and it should make Christmas a bit happier to know that you had been instrumental in carrying forward the command of "Peace on earth and goodwill toward men."

J. Mell Martin's office is headquarters for the collection of toys and similar gifts. Maybe there is , your home that you could give; or what about that tricycle for which your boy no longer cares; some little boy would like to have the rifle that Junior never bothers with these days; ah, that is a pretty doll—but it seems that Sarah Ann has lost all interest in it.

But there are children in this section—and many of them—that would dearly love those things. They would mean the difference between a dull, long lonesome Christmas Day and one filled with ecstasy and jubilation.

These men are urging every person in Clanton to cooperate in making this one of the brightest Christmases ever seen in Clanton You still have a few hours to join and make the party a huge success.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS PLAN BIG YEAR

CHANGE MADE IN OFFICIALS

Many Activities Are Planned For Coming Months In County

A county-wide meetng of members of the Chilton County Unit of the Alabama State League of Young Democrats was held Wednesday of last week at the courthouse in Clanton with music, speaking and various items of business on the program.

Two string bands furnished music for a variation of the program. Hon. Grover C. Walker, county solicitor and widely known attorney of Clanton, delivered a most inspiring address to the members of the League and their visitors.

Mr. Walker in his usual impressive and clean-cut manner, followed the history of the Democratic party from it's beginning up to the present day. He opened his address with preliminary remarks directed at the young voters of Chilton County and especially to the members of the local Unit, in urging them to get busy and bring their local organization into one of the most outstanding in the State.

He told of his experience in visiting the home of Thomas Jefferson and his tomb when he (Mr. Walker) was attending the University of Virginia. His address was enjoyed by those present who expressed themselves as being considerably enlightened on what the Democratic party stood for.

Included in the business attended to was the resignation of Billy Smith, publisher of the News as president of the local Unit. His resignation stated that due to a continual increase in his business activities and due to the increase in the activities of the League of Young Democrats, he was convinced it would be unfair to the organization for him to attempt to remain as president and direct the activities. Mr Smith, however, pledged his wholehearted and conitnued support of the organization, with expressions of appreciation for the vote of confidence given him on two occasions by members of the League.

Upon his resignation, Wallace Cox,

. Greetings .

——— to our patrons, our subscribers, our friends and to the people of Chilton County. We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the goodwill extended us during 1935.

Each year we have endeavored to extend and improve our facilities for serving our people and our county in every way. The year just closing has brought to this institution many improvements for which we are grateful. Grateful, because we realize that without the goodwill and cooperation of the people we could not have made progress and aided our county to go forward as it has.

Again, as another New Year approaches, we renew our pledge to strive at all times for those things that will tend to improve our county and the welfare of our people.

The News wishes everyone a very Merry Christmas — a time-worn wish, yet sincere .

"THE GIFT OF THE MAGI" AT METHODIST CHURCH SUN

Sunday evening at five o'clock local talent, under direction of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Waite, presented "The Gift of the Magi" at the Clanton Methodist Church to a large and appreciative audience. The Christmas theme with its beautiful legend of the Three Wise Men was most impressively portrayed.

The audience was deeply moved, and after the performance many expressions of praise were heard commending those who directed and those who took parts as the different characters.

Immediately following this, a White Christmas presentation of gifts for the orphanage at Selma was taken from the various departments of the Sunday School.

COTTON REPORT

There were 12,972 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned in Chilton County, from the crop of 1935 prior to December 1, 1935, as compared with 11,945 bales ginned to December 1, 1934.

Contest Was Success In Every Way Throughout

MANY NEW NAMES ARE ADDED TO LIST

The Chilton County News Big Subscription Campaign, which has been in progress for several weeks, came to a close at 6 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, and a short time later the winners of the two grand cash prizes were presented checks.

The Chilton County Home Demonstration Council was winner of first prize of $150.00 in cash, and second prize of $50.00 in cash went to the Isabella Parent-Teachers Association. Up to the minute the judges rendered their verdict it was impossible to tell which would be winner of the first prize. Although unofficial records had been kept of the progress of the contest, the bustle of the last few hours made it a matter of congesture.

With only 3,721 votes majority, the Chilton County Home Demonstration Council was winner of first award. In every way this was one of the most pleasant campaigns ever sponsored by the News and the management wishes to express sincere appreciation to everyone cooperating to make it a success. The management regrets that it was not possible to give prizes to every organization engaging in the contest. but takes this opportunity of extending the wish for a Merry Christmas.

Both the Home Demonstration Council and Isabella seemed to deserve to win first prize. During the recent days of the campaign, these organizations left other competitors behind by leaps and bounds and even an hour before the contest officially closed the race was too close for comfort. But a last-minute report from the Home Demonstration Counil gave this organization the edge.

The vote of the five leaders was as follows: Home Demonstration Council, 40,688; Isabella Parent-Teachers Association, 36,967; Verbena P.-T. A.. 13,183; Billingsley P.-T. A., 11,284; and Clanton Grammar School Parent-

TWO FORMER OFFICIALS TO DRAW $5,000

Former Sheriff And Circuit Clerk To Receive Back Fees Due Them

This should be a very merry Christmas for W. H. Gillespie, former sheriff of Chilton County, and J. Z. Mims former circuit court clerk.

At a special meeting of the County Commissioners Court Saturday afternoon, it was voted to transfer $5,000 from the General Fund into the Fine and Forfeiture Fund to take care of outstanding obligations to these officials During their tenure of office certain fees and other claims due them from the Fine and Forfeiture Fund accumulated to the amount of approximately 7,000. Two thousand dollars of this was paid recently.

About three years ago, $10,000 was transferred from this fund into the General Fund, making it impossible to pay claims held by Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Mims. A recent ruling from the State's attorney-general gave the Commissioners Court a legal right to retransfer this money back into the fund from which it was originally taken

The vote Saturday afternoon was as follows: Commissioners Duke, Atchison, and Bean voted in favor of the proposal to transfer $5,000 from the General Fund to take care of these claims. Com. Howard R. Oden did not vote.

For sometime this has been a question from which much contention has arisen. Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Mims naturally felt that they had a just right to expect payment for their services to the county; on the other hand the present county administration expressed the opinion that the depletion of the Fine and Forfeiture Fund was an error of the former administration. and its correction would result in crippling the outlined program.

Former Sheriff Gillespie appealed to the court to take this step that he and others having claims against the Fine and Forfeiture Fund might collect. He explained that he had made financial obligations with the expectancy of meeting them from these dues. It is understood that the $5,000 will be sufficient to pay present claims against this fund.

32 ADDITIONAL ACRES WILL BE BOUGHT HERE

Judge Smith Advised That Federal Monies To Come To County

At last it seems that the dream of a real airport at Gragg Field here will be realized. At a special session of the County Commissioners Court last Saturday afternoon, the members voted unanimously to appropriate money for the purchase of 32 acres of additional lands to bring the field to government flying field standards.

It was after Judge J. Lee Smith explained that he had been notified by Senator Hugo Black that $29,057.00 has been appropriated for the completion of this project, provided the county would take steps to secure additiional lands to increase the size of the field to meet standards required before the Federal Government would participate further. The 32 acres, upon which members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club has held an option for several weeks and which would have expired January 1 1936, can be bought for $2250.00, it is understood.

Judge Smith and all four of the commissioners declared that they considered it only a matter of good business judgement to invest this small amount when when it would result in bringing into the county $29,000. The vote was unanimous, with Com. Howard R. Oden making the motion which was seconded by Com. J.P. Bean.

Delegations have appealed to the court repeatedly to cooperate further in the development of the project, but until it was definitely known that this federal money was available they declared they had not thought it best to spend more money on this project With the purchase of this 32 acres will make Gragg Field contain 92 acres and will be sufficient size to land almost any type of transport ship.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, for whom the field was named, has been a tireless worker for the development of the project, and he has been ably assisted by other members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club. which has been intensely interested in the furtherance of flying facilities in this section.

Just when work will begin and what type of improvement will be begun first has not been learned, but it is understood that the federal appropriation is available and will be forthcoming as soon as officials in Washington have been notified of the action of the local commissioners. It is believed that this appopriatiion will be sufficient to improve the field and to also erect hangars, beacon lights, and other improvements.

Young Democrats To Have Dance Thursday

Arrangements are being made for a grand time at the Young Democrat's dance. which will be held Thursday night, December 26, at the City Hall in Clanton, according to announcement by Wallace Cox, president of the Chilton County unit of the organization.

With one of the best orchestras ever presented in Clanton, those in charge of arrangements expressed belief that this will be one of the best dances ever held here. The membership of the organization is made up of Chilton County's young men and women and every effort is being made, Mr. Cox stated, to have this event conducted in a manner to avoid any criticism. The public is invited.

According to those who attended the Pilot Club's Dance recently at the City Hall, this is an ideal place for the dance an deveryone is expected to have an enjoyable evening.

Periodic Motor Vehicle Inspection

Many automobile owners appear to lack sufficient pride and sense of obligation to keep their vehicles at mechanical par. This all too human failing is at the bottom of the growing realization of the necessity for periodic motor vehicle inspection.

The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters; long a leader in the automobile safety movement, urges periodic inspection as an effective means of making the streets and highways safer. John J. Hall, Street and Highway Safety Director of the National Bureau, points out that "inspection figures from states and cities which require that every car be inspected, reveal that three out of four cars examined are in inferior mechanical condition as respects safety features. Obviously, a car with inefficient brakes, defective or badly adjusted lights, poor tires, wheels out of alignment, broken windshield wipers, or defective steering mechanism, is dangerous. Inspection is necessary to determine where such danger lies and to bring about its elimination."

It is not necessary to wait for a state legislature to pass an inspection law. Any city or town can require such inspection. Memphis, Tennessee, has done this, using modern testing equipment and meeting all expenses through a fifty-cent fee. So have Evanston, Illinois, and Des Moines, Iowa. And the citizens liked it, asked for more. In the two and one-half months after its testing station opened, automobile fatalities in Memphis fell off 25 per cent from the figure for the corresponding period of the previous year, despite increased registration and gasoline consumption.

Periodic inspection of motor vehicles certainly recommends itself to the serious consideration of public spirited newspaper editors, public officials and all others who are seeking a solution of the automobile accident problem.

"Getting Along" Without The Railroad?

Eighteen months ago a railroad abandoned its branch line between Sioux City, Iowa, and Wynot, Nebraska, a distance of about 50 miles. The abandonment was made necessary by truck competition, which had caused the railroad to carry on operations on the branch line at a substantial loss for some time.

The trucking concerns serving the area assured interested townspeople and farmers that they could entirely fill any transportation need. This claim was taken into consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission in permitting the abandonment.

Here, according to the Minneapolis Grain and Feed Review are some of the results:

First, grain shipped from the affected area to Sioux City, thence to be sent east, was carried by railroads at 3 cents a bushel. Today the rate is 10 cents a bushel.

In the days of the railroad, coal was laid down in the farthest town on the branch line for 20 cents a ton. Today the truck rate is $2.00 a ton.

Real estate values in the railroadless area are at new lows. Town homes that cost $4,000 cannot find buyers at $500. Farm values have dropped from 50 to 75 per cent.

The branch line railroad paid $28,000 each year in taxes to local units of government. That sum has now been shifted to the remaining taxpayes.

This is no argument against trucks, in their proper field. It simply illustrates the fact that those who think an area can "get along without the railroad," don't know what they're talking about.

Sales Quota Back

"The Good Old Sales Quota Comes Back!"

So reads an announcement in box car letters that printers recognize as ninety-six point type, heading a glamorous full page advertisement in the metropolitan newspapers of the East.

It is a cordial welcome to the actual advent of better business; an almost delirious tribute, breathing confidence in every huge character, to the improvement in all lines that has occupied every waking moment of President Roosevelt and his working aides. It is at once an inspiration to all concerned in the restoration of normal economic conditions in the country and a bold challenge to those who from any motive would retard recovery.

It is a sincere, acclamatory encomium to the forces that have brought sunlight out of shadow after long years of despair; a lusty shout of thanksgiving for the restitution of dividends.

"With the upswing in business conditions," it begins, "sales executives are reviving the sales quota. They are calling their men in off the street, off the road, setting up new sales marks for them to shoot at."

"And" for example, "this year the public literally snapped up all the automobiles the factories were able to produce." Et cetera, et cetera.

There followed an assurance that alert business executives in the Atlantic area could not go wrong in patronizing the paper which sponsored the spread. This supplied what is called the utilitarian motive. And it is perhaps an interesting commentary on the complexities of present day political criticism that this ardent acknowledgement of the success of the Roosevelt administration's efforts to promote recovery bears the name of the Chicago Tribune. The President's friends can count upon no more blindly prejudiced and therefore totally unconvincing detractor of every policy he has pursued in his efforts to bring about trade revival than the Tribune, which now claims it.

What's Wrong With This?

"The overwhelmingly favorable vote of the farmers in every one of their referendums, above 90 per cent, should show that rabid opponents of the AAA who have claimed that the farmers themselves did not want these programs were somewhat in error, to put it mildly. While anti-New Dealers have been shedding crocodile tears over the 'goose-stepping' required by Triple A, the farmers of the Nation have been receiving more than a two billion-dollar increase in the price received for their products; industrial payrolls have steadily risen more than 52 per cent, and the cost of living generally has gone up only 13 per cent. What on earth is wrong with this picture?"—Oregon City Enterprise (Ind.)

"An interesting aspect of the appointment of J. Kenneth Bradley of Westport to organize the Young Republicans of the nation is the sly side-tracking of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who had appointed himself chieftain. It is a distressing blow following so close on Young Teddy's unwary tumble into the booby trap that Senator Borah set for him. He is a lot easier to block out of political plays than was his illustrious father."—Waterbury Republican.

There is little hope of decreasing the divorce rate until married people learn to lie more convincingly.

MORAL ECHOES

A Scotchman climbed into the street car with a heavy suit case and was greeted by an Irishman conductor. An argument arose over the dime fare charged by the company. The Scotchman thought that a nickle was too much and a dime was robbery. The argument became heated and while passing over a river the Irishman grabbed up the Scotchman's suitcase and flung it out of the window into the stream. At sight of this the Scotchman lost his temper and told the Irishman that it was all right for him to want his dime for fare, but when he stooped low enough to drown his six-year-old boy for a nickle that was carrying matters too far. It developed that the Scotchman was carrying his six-year-old son in his suitcase to avoid half fare. If you want to stir the wrath of any man just touch his money bone. The Scotchman is not the only man who wants things at a bargain.

While at Conference I saw a sight that touched my funny bone. A very prominent D.D. was asked to preach. Being far down the line with age this doctor of Divinity had lost his natural teeth and had been furnished with an artificial plate. This plate did not fit so well and the preacher pulled his plates out in the pulpit and proceeded to preach without teeth. I never understood another word that the man said after taking out his teeth. His chin and his nose seemed to play tag and his words mixed up like the sound of summer thunder. To be sure the sermon would have been better if the preacher had preached with his teeth. Do not understand me to say that this was the only sermon that I have ever heard that did not have teeth. We have all heard sermons that had no teeth and they were very poor sermons, both for the preacher and the hearer.

A high school student stood before his father and said "Dad, I want to see you in your office today." The father said, "All right, son, meet me at two o'clock this afternoon. At the appointed time the boy was ushered into his father's office. He was motioned to a chair across the desk and father and son sat down. For a moment nothing was said, then the boy fixed his eyes on his father's face and asked, "Dad, what do you know about God?" Then the father replied, "Very little, my son, but this I do know, He always makes good on everything that He said that He would do." The boy arose and said, "Thank you, father," and walked out of the room. What an answer that father made. It settled the question that disturbed the boy's mind and he went out to live for God. God always makes food in everything that He says that He will do.

I met a friend of, many years ago and I was not certain as to the year when we last saw each other. This friend put me clear by reminding me that it was on the 10th day of May, 1918, the day that she was carried to the hospital for a serious operation. With the most of us our black letter days are retained vividly in mind, while we forget all about the red letter days. Life is often dated, not from A.D. but from our financial losses, our spells of sickness, or from our attacks of rheumatism. Why not learn the fine art of dating life from our blessings and from our happy experiences?

On the front porch a mother is sitting with her mending in her lap. The little ones are in the yard playing The smallest has grown tired and fretful and suddenly it makes a run for mother crying as though its little heart will break. The mother draws it up into her arms and pillows the sobbing face in her bosom and talks to it in baby language which means nothing but "Hush, my darling, Mother loves you." Soon the tears are dried, and the sobs are over and the child is resting peacefully in mother's arms Many a time have I witnessed a newborn babe in the kingdom become discouraged over what is being done in the Kingdom of God. They become fretful and sad. They need to rush to the arms of God and let Him, like a tender mother, love and lift them back into joy and contentment. When you grow tired and weary and things do not go well, rush into the Bosom of Christ.

Small Corn-Hog Farmer Eligible

Auburn, Ala. — F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist in charge of the AAA corn-hog production in Alabama, has received information from headquarters in Washington stating that a farmer with a corn base of 10 acres or more, or a market hog base of 6 hogs or more, is eligible to receive a corn or hog adjustment payment under the two-year corn-hog contract.

A contract signer with a corn base less than the required 10 acres, however, may receive a hog payment if he has a market hog base of 6 or more hogs, AAA officials point out. Likewise, a man with a market hog base of less than 6 hogs may be eligible for a corn adjustment payment.

If a contract signer's corn base is less than 10 acres and e wishes to receive a hog payment he must agree not to increase his corn acreage above his base. For example, if his base is between 10 and fifteen acres he may either make an adjustment and receive payment or obtain an exemption from adjustment and agree not to increase his corn acres above his base. This will enable a producer with a small corn base who needs all corn produced on his base acreage to participate in the program by making the necessary adjustment in his hog production.

A signer with a market hog base of less than 6 hogs may make an adjustment in corn acreage and receive a corn payment if he agrees not to produce hogs in excess of his market base. And if his base is between 6 and 15 hogs he may either make an adjustment and receive a hog payment, or not produce hogs in excess of his base and receive no hog payment.

Irish Potato Growers Notified Of Potato Act

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama producers of Irish potatoes for sale should get in touch with their county agent immediately so the agent may take the proper steps to obtain tax exemption stamps for each potato grower in the states advises W. H. Robertson, state potato agent for Alabama.

"It is absolutely necessary that you determine, within the next week, if there are any potatoes raised for sale in your county," writes Mr. Robertson to each county agent in the state. The 1935 potato act, passed by Congress, provides that a tax of 75 cents per hundred pounds be collected on all potatoes sold, except such poundage as may be allotted to the farmer and for which stamps are issued."

S. J. M. WEBB WRITES ON DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOLS

Something that I feel should appeal to the interest in generaly to the people of Chilton County and Alabama as well. most of us have read or either heard quoted the verse of scripture which reads thus: "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." So in this connection I give you these figures: There are 85 denominational colleges and schools in Alabama as follows:

	White	Negro
Methodist	5	4
Baptist	3	4
Congregational	1	4
Catholic	25	1
Presbyterian	0	4
Lutheran	0	31
Adventist	0	2
A.M.E. Zion,	0	1

Two of these schools are found in Chilton County, one at Thorsby, which is a white Congregational school, and the other at Maplesville, which is a Lutheran Negro school.

Now I wish to say that I am glad and very glad for any and all people, old and young, to have a religion which will make more Christ-like men and women, boys and girls, and wish to say to you to go forward. I have no criticism whatsoever to offer and now since being a Baptist myself, and for the reason only, is that I read in my Bible that Jesus Christ was baptized by John in Jordan. It also reads: "Repent, Believe and be baptized and thou shalt be saved." It reads further: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature and he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Again it reads: "Go ye therefore and teach all nations baptizing them in the name of the Father and lo, I am with you even unto the end of the world."

Purely unselfish and without the smallest degree of prejudice, I wish to appeal to all Baptists in the strongest terms possible to wake up if we are for Christ. Let's, as the children of Israel did under Nehemia, work with one hand and hold our weapon with which to fight in the other. That weapon is the Bible, the word of God. If we do this we will win for God as did the children of Israel. Again, I say, let's wake up. I am praying God's richest blessings on all and that God will bring all in closer touch with Him that we may better know His will and be able to follow Him closer.

JUDGE REYNOLDS MENTIONS THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

Edtor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

Christmas brings to us three important considerations: charity, thankfulness and hope. The spirit of giving, of tolerance and friendliness. We are thankful for our old friends kept and for new friends we have made and we should be thankful for the opportunity to serve. With the New Year brings renewed hope, we should all set resolutions to do better next year than we have done in the past and try to make the world better for having lived.

The people of Chilton County deserve many compliments for what they have done during the past few years of the depression. There are many things that I could mention, but space and time will not permit. Our county has gone forward and the many evidences of progress and prosperity serves to demonstrate that there is no better anywhere.

Wishing the people of the county a good, old-fashioned Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year, I am

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

By foreign check is meant any check drawn on any bank other than either of the banks in Clanton. This charge will be one-eighth of one per cent or $1.25 per thousand dollars with a minimum charge of ten cents per check regardless of amount.

This action is necessary in order to meet the requirements of Regulation Q, Section I, Paragraph F of the Federal Reserve Act which prohibits the payment of interest by banks on accounts other than Savings Accounts and time Deposits. This exchange cost has always existed but has been absorbed by the banks heretofore. Phil Baker Burns Midnight Oil

Phil Baker is looking forward to the time when he can get eight hours sleep sometime between supper and breakfast. Meanwhile he finds himself steadiily occupied with burning the midnight oil, a habit generally considered to be exclusive prerogative of beetle-browned students and determined laboratory workers eagerly engaged in the pursuit of knowledge.

The accordion-playing comic, or the comic accordion-player as the disrespectful Beetle would describe him, never begins working on his "Great American Tourist" programs until eleven o'clock in the evening. It is only then that his house is quieted down sufifciently—even though he lives in the country far removed from the bustle of Broadway—to permit to concentrate on his labors.

"Writing a comedy script is like solving a complex geometrical problem," explains Baker, "It consists of much more than thinking up a batch of jokes (which is hard enough). In our sketches, for example, when we kid well-known plays or movies, we have to be just as careful in building our plots and developing our characters as the playrights were in the first place. Listeners are apt not to pay much attention to the settings for gags, because they are chiefly interested in the pay-off. Often it takes longer to work out the situation leading up to the punch line than it does to originate the wisecrack itself."

Writing and re-writing far into the night is a bad enough grind, but if you happen to be as superstitious as Phil Baker, it is much work. At 3:00 A.M., one day last week, he had completed what he thought was a pretty good script and decided to read through it one again before knocking off. Discovering to his horror that it came to thirteen pages, he sat up two more hours to add another sheet and avoid the evil number.

ALABAMA'S NEW PATROL MAKING GOOD START

-o-

"Alabama's Gentlemen Highway Patrol" Composed Of Seventy-Four

-o-

Alabama's "Gentlemen Highway Patrol" composed of seventy-four (74) enthusiastic members started on an intensive training school with the opening of a three-day lecture course by Special Agent W. A. Smith of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. Instructions were in the form of lectures delivered at intervals during the three-day period. Mr. Smith explained in detail the "Set Up" of the Fedreal Bureau of Investigation and how the Federal Bureau could aid the Patrol. The Bureau plans for the maximum of efficiency in law enforcement through the cooperation of the local, State and Federal authorities.

Following the instructions of Special Agent Smith who was sent from Washington by J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigatiion, the American Red Cross had its representative from Washington to give a complete first aid course for a period of three days. The members of the Highway Patrol were told what to do and what not to do in case of accident before medical aid could be secured. Human anatomy block circulation and treatment of broken bones were discussed in detail.

The Patrol members were given an examination on all matters covered in the three-day lecture course by J.O. Speed of Birmingham Special Field Representative of the Red Cross.

Judge Walter B. Jones and Solicitor W.T. Seiibles addressed the school the latter part of the week on cooperation between the Judge Solicitor and the Patrol and then took up the matter of "evidence" and testimony.

Also practical instructions were given in motorcycle operation and the mechanics of the machine.

It is the opinion of the Governor that these men will be thoroughly trained before they go on the highways of the State of Alabama and at the present twenty-five (25) members of the Patrol have been assigned to the Automobile Department of the State Tax Commission. These men will check the names of the persons to whom the tags were issued against the drivers licenses and those who are found not to have secured their driver's license will be called on by members of the Patrol.

Chief Walter K. McAdory feels that the Patrol has gotten off to an excellent start and is very optimistic over the saving of human lives through these "Guardians of Public Safety on the Public Highways."

PEACH TREES REQUIRE SPRAY DURING WINTER

Auburn, Ala.—To produce good peaches next year farmers should spray their trees during the winter months for the control of scale insects and leaf curl.

"Before spraying, the orchard should be pruned, takng out all dead trees, dead branches, and cankered areas advises Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station "This will result in a considerable saving of spray material.

"Oil emulsion spray should be used thoughout the state for the control of scale when the infestation is severe," he says. "In north Alabama where peach leaf curl is common, and in cases of light infestations of scale, commercial lime-sulphur often will give satisfactory control of both."

For preparing the winter spray materials a farmer should use 2 1-2 gallons of oil emulsion or 6 1-4 gallons of commercial lime-sulphur for each 50 gallons of water.

"Oil sprays should be applied after the leaves have fallen in the fall and before the buds have begun to swell in the spring. Lime-sulphur for control of peach leaf curl should be applied during the same period," advises Dean Funchess. "This disease cannot be controlled if this material is applied after the buds have begun to swell."

Evergreens Need Water Before Freezing Time

Auburn, Ala.—All evergreens will withstand the cold weather of the winter months much better if given a thorough watering before the ground freezes, advises Homer S. Fisher extension landscape specialist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mulching the plants either with well-rotted manure, decaying leaves, or peat moss is an added precaution. The mulch helps to keep the water in the soil longer and keeps it from freezing as soon a the surrounding soil freezes.

Mr. Fisher says that proper care of ornamental evergreens pays, since they are the most expensive type of plant materials, and the most conspicuous and useful, particularly in winter.

Use Sleigh Bells for Jolly Christmas Game

HERE is a new and exciting game to play at a Christmas party. First borrow a set of sleigh bells. They are not as easy to find as in the old days. Find a string with tuneful, varying notes if you wish the game to jingle to the full measure of holiday fun.

The idea is simply this: It is possible to suggest, then control the action of a person who does not know what is in your mind, but must find out through the sound of the bells. Here is the way to do it:

Send one of the guests from the room. The remainder decide what he must do. For instance—go to a certain table, pick up a book, take it to another table and place it near the lamp. Here are four separate acts in succession.

The person outside is called back. Somebody has been chosen to be the manipulator of the bells. He must use a nice judgment in using them, ringing softly when the act approaches what is in the minds of all; ringing loudly as the perplexed player moves away. Try it. Use subtle gradations of sound to guide your experiment. Without a word being spoken he will at last be guided to do what has been secretly agreed upon. Loud ringing when he is far from his goal or going from it, soft, soft, barely audible when he is near the doing of what is required.—Martha Banning Thomas.

Christmas Bells! and Joyous Wedding Bells!

CEDARVILLE! Cee—dar—ville! With a jerk the great Christmas train came to a stop and the next moment Sylvia and Bob were filing their way through the happy, smiling Christmas passengers laden with parcels, boxes, suitcases and good will! Christmas! Christmas everywhere!

Off they hopped and hurried through the blinding snow storm to the house on the side of the hill, the old familiar homestead of Sylvia Bronson. There it stood in its snowy coat and Christmas welcome—much the same as when she had left it but a year before.

"Just think, to be married on Christmas, Bob. The grandest day in the whole year. Isn't it wonderful? Let's hurry, I can hardly wait to see Mother!"

Bob acquiesced by a tighter grip of Sylvia's arm and a genial smile of understanding.

Stamping and brushing the feathery flakes from them, they opened the door and were almost smothered with greetings and shouts of "Merry Christmas" from the whole family.

What a sight! Christmas bells! Wedding bells!

The tree itself was one glittering mass of lights and miniature bells—bells of gold and bells of silver. Even beneath its branches stood a huge bell-shaped container simply loaded down with Christmas gifts—wedding gifts—all for this one night of nights!—Alice B. Palmer.

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Winceslas, immortalized in the well-known carol, was really a Bohemian prince who died in A. D. 935. His name should properly be spelt "Wenceslaus." He was famous for his great kindness to the poor and needy. When, in September, A. D. 935, he was killed by his brother, Boleslav, the people of the country were heartbroken. He is still regarded as their patron saint.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Christmas Presents to Suit Individual Tastes

BERTHA NEVINS and her best friend, Mary Parks, were discussing Christmas. "It's absurd, Mary," Bertha was saying, "for two grown women to spend quite a lot of money, as we do each year, for foolish presents."

"But, Bertha, we have no families, and it wouldn't seem like Christmas at all—"

"Oh, we'll exchange gifts, of course, darling. Only I think since we have been good friends for so long, we should be perfectly frank about what we want."

"You have something in mind," Mary smiled, and as Bertha agreed—"Well," she continued— "so have I. Something I've wanted for ever so long."

"What?" asked Bertha.

"Guess. It is to put in my living room, near the window. The main part is small, and the outside needn't be large—"

"What is it made of?"

"Wood, usually, and metal. Metal wires, anyway. And it will be company for me—"

"To have sweet melody floating on the air. Am I right? And the color doesn't matter so long as it has a clear tone?"

"Why, yes, but how did you guess so quickly?"

"Because I wanted exactly the same thing for just ages. I'll give you one and you give me one!"

But what Christmas brought to Bertha was a radio, while Mary got a cage and canary.—Helen Galsford.

HE CAN'T BE FIRED

The present tendency to refuse employment to men beyond middle age has no terrors for John Hyland, a Harlem negro, who has a life job as "superintendent" of the Empire theatre in New York.

John has been an attache of the Empire so long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. He was on duty opening doors of carriages for prominent playgoers before John Drew, Maude Adams and Ethel Barrymore became stars.

When limousines took the place of carriages, old John opened the limousine doors. Through the years he was the soul of politeness and obliging service. But finally advancing age made it necessary to replace him with a more active man as door opener. And to the credit of a kindhearted manager let it be said that John was not thrown into discard. On the contrary, he was promoted to the position of "superintendent," with few duties ordinarily, and none at all if he doesn't feel like working.

Furthermore, it was provided that each new lease of the theater contain a clause that John shall retain his job, whether he is able to work or not.

And old John is still as obliging and polite as of yore. To each new manager he explains: "Ah goes wid de lease."

NINE WAYS TO INCREASE POULTRY PROFITS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers can increase their winter poultry profits, advises John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, in offering the following suggestions:

1. Keep a good laying mash before hens continuously.
2. Confine birds to house until noon every day.
3. When it is very, very cold or rainy
4. Feed moist, crumbly mash every day. When weather is cold use hot water or hot milk to dampen it.
5. See that the house and birds are free from mites and lice.
6. If at all possible use artificial lights to stimulate feed consumption.
7. Watch the body weight of the hens. It must be maintained or birds will show neck molt.
8. Feed 1 pound Epsom salts to each 100 hens once a month. Give it in wet mash—not in the drinking water.
9. On cold or rainy nights use curtains (feed sacks) to close open wire front. Use pole or pipe at bottom and fasten securely so they will not blow back and forth and thus scare the chicken.h

SPEAKING OF CONGRESSIONAL TIMBER

(From The Prattville Progress, Thursday, Nov. 14, 1935)

Pete Jarman was a visitor to Prattville for a short while yesterday afternoon and received a warm welcome from his many friends.

Pete is one of the most popular men in Alabama's public life. For eleven years he was a state examiner and worked in many counties of Alabama. As evidence of the friends he made during that time, in 1930 he was nominated Secretary of State in the first primary over two opponents.

In 1934, in a race for Congress from the sixth Alabama district against Hon. W. B. Oliver, of Tuscaloosa, M. Oliver was elected with approximately 2,000 majority out of 23,500 votes. It is generally understood that Mr. Jarman will again be a candidate for Congress from his district next year.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

LIGHTING AND SAFETY

According to the National Safety Council, which recently conducted a survey of four states, about 35 per cent of all night automobile accidents are due to insufficient street and highway lighting.

That this is a conservative statement is indicated by the experience of Detroit, when the need for municipal economy caused a drastic curtailment of street illumination. The result as stated by Superintendent Schreuk of the lighting department was that while fatal accidents in daytime decreased 22 per cent, night fatalities increased 23 per cent, during a period of 10 months.

Aside from the loss of life and limb involved in the additional accidents. it was found that handling these extra emergency cases cost the city more than the saving in its light bill, so the former lighting was restored to virtually its former level.

This illustrates that economy measures, which are being demanded practicaly everywhere just now, may some times be costly, if added dangers to the public are created thereby. This is especially true with respect to matters affecting traffic safety, fire protection and the public health. It is estimate dthat traffic accidens alone now cost the American people about two and a half billion dollars every year.

SIMPLE METHOD GIVEN FOR THROWING BULLS

Auburn, Ala.—When a bull or ox has to be thrown off his feet he should be thrown so that the animal nor the thrower receives injuries.

A simple method for doing this is recommended by Dr. I. S. McAdory, acting state veterinarian. It is known as the Rueff's method and is described as follows:

Use a rope about 30 feet in length at one end of which is a loop that is passed over the horns. Then pass the rope between the horns, run along the neck and make a turn around the neck just in front of the shoulder; pass the rope over withers, where it makes another turn around the chest; and then run along the back until it makes a thrd turn around the flanks. The free end of the rope is then carried back on either the right or left side of the hind quarte, the side depending upon which side of the animal is desired up. One assistant controls the head of the animal, while two others pull the rope backward steadily and without jerking so as to compress the body. In a few seconds the animal will lie down quietly.

The front legs should be tied with a rope and pulled forward and the rear limbs tied and pulled backward of near Clanton and son of representative Cox, automatcally became president, having been serving as first vice-president. Mr Cox took over the presidency of the local Unit with splendid plans for the future of the organization and members of the League pledged their support to him.

Mr. Cox has already started his plans for the coming months. These include a holiday dance for the League to raise funds, and the observance of the nation-wide Jackson Day dinner which will formally open the 1936 campaign for the Democrat party in the United States. This dinner will be held on January 8th at the same time something like three thousand will be held over the nation.

Membership cards for the year of 1936 were also issued at the meeting with a large number of members paying the annual dues of fifty cents.

Due to the resignation of Mr. Smith as president, a vacancy was caused in the office of second vice-president, after Donald Merchant of Thorsby was moved up to the place of first vice-president. This vacancy was filled by the election of T. B. Deramus, well known business man of Verbena. Mrs. Deramus was recently appointed national committeewoman from Alabama to the National Convention of Young Democrats.

The Educational Department with its staff is showing an interest that is commendable of any camp. They are on the job day and night and their achievements are easily detected. The reading room installed under the supervision of this department is the show place of the camp and has received an unlimited amount of favorable comments. This department supplied the mess hall, recreation hall, and other buildings with curtains that have added to the attractiveness of them. A Christmas tree has also been placed at the entrance which makes the Xmas spirit prevail among the members of the company.

In the way of heath our camp has had the honor of being at the top in the District, this being due to our very efficient Medical officer, Lt. W. C. Golden. Lt. Golden is in close contact with the men at all times, thereby being able to detect any minor ailments and use the necessary precautions to prevent further complications.

In the field the crews are showing very rapid progress considering the actual number of days worked and lack of experience in the art of soil erosion. In seventeen days of actual field work approximately 7,000 feet of ditch has been dug; 1,000 square yards of dirt has been handled in gulley treatment and 100 permanent dams have been built wth cement and rocks. The men have collected 500 bushels of pine cones. We will receive within a very short time approximately 700,000 plants, consisting of pines, black locust and kudzu. These plants will be distributed among the farmers of Chilton County and will be planted by the men of the camp without cost to the farmer. Wonderful cooperation is being given us by the County agent, Mr. Fant, who has, with the help of the boys just mailed 2,000 letters through the county explaining the planting program.

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. O. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."
